Regulatory: To protect consumer interests by regulating the maximum prices charged by manufacturers for patented medicines to ensure that they are not excessive. The PMPRB's mandate extends to all patented drugs, prescription and non-prescription medicines sold in Canada for human and veterinary use.

Reporting: To monitor and report annually to Parliament through the Minister of Health, on its price review activities, the price trends of all medicines in Canada and on the ratio of research and development in the patented pharmaceutical industry in Canada.

Legislation

- Patent Act
- Patented Medicines Regulations, 1994

Organization

The Patent Act provides that the Board is to consist of no more than five members, appointed, on a part-time basis, by the Governor in Council, including a Chairperson and Vice-Chairperson. The Board's Chairperson is designated under the legislation as the Chief Executive Officer of the Board and is granted authority and responsibility to supervise and direct the work of the Board, including the management of its internal affairs and the work of its staff.

The Executive Director manages the work of the staff. Senior staff consists of the Director of Compliance and Enforcement, the Director of Policy and Economic Analysis, the Director of Corporate Services, the Secretary of the Board and Senior Counsel.

The Staff provides an information and education program, data collection, storage and dissemination, economic and scientific analysis, case preparation and related services for the registry and administrative assistance to the Board. It also provides for hearings prior to the making of remedial orders by the Board.

Compliance and Enforcement Branch

The Board's patented medicine price review activities are central to the fulfilment of its Program objective which is to ensure that prices charged by manufacturers for patented medicines are not excessive. The price and Research and Development (R&D) information gathered by the Branch forms the basis of the Board's Annual Report to Parliament. The Branch is responsible for the implementation of the Board's Voluntary Compliance Policy and Excessive Price Guidelines. That policy includes ongoing review and analysis of prices of all patented medicines sold in Canada through evaluation of patentee submissions required under the Patented Medicines Regulations, 1994, specific Board directions (i.e. Guidelines) and other sources of price and scientific information as well as analysis of complaints respecting patented medicine prices. The Branch manages the application of the compliance and enforcement policy in cases where the prices are outside the Guidelines. In addition, the Branch oversees the analysis of R&D expenditures by pharmaceutical patentees.

The Branch also researches and analyses information and provides technical advice to support the development of Board policy and procedures.

Policy and Economic Analysis

The Branch is responsible for policy analysis and development, consultation, economic research and studies conducted by the PMPRB. In doing so, it liaises with other federal departments and agencies, the provincial and territorial governments and international agencies to obtain and share information on the regulation of drug prices and pharmaceutical research and development.

The Branch also provides economic expertise and conducts research studies to support the Board's mandate of reporting annually to Parliament on the price trend information of all drugs in Canada and on research and development conducted by patentees in Canada.

At the request of the Minister of Health, the Branch carries out detailed analysis and reports on price and expenditure trends, price levels and cost drivers to provide useful decision support tools and information to assist provincial and territorial drug benefit plans to better understand and manage public spending on medicines, as well as to provide greater transparency to the public on the prices and cost drivers that they face.

Corporate Management and Services

This group consists of three branches – Corporate Services, Secretariat and Legal Services.

The Corporate Services branch is responsible for the management of the Information Systems; the delivery and application of government-wide programs and policies in the area of official languages, finance, administration, internal audit, personnel, security, occupational health and safety; and, is charged with the development and evaluation of strategic activities within the Board.

The Secretariat is responsible for managing a wide range of communications and information services, legal registry and support services to the Board. The Secretariat is also responsible for Access to Information and parliamentary affairs.

Legal Services provide legal advice to the Board on its operations and legislation.

Port Alberni Port Authority

Chapter 109

General Information

Background

The Port was initially established in 1947 and as a Harbour Commission was governed by the Harbour Commission's Act of 1964. Port Alberni Port Authority is a continuation of the Harbour Commission and was proclaimed July 1st, 1999 pursuant to the Canada Marine Act, which received Royal Assent on the 11th day of June 1998.

Port Alberni Harbour is one of the finest deep sea inland harbours on the North American Continent and is the closest deep sea port to the Pacific Rim. Vessels up to and including panamax size can easily navigate the Alberni Inlet.

Responsibilities

Port Alberni Port Authority is responsible for both the day-to-day operations of the harbour, and the long term development and improvement of the waterfront facilities, including recreational marinas and secondary industries to the extent that these activities are specified in the Port Alberni Port Authority Letters Patent. The Port Authority is committed to working with the Community towards economic diversification.

Legislation

- Canada Marine Act, S.C. 1997-98, C.10
- Port Alberni Port Authority Letters Patent
- Port Authorities Management Regulations
- Operating Regulations

Organization

The President and Chief Executive Officer of Port Alberni Port Authority is the individual responsible for the organization and as such, performs all the activities related to port operations pursuant to the Canada Marine Act and the Access to Information Act.

Finance and Administration

Responsibilities include financial analysis; budget forecasts; preparation of financial reports and 5 year plan; accounts payable/receivable; cash management; payroll; computer systems; human resources; co-ordinate preparation and distribution of the Annual report; and to co-ordinate advertising and publicizing the Port Alberni Port Authority.

Operations

This department is responsible for marine traffic management within the harbour limits; and enforcement of regulations as a port authority as well as emergency planning.

Property Development

Responsibilities of the department are to review and maintain awareness of land development opportunities; to review and address property issues; and to administer the leasing, permitting and licensing of tenants and activities along the Crown portion of Alberni Harbour.

Privy Council Office

Chapter 111

General Information

Background

The Privy Council Office came into being under the Constitution Act of 1867. From 1940 on, it has also provided the secretarial functions for the Cabinet.

The Federal-Provincial Relations Office (FPRO), formerly established as a federal department on January 1, 1975, has been re-integrated with the Privy Council Office effective June 25, 1993.

Responsibilities

The Privy Council Office provides secretariat support for Cabinet and the committees of Cabinet to facilitate the collective decision-making of Cabinet, and assists the exercise of the prerogatives of the Prime Minister, including the organization and processes of government and the appointment of senior officials to government positions. The overall responsibilities of the Office include: the coordination and provision of material related to the meetings of Cabinet and Committees of Cabinet for the use of the Prime Minister and the chairpersons of committees; liaison with departments and agencies of government on Cabinet matters; undertaking special studies on matters of current public policy concern as required (this includes participation in interdepartmental committees of officials through the provision of chairpersons, members or secretaries and the preparation of papers for, and on behalf of, such committees). In addition, the Office provides support and advice to the Prime Minister on prime ministerial prerogatives, assumes responsibilities for the organization of the Government of Canada, provides advice to the Prime Minister on national security and intelligence matters, undertakes the examination of submissions to the Governor in Council to ensure conformity with policy and legal requirements, prepares draft orders, and assumes duties related to regulations made under the Statutory Instruments Act including the examination, revision, registration and preparation for publication of federal statutory regulations in Part II of the Canada Gazette.

Also, in addition to the other responsibilities outlined above, the Privy Council Office now provides advice, assistance and information to the Prime Minister and to the Minister of Intergovernmental Affairs concerning federal-provincial relations. The Office also coordinates the policy framework for federal-provincial-aboriginal relations and supports the Interlocutor for Métis and Non-Status Indians.

Legislation

- Act Respecting the Office of the Secretary to the Cabinet for Federal-Provincial Relations and Respecting the Clerk of the Privy Council, S.C. 1974-75-76, c. 16
- Order-in-Council (P.C. 1940-1121, March 25, 1940)

Organization

For the purpose of the Financial Administration Act, the Privy Council Office is regarded as a department of government under the direction of the Prime Minister. The Clerk of the Privy Council and Secretary to the Cabinet, under whose direction the Privy Council Office's functions are carried out, is considered a deputy head taking precedence among the chief officers of the public service. The Privy Council Office is separated into the following main areas: Plans and Consultation; Machinery of Government and Senior Personnel; Operations; Security and Intelligence and Counsel; and, Corporate Services.

Public Service Commission of Canada

Chapter 112

Background

The Public Service Commission (PSC), an independent agency accountable to Parliament for the administration of the Public Service Employment Act, has been in existence since 1908 under various titles and legislations.

Responsibilities

The PSC ensures that the people of Canada are served by a highly competent Public Service that is non-partisan and representative of Canadian society. As such, it plays a leadership role in the Public Service renewal process, focusing on the people dimension of change, while promoting and safeguarding Public Service values.

The PSC administers the Public Service Employment Act (PSEA) which governs staffing in the Public Service. It develops policies and programs that shape staffing in the Public Service, establishes mechanisms for appeals against appointments, conducts investigations into complaints related to staffing, deployments and harassment in the workplace, monitors the conduct of delegated staffing and, on behalf of the Treasury Board, provides certain learning services to better equip public servants with the necessary skills for the present and the future.

Legislation

- Public Service Employment Act (PSEA)
- Public Service Employment Regulations (PSER)

◆ Commissioners

The jurisdictional powers of the Public Service Commission rest with the three commissioners, one of whom is the President and Chief Executive Officer. Appointed by the Governor in Council for a ten-year term, the commissioners have the status of deputy head. Together, they set overall policy in accordance with the Public Service Employment Act.

◆ Corporate Management Branch

The Corporate Management Branch provides services in support of the Commission and its programs. This includes financial, administrative and information technology systems and services; human resources management; corporate management; internal audit and evaluation; administration of a number of provisions of the Public Service Employment Act; assistance with international and other external relations; and access to information and privacy.

◆ Policy, Research and Communications Branch

This branch works towards the provision of knowledge, intelligence, insight and advice to support the PSC's ability to champion an independent and professional Public Service. By gathering the main PSC policy, regulatory, information management and monitoring functions together, this Branch supports the medium and long term positioning of the PSC through strategic analysis, research and environmental scanning. It also enhances and coordinates the knowledge base of the PSC by supplying strategic information not only to the Commission but to Parliament as well through the monitoring, assessment and review of the PSC policies and programs and through the monitoring of the health of the Public Service as a whole. It reports to Parliament and other parties, is involved in conducting liaison with various stakeholders and provides communication services on behalf of the PSC.

◆ Recourse Branch

This branch provides independent recourse processes in support of the merit principle in order to protect the public interest and to promote the application of merit, fairness, equity and transparency, through effective intervention and education. It also ensures that appropriate independence of the quasi-judicial appeals and investigations function exists and is seen to exist, by: hearing appeals against alleged breaches of the Public Service Employment Act and Regulations; investigating complaints and irregularities in the resourcing process that are not subject to appeal; investigating complaints of harassment in the workplace, and conciliating settlements where complaints are upheld. Part of its role is to provide training, advice and assistance to departments, unions, other organizations and individuals.

◆ Regional Offices

The Commission's regional offices are collectively responsible for delivering programs and services to federal departments and employees as well as to members of the public across Canada. The regional directors general are responsible for adapting the Commission's programs and services to the particular needs of its publics in each region.

◆ Staffing and Recruitment Programs Branch

This Branch works with departments and agencies to provide a highly competent Public Service that is non-partisan and representative of Canadian society. The branch responsibility includes operational policy and program design, as well as the delivery of products and services through regional and district offices. Branch activities include the administration of staffing delegation, recruitment to the Public Service, priority administration and EE initiatives. The Branch is also responsible for the delivery of EE initiatives and certain corporate programs (e.g. Management Trainee Program) on behalf of Treasury Board.

◆ Learning and Executive Resourcing Branch

The Learning and Executive Programs Branch offers services to respond to recruitment and staffing needs for executives. Services offered include the identification of leadership competencies, assessment tools, staffing vacancies, and a language testing and training program exclusively to assist executives in meeting CBC requirements. It also manages corporate and government-wide programs such as the Career Assignment Program, the Accelerated Executive Development Program, the Assistant Deputy Minister Prequalification Process, as well as the Interchange and International Programs. In addition, it offers courses and services provided by Training and Development Canada and Language Training Canada to respond to the overall learning needs of departments and employees.

Classes of Personal Information

General Administrative Documentation

In the course of conducting the activities and programs of the Public Service Commission, categories of personal information are accumulated which are not contained in the specific information banks described in this entry. Examples of such personal information include routine correspondence of an administrative nature, complaints and inquiries files as well as contracts for personal and professional services and unsolicited applications for employment. This information is normally filed by general subjects and is retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the data and subject matter. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the records schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Surveys and Studies

The Public Service Commission occasionally surveys individuals, private and other public organizations who have participated in PSC programs or made use of its services. In the majority of cases, the identities of persons responding to the surveys are not recorded. These surveys usually form part of studies and are done to obtain individual's views and opinions on PSC activities such as training, staffing, appeals, audits and other departmental responsibilities. The information is used for program planning and to evaluate the effectiveness of training methods and of PSC operations. It is also used to respond to training needs; to obtain a basis for the establishment of policies and procedures; and to ascertain the quality of services, identify problems in those services and make the necessary improvements.

The retention periods for this class of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject file in which they are stored.

Public Service Staff Relations Board

Chapter 113

General Information

Background

The Public Service Staff Relations Board was established in 1967 by the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

Responsibilities

The Board administers the Public Service Staff Relations Act. Its responsibilities include such matters as determination of bargaining units, certification and decertification of bargaining agents, arbitration of interest disputes, adjudication of rights disputes and generally providing an administrative structure within which the rights and responsibilities of the employers and employees in the federal public service may be exercised and/or enforced. The Board also administers the provisions of the Parliamentary Employment and Staff Relations Act, as well as certain provisions of Part II of the Canada Labour Code.

Legislation

- P.E.S.R.A. Regulations and Rules of Procedures
- Parliamentary Employment and Staff Relations Act
- Part II – Canada Labour Code (certain provisions only)
- Public Service Staff Relations Act
- Public Service Staff Relations Board Regulations and Rules of Procedures, 1993

Organization

Pursuant to the Public Service Staff Relations Act (R.S.C. 1985, chapter P-35), the Board is composed of "...a Chairperson, a Vice-Chairperson, not less than three Deputy Chairpersons and such other full-time and part-time members as the Governor in Council considers necessary to discharge the responsibilities of the Board." All appointments are for periods not exceeding seven years, with the exception of the chairperson, vice-chairperson and deputy chairpersons, whose appointments are for periods not exceeding ten years. Part-time members are appointed primarily for the purpose of adjudicating grievances.

◆ Secretary of the Board

The secretary, subject to the direction of the Chairperson, has supervision over and direction of the work and staff of the Board.

The Board's staff is comprised of Corporate Services, Legal Services, Financial Services, Mediation Services and Operations.

Corporate Services is responsible for the corporate functions of Informatics Systems, Material Management, Information Management, Library Services, Editorial Services and Human Resource Management as well as the provision of administrative support including communications and corporate planning.

Legal Services provides the Chairperson, members and officers with legal advice and counsel on matters relating to the operations of the Board. It also represents the interests of the Board in judicial review proceedings before the Federal Court of Canada.

Mediation Services are available to the parties in all areas of the Board's jurisdiction.

Operations consists of case management services which are responsible for the management and control of all proceedings before the Board.

Public Works and Government Services Canada

Chapter 114

Background

Public Works and Government Services Canada was created through the amalgamation of the former Government Telecommunications Agency (Communications Canada), Public Works Canada (PWC), Supply and Services Canada (SSC), and the Translation Bureau (Secretary of State of Canada).

Responsibilities

The Department of Public Works and Government Services Canada is the major provider of central and common services to the Government of Canada. Its services and programs are delivered through offices across Canada, and in the United States and Europe.

Common services include the administration and management of payments in lieu of taxes acquisition, management, operation, maintenance, design, construction, repair and disposal of federal real property, on a fee-for-service basis; the acquisition of goods and services for federal departments and agencies; Crown assets distribution; advertisement management; information management / information technology infrastructure and common services; and the development and application of standards for federal government procurement. Special Operating Agencies within PWGSC also offer common services such as translation, interpretation, consulting and auditing, on an optional fee-for-service basis.

The department also carries out certain administrative and management functions on behalf of the federal government. These include the Receiver General for Canada function; central accounting and reporting; administration of the public service payroll and superannuation systems; and the provision of productive working environments for public servants in 2,500 locations across Canada. The department manages a diverse portfolio of office space and other general purpose property, as well as certain bridges, highways, locks, dams, and the Parliamentary Precinct. Use of these functions is normally mandatory for federal departments and agencies.

Organization

Audit and Review Branch

Comprises the Audit function which is responsible for the development and implementation of a management oriented integrated and comprehensive audit program linked to the strategic directions, operational programs, plans and priorities of the department; the Evaluation function which provides senior management with timely and credible information about the continued relevance, success and cost effectiveness of departmental activities; the Internal Affairs function which provides investigative services to the Department when there is evidence, allegation or suspicion of employee involvement in the defalcations, violations of laws, regulations or departmental codes of conduct; and the Contract Quality Assurance function responsible for reviewing contract submissions requiring Deputy Ministerial, Ministerial and Treasury Board approval.

◆ Contract Claims Resolution Board

Responsible for terminations for convenience of supply contracts, as well as the resolution and settlement of disputes arising from contracts and the co-ordination of information between the department and the Canadian International Trade Tribunal. Also provided are periodic quantitative reports concerning the department's dispute resolution program. In concert with Architectural and Engineering Services, Realty Services and Legal Services, the Board reviews claims to identify those that seem impossible to resolve through the normal departmental process. Claims that cannot be resolved internally can be referred to a contract disputes advisory board or go to commercial arbitration or litigation. The Board provides guidance, necessary research, and administrative resource capabilities should one of these alternatives be pursued. In addition to providing guidance to senior management and project managers in the handling of disputes, the Board formulates policies and procedures through monitoring, post audit and evaluation of various disputes, including those involving litigation.

Communications Branch

The Communications Branch provides a full range of communications services and products; provides advice on the communications implications of programs, policies and decisions; supports the Minister and the Deputy Minister in carrying out their parliamentary responsibilities; and supports individual branches and agencies in communicating their services to client publics. The Communications Branch also works with managers to facilitate ongoing, two way communications with employees by developing internal communications strategies so that PWGSC employees are informed about, and can participate in, key developments in the department.

Communications Coordination Services Branch (CCSB)

CCSB provides a variety of value-added communications and client services to federal government departments, such as printing, publishing, audiovisual/multi-media, public relations, advertising and public opinion research procurement and project management. CCSB also manages several public access and information delivery activities on behalf of the Government of Canada such as 1 800 O-Canada, the Canada Site Portal (www.canada.gc.ca) Canadian Government Publishing, the Canada Gazette and the Depository Services Program.

◆ Client Services and Industry Relations Sector

The Client Services and Industry Relations Sector provides client departments with consultative and advisory services to support their audiovisual and multi-media production, exhibits, and public relations activities. The Sector is also responsible for the management of government advertising and public opinion research and for reviewing departmental annual plans and providing advice to client departments regarding their advertising campaigns.

Procurement Services Sector

The Procurement Services Sector provides value-added procurement support to client departments. Communications services procured on behalf of clients include printing, publishing, audiovisual and multi-media production, exhibits, advertising and public opinion research.

◆ Public Access Sector

The Public Access Sector aims to improve Canadians' access to government information and to ensure that the information they seek is available in easy-to-use formats that are reliable, efficient and cost effective. Services provided by the Sector include 1 800 O-Canada, which provides bilingual toll-free telephone enquiry services; the Canada Site Portal (www.canada.gc.ca), providing Canada and the world with single window internet access to information about Government of Canada services and activities; the Depository Services Program, which supplies federal government publications free of charge to a network of public and educational libraries across Canada; Canadian Government Publishing, providing publishing advice and support to client departments; and the Canada Gazette Directorate providing coordinating, editing, and publishing services related to the production and distribution of the Canada Gazette.

◆ Strategic Communications Sector

The Strategic Communications Sector provides analytical, strategic and tactical communications advice to federal government central agencies and client departments, and manages special communications projects of common interest to many departments.

Consulting and Audit Canada

Consulting and Audit Canada (CAC) a special operating agency, established as of April 1, 1990. The mandate of CAC is to provide management consulting, accounting, assurance and audit services on an optional, fee-for-service basis to federal government departments and agencies. CAC's services may also be made available to foreign governments and to international organizations. Through these services, Consulting and Audit Canada seeks to make a leading contribution to the improvement of public sector management and operations in Canada and abroad.

Corporate Implementation Group (CIG)

The Corporate Implementation Group (CIG) provides support to the Deputy Minister in the management of a spectrum of policy and portfolio issues and initiatives. As part of this role, the Crown Corporations group was transferred from GOS Branch into CIG in 1996.

Government Operational Service Branch

The mission of Government Operational Service is: the fulfilment of Receiver General responsibilities, the administration of compensation services, and the provision of services and optional products in the area of finance. It also provides services in the areas of comptrollership and finance, corporate policy and planning, and corporate management and executive services. In fulfilling these roles, Government Operational Service is organized into the following areas of responsibility which are detailed below:

◆ Banking and Cash Management Sector

Responsible for carrying out the public money and banking program activities mandated to the Receiver General by the FAA. Banking and Cash Management functions include the administration and recording of inflows to and outflows from the Consolidated Revenue Fund, and the negotiation and tendering for banking services and facilities required by the government. Its activities include the issue of Receiver General payments, the management of the deposit of all money collected by the government, and placement of excess funds in interest earning accounts at Canadian financial institutions, and the settlement for redeemed government payment instruments, (cheques, direct deposit payments, electronic payments, and Employment Insurance warrants). There is also an internal automated functional test and office automation facility to support GOS business operations.

◆ Central Accounting and Reporting Sector

Carries out its Receiver General central accounting and reporting responsibilities through the maintenance of the Accounts of Canada; the preparation of interim financial reports including the monthly statements of financial operations; and the preparation of the Annual Public Accounts. To carry out these responsibilities, the Sector maintains the Central Accounting Systems (CAS) ) and the Central Financial Management Reporting System (CFMRS) and operates and maintains a series of financial products and common service offerings to other government departments. These systems and services, in support of common administrative functions within the departments and agencies, include the FIS-compliant Common Departmental Financial System (CDFS) and other reporting systems such as Departmental Reporting System (DRS) and AdHoc Reporting and DOWloading (AHRD). Operating costs for most of the optional services are recovered from customer departments. CARS is also responsible for the implementation of the Financial Information Strategy (FIS).

FIS is a joint Public Works and Government Services Canada (PWGSC)/Treasury Board (TB) strategy for satisfying government-wide financial needs and implementing a private sector model of accounting in the Government of Canada. Under FIS, PWGSC is responsible for developing, implementing and operating financial systems in accordance with policies and standards provided by the TB.

CARS is responsible for the coordination of the implementation of the Receiver General Suite of FIS systems. The Sector is coordinating all activities for the April 2001 implementation of the FIS Receiver General interfaces in 60 federal government departments and central agencies. Following FIS implementations in 35 departments and agencies in April 1999 and April 2000, CARS supports the ongoing operations of CFMRS and provides client support services.

◆ Compensation Sector

Authority and responsibility for the pay and benefits function for federal public servants are shared by all Government departments and agencies. The Treasury Board manages the compensation function for employees who staff the Government's departments and many of its agencies; individual departments and agencies administer day-to-day pay and benefits operations; and Crown Corporations and other separate employers manage and administer compensation for their respective employees.

This sector is responsible for the administration of compensation systems such as the provision of pay, pensions, insurance, operational activities, training and advisory services on a government-wide basis through such products as Public Service Pay and Superannuation, RCMP Compensation, Canadian Forces Superannuation and Members of Parliament Retirement Allowances and Judges Pensions. Delivery of these services is accomplished through a national network of 6 service offices which respond to approximately 150 departments and other federal organizations.

◆ Corporate Policy and Planning Sector

The Sector is responsible for strategic and corporate planning, corporate policy and cabinet and corporate services. It is also responsible for analysis of corporate issues, departmental co-ordination of government-wide initiatives, and provides research and executive committee support to the Minister, Deputy Minister and Business Board.

◆ Finance Sector

The Sector plans, develops, administers and monitors financial management framework, policies, systems, processes, procedures, and practices for the Department. It provides financial planning, analysis, and cost accounting and reporting services, including the production of departmental management reports and submissions of the year end Public Accounts. It is responsible for the preparation of the Annual Reference Level Update (ARLU) exercise and information for the Main Estimates, and coordinates all financial input to the Departmental Business Plan, the Report on Plans and Priorities and the Report on Performance. The Sector develops and coordinates the implementation of quantitative measures to assess the operational performance of PWGSC Branches. It provides authoritative advice to HQ and regional management on central agency and departmental policies and on investment proposals. Finance develops a framework of financial services delivery in the regions and supervises its application. It also develops and implements a framework of well thought out advice concerning the activities of the Special Operating Agencies. Financial management services are provided in an efficient fashion, in the areas of the financial transactions of the Department, travelling expenses, the relocation program and cash management. The Sector is also responsible for the development, maintenance and operation of financial corporate systems and processes internal to PWGSC. Finance establishes the Corporate Management charge to revolving funds, using the departmental Cost Allocation Model. Finance is responsible for quality control of submissions to central agencies.

◆ Office of the Corporate Secretary

The Office of the Corporate Secretary (OCS) is a Directorate within the Government Operational Service Branch of PWGSC. Its mandate is to provide support and to act as a focal point on departmental issues and activities, and to administer related programs for the Minister, the Deputy Minister and the Departmental Executive Team. The OCS is divided into three units: Access to Information and Privacy, Executive Services and Ministerial Correspondence.

Government Telecommunications and Informatics Services Branch

Government Telecommunications and Informatics Services (GTIS) is a common service organization within Public Works and Government Services Canada (PWGSC). The GTIS mandate is to deliver optional Information Management (IM) and Information Technology (IT) services in support of the program delivery requirements of all federal departments, including PWGSC, and facilitate universal information access and electronic transactions throughout the government and its client community using the government IM/IT infrastructure. Its services are delivered through partnership arrangements with the private sector and public sector institutions.

To modernize service delivery to Canadians through the use of IM/IT, GTIS is moving forward with client-centric, cross-jurisdictional and robust infrastructure for electronic commerce and electronic service delivery as the preferred means of doing business. GTIS has recently partnered with the Treasury Board's Chief Informatics Officer to enhance and extend the IM/IT federated infrastructure as the foundation for electronic commerce initiatives, the new government application development trend. GTIS acts as a key delivery agent of the infrastructure.

GTIS is structured to deliver IM/IT services in the areas of Application Management Services, Network and Computer Services, Telecommunications Services, and Management Services. Two new sectors were recently added to provide a more responsive and proactive structure, as well as a sharper focus on technological advances: the Strategic Services Sector and the Electronic Commerce Sector.

◆ Application Management Services Sector

The Application Management Services (AMS) Sector provides value-added design, development, implementation and support of IM/IT applications to PWGSC and other departments. The AMS Sector strives to be a supplier-of-choice to the government-wide community for developing, supporting and integrating common administrative applications and infrastructure, and to be acknowledged by its partners and clients as an employer of competent professionals who deliver measurable efficiencies through the management of information and technology. AMS has demonstrable experience in the development and support of both large-scale, government-wide applications, and smaller, leading-edge technology applications. A broad spectrum of functional areas are represented in the work conducted by AMS: compensation, personnel, property and assets management, financial management, and acquisition and supply systems. AMS offers a comprehensive range of services that are grouped into four areas: application development, application support, application environment services, and project management services.

◆ Network and Computer Services Sector

The Network and Computer Services (NCS) Sector is accountable for the end-to-end operation of GTIS IM/IT infrastructure and services. This includes maintenance engineering, certification of changes to the production environment, managing the day-to-day operation and the production of performance indicators. The Sector provides computer and network operations and services for all applications on all technology platforms managed by GTIS. NCS provides the day-to-day technical support for the GTIS national IM/IT infrastructure and distributed computing, as well as end-user support services to clients in their use of local area networks. The Sector also prepares, tests and implements foundation and business systems to operate in both mainframe and client-server environments, participates in the development of the technology support infrastructure for several major systems, and provides data centre management services to several departments.

◆ Telecommunications Sector

The Telecommunications Sector acts as the service delivery arm for the mandatory telecom components of the government-wide federated infrastructure. Their mandate also includes the provision of optional shared telecommunications services on a full cost recovery basis. The sector, acting as the broker of telecommunication services, uses its technical expertise to leverage the buying power of the government as the largest consumer of telecommunications services in Canada to provide departments with the highest quality telecommunications services at the lowest price. The sector works with associates in the Supply Operations Services Branch, client departments, service providers and industry experts to exploit the dynamic opportunities in Canada's ever-changing deregulated telecommunications marketplace.

The sector is expected to continually rationalize the core value of its portfolio and the processes used to manage and deliver the services involved.

♦ Management Services Sector

The Management Services Sector is mandated to provide horizontal business support to GTIS operations, both in headquarters and in the regions, and to modernize management and administrative practices to enhance GTIS efficiency. The Sector offers a comprehensive range of services that are grouped into five Directorates. Planning, Policy and Governance deals with operational and business planning, policy development, performance measurement, executive support, IM/IT governance and regional videoconferencing. Promotion and Business Communications Services deals with internal and external communications, and GTIS Internet and Intranet. IT Security ensures optimal IT security department-wide, including awareness training, inspections and investigations in conjunction with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and security certification and accreditation. Information Operations Services manages departmental information holdings and records, libraries, mail distribution, forms management and design, and electronic manuals and directives, and also provides GTIS with administrative services. GTIS Human Resources, Renewal and Training Services provides GTIS with customized human resources services.

♦ E-Government Services Sector

The E-Government Services Sector mandate is to help PWGSC position itself strategically to be a leader in Electronic Government, and to deploy common infrastructure that enables government organizations to deliver their services electronically. The sector is currently broken down into three main streams: business, technology and people. In the business stream you will find the Government & Technology Partnerships unit. It is responsible for business strategies, development of private sector relationships, new business models, and investment strategies to align GTIS with strategic client priorities, particularly those that focus on the electronic delivery of programs and services to citizens and businesses. An operational component of the Partnerships unit is Software Exchange with the responsibility to facilitate the sharing of Government-owned intellectual property. In the people stream you will find the Institute for Government Information Professionals, it focuses on the competencies to deliver services on-line by designing and organizing education programs for the government community at large. In the technology stream you will find the Electronic Commerce unit that was established to quickly develop and deploy robust and scalable E-Commerce services and to ensure the existence of a secure reliable federated IM/IT infrastructure. It is currently conducting projects in the areas of electronic procurement, secure messaging environment, and secure electronic services delivery channel.

Real Property Services Branch

The Real Property Services Branch (RPS) was created on May 18, 1995. It's a fundamental redesign of three former branches of the former Department of Public Works Canada – Real Property, Realty and Architectural and Engineering Services. The RPS approach is to position itself close to its clients in order to make it easy for them to do business with the Branch. It is made up of Client Service Units that act as focal points for client relations on all day to day operational requirements and Centres of Expertise in the four major business lines responsible for supporting service delivery with required skills and resources. Depending on client needs, the client service units will be dedicated to a client on a geographical basis, for a specific complex or to provide a specific product for which the client has a predominant need.

Real Property Services is led in PWGSC's five regions by Regional Directors General and in the national capital area by an Executive Director. They are responsible for the delivery of integrated real property services.

National leadership for the four business lines is provided through Directors General at national office: Office Accommodation Services and Real Estate Sector, Architectural and Engineering Services and Property and Facilities Management Services.

The Office Accommodation Services and Real Estate Sector sets the framework for the custodial responsibilities of the department with respect to office space and general purpose space and non-office real property assets such as national treasures and engineering, surplus and other special facilities. In this regard, the Sector offers cost effective services to client departments and agencies in the planning, acquisition and fit-up of office accommodation. In addition, it provides leadership for the disposal of the government's real property assets, administers municipal grants and provides a full range of real estate services.

The Architectural and Engineering Services develops a national program of professional services for the design and construction of federal buildings and facilities owned by the department on an optional, revenue generating basis.

The Property and Facilities Management Sector develops a property management program both for clients who occupy PWGSC's owned space and clients who are their own custodian on an optional, revenue generating basis.

♦ Regions

The Regional Offices are responsible for the provision of all services offered by the Public Works and Government Services Administration at the regional level in Canada. To deliver its services, the operational component has been divided into five regions within the country. They are: Atlantic Region, Québec Region, Ontario Region, Western Region, and Pacific Region. The national office located in Ottawa, provides services for the national capital area. These regions are responsible for the provision of services at the local level. They carry out the departments program delivery responsibilities and services in the areas of planning, property administration, real estate services, contract policy and administration, design and construction, finance and administration, purchasing offices, provide acquisition, warehousing, assets management and Crown assets distribution.

As well, they provide payroll and related functions to client department, and produce socio-economic payments such as the Child Tax Credit, Old Age Security, Guaranteed Income Supplements, Canada Pension Plan, Canadian Jobs Strategy, National Revenue Income Tax refunds, Goods and Services Credit Payments and Census payments. In addition, a specialized branch in Shediac, New Brunswick, is responsible for superannuation services.

Supply Operations Service Branch

The Supply Operations Service Branch is responsible for providing supply-related common services to other government departments and agencies. These services include: requirements definition; acquisitions of goods and services; development of standards; and traffic management services. It is the responsibility of the acquisitions service to procure complex technical engineering and science products and services, as well as those that are of a commercial nature. The branch is also responsible for contracting-out research and development requirements and public awareness programs. The branch is composed of four sectors and one region, i.e., Aerospace, Marine and Electronics

Systems; Industrial and Commercial Products and Standardization Services; Science, Informatics and Professional Services; Supply Program Management; and, Washington Region.

♦ Supply Program Management Sector

Responsible for policy development and advice planning, systems management, materiel management, operational support, client and supplier relations and business renewal to the Supply Portfolio. The sector is composed of three directorates: Supply Management Directorate, Supply Policy Directorate and the BDP Centre of Excellence and the Supply Systems Directorate.

Supply Management Directorate:

The Directorate provides general management support to the Assistant Deputy Minister, SOSB Sectors and the Regions in the areas of planning, performance measurement, supplier and client relations, and procurement-related training. Operational functions, i.e., materiel management for the department, and activities which support the procurement process, i.e., receiving and allocating requisitions; providing bid receiving and electronic bidding services; and standing offer coordination services are also provided along with administrative support for the Supply Program Management Sector.

Supply Policy Directorate and Benefits Driven Procurement Centre of Excellence:

The Supply Policy Directorate is responsible for the economic analysis of procurement-related government programs and initiatives, and the identification of procurement issues and implications; long-term procurement policy development; advice on the development and implementation of the government procurement elements of the various trade agreements; and contract reporting on behalf of Treasury Board. This Directorate also provides up-to-date policies, procedures and advice for application by departmental procurement staff, including the development, promulgation and maintenance of the various related manuals. Finally, the Supply Policy Directorate provides expert procurement advice to other departments responsible for specific government initiatives with procurement dimensions (such as the Aboriginal Procurement Program).

The BDP Centre of Excellence is responsible for the facilitation of a procurement approach across government called Benefits Driven Procurement (BDP). BDP can be applied to any procurement characterized by significant risk and complexity. The Centre of Excellence has a key role in developing resources which facilitate the BDP approach, including the development of training courses, lessons learned, case studies, business case guides and risk management framework.

Supply Systems Directorate:

This Directorate is responsible for the development and implementation of electronic procurement-related systems and support infrastructure on behalf of the department and its clients. This includes the Supplier Registration Information which implements the Procurement Business Number across the federal government, the Automated Buyer Environment (ABE) in support of the procurement function and the development of data base applications (i.e., Vendor Information Management and Customer Information Management systems, the Acquisition Information Service, and Contract Statistics on the Internet [CSII]).

◆ Aerospace, Marine and Electronics Systems (AMES) Sector

AMES' activities are divided between the Acquisition, the Projects and the Professional Services functions. The Acquisition Service Line is comprised of three procurement organizations which provide procurement services valued at approximately $3.5 billion per year: the Aerospace, the Marine and Armament, and the Electronics and Communications Systems Directorates. The Project Services Directorate manages some of the government's most complex and sensitive Crown Projects within PWGSC and the Professional Services Directorate provides various services to PWGSC and various Agencies and Departments. In addition, the Canadian and International Industrial Security Division is responsible for administering and managing the industrial security program and the U.S. Canada joint certification program on behalf of Public Works and Government Services Canada (PWGSC).

Aerospace Systems Directorate:

This organization is responsible for acquiring a wide range of technically-complex aerospace systems. These include the acquisition of military and civilian aircraft and related mechanical systems and equipment and spares. It also acquires various services such as engineering, repair and overhaul and maintenance services, modifications component repair, and publications maintenance and revision services. Marine and Armament Systems Directorates:

The organization is responsible for conducting inspections on all civilian ships, boats, and associated equipment. It provides client departments with a wide variety of technical services, such as, condition surveys on ships, specification preparation and technical advice. It also acquires a wide range of technically-complex armament systems such as armoured vehicles and large and small calibre weapons and ammunition, engineering repair and overhaul and maintenance services, and spare parts support to meet federal government and foreign government requirements.

Electronics and Communications Systems Directorate:

The organization is responsible for the acquisition, integration and support of a wide range of complex electronics, communications, and mission systems for air, land and sea environments, including avionics systems, radar, sensors, underwater systems, trainers and simulators, electro-optical systems, land communications systems and security and information operation systems.

The Projects Directorate:

The Director General of AMES Sector is the Service Line Manager for Major Crown Projects (MCPs) managed by SOSB. Major Crown Projects are high risk, complex, and politically-sensitive projects valued in excess of $100 million. The supplier base involved in MCPs covers nearly every industrial sector within Canada, and involves large companies as prime contractors, small suppliers and consultants as subcontractors. The Projects Directorate manages the government's most complex and sensitive Crown project procurement within PWGSC and also helps meet various projects needs, with specialists to provide advice in the full range of project management knowledge areas.

The Professional Services Directorate:

The Professional Services Directorate provides a vast range of services and helps meet various project needs through the expertise of specialists who advise the government in the full range of procurement and project management knowledge areas such as; cost policy and financial review services, financial and cost accounting, forensic accounting, production assets management and project management.

The European Directorate:

The European Directorate is divided into two offices; headquarters is located in Koblenz, Germany and the other office is located in London, England. The European Directorate is responsible for serving the needs of customer departments located in Canada, as well as federal agencies overseas. The PWGSC Koblenz office supports Canadian Forces in Europe and Canada through purchases from continental Europe. Koblenz provides Receiver General services to the Department of National Defence in Europe as well as Crown Assets disposal services. The London Office is responsible for procurement, mainly of specialized, unique items from all countries of Europe, including the Netherlands, Italy and Scandinavian countries, other than those handled in the Koblenz Office. This office also provides a field contract administration service for major contracts placed directly from Canada and a security clearance facility for Canadian government and industrial personnel visiting United Kingdom secure facilities.

Washington Region:

The Washington Region is located in the Canadian Embassy and provides acquisition management services for all procurements of goods and services from the United States Foreign Military Sales Program and facilitates liaison between Canadian and United States government departments. It is the only Canadian procurement office accredited to the United States armed services. It also assists and represents the Canadian Commercial Corporation (CCC) in the promotion of business opportunities for Canadian industry. The Region contributes to the enhancement of Canadian trade opportunities with the United States by working with the economic section within the embassy.

♦ Science, Informatics and Professional Services (SIPS) Sector

The Science, Informatics and Professional Services (SIPS) Sector of Public Works and Government Services Canada (PWGSC) manages contracting for consulting, research and development, training, and informatics services; and goods such as electronic data processing systems, computer hardware and software. The Sector, whose headquarters is in the National Capital area, works in cooperation with 12 regional groups across Canada to look after science and professional services contracts for client departments. On average the Sector and the regional groups issue more than 14,000 contracts a year worth a total value of $2.6 billion. These cover: science and technology-related requirements in both the natural sciences and human sciences; informatics systems and services; professional, technical, and specialized services; services for foreign governments and international agencies through the Canadian Commercial Corporation (CCC) and the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA).

Science Directorate:

Is responsible for the procurement of government science and technology requirements, including research and development, data collection, feasibility studies and prototype development for subjects ranging from satellites and solar energy to sample analysis, food research and transportation technology. This Directorate is composed of the Space, Science and Communications Division, the Defence Sciences Division, the Earth Resources Division, the Human, Life and Environmental Sciences Division, as well as the Space Station Project office, a Major Crown Project managed on behalf of the Canadian Space Agency (CSA).

In addition, the Directorate administers different contribution programs on behalf of Industry Canada as well as the Radarsat User Development Program (RUDP), administered on behalf of the Canadian Space Agency and designed to develop value-added services and products for RADARSAT. The Science Directorate also provides assistance to PWGSC regional offices and customer departments to effectively deliver and administer their contracting programs.

Informatics Procurement Directorate:

Provides procurement services and contract management services for the informatics systems required by federal government departments and agencies to efficiently administer their programs. The business is focused on the following: Treasury Board shared systems initiatives, facilities management, informatics professional services, software applications development, software licensing; technology-assisted learning, software and hardware maintenance, data entry, information retrieval and information archival services. The Directorate also procures Supercomputer Systems; Mainframe Computer Systems; Minicomputer Systems; Microcomputer Systems (including benchmark testing); Telecommunications Systems; Systems Integration Services; Local and Wide Area Networks; and, Microcomputer Operating Systems and Applications Software. A recent addition to this Directorate is the Infrastructure and Systems Procurement Directorate.

It provides procurement services and contract management services for the informatics services and systems required by federal government departments and agencies to efficiently administer their programs. The business is focused on the following: systems initiatives, informatics and other professional services required for the implementation of Government Online initiatives, technology-assisted learning, software licensing and software maintenance. In addition, the Directorate provides software commodity management services including technical product advice, the transfer of surplus Government-owned software licenses and the maintenance of the Software Acquisition Reference Centre website.

Professional Services Procurement Directorate:

The Directorate provides government departments and agencies with an accessible centre of supply expertise for the acquisition of professional services. The organization provides procurement and contracting services for a complete array of professional services requirements including informatics, business management and consulting, financial services, collection agency, verbatim reporting, information retrieval and archiving, temporary help services, training, translation, Alternative Service Delivery, travel, relocation services, facilities operations, as well as security and related services.

The Directorate also provides acquisition management services for a number of major project initiatives for the Department of National Defence, including the Canadian Forces Supply Chain Project and the Material Acquisition Support Information System (MASIS).

In addition, the Directorate manages several automated procurement initiatives for professional services. The On-Line Informatics Professional Services (IPS) Marketplace is an Internet procurement tool which provides departments with direct access to self-registered suppliers of Information Technology professional services. The Temporary Help Services (THS) On-Line System is another automated purchasing tool which enables suppliers in the National Capital area to submit offers, and departments and agencies to identify potential suppliers and to issue call-ups for temporary help services online.

Management and Business Services Directorate:

The Directorate is accountable for providing strategic advice to all levels of management within the sector to promote sound and effective practices, and directing the development, implementation and management of the framework, policies, directives and processes required to provide sustaining functions for the Sector in the areas of business planning, policy, executive support, information services, financial management, training, performance measurement, quality management and administrative systems support, including allocations, system administration and related activities.

Crown Assets Distribution Directorate:

The Crown Assets Distribution Directorate (CADD) provides functional management and support to the eight (8) regional Crown Assets Distribution Centres (CADC) in the disposal of all crown-owned assets declared surplus by federal departments, agencies and Crown Corporations located in Canada and abroad so as to achieve best value for the Crown. Each CADC acts as agent for the United States, British and other governments in the sale of their surplus assets located in Canada. CADD has arrangements with certain European governments for the disposal of Canadian military surplus located in their countries.

Seized Property Management Directorate:

Pursuant to the Seized Property Management Act, it provides consultative and management services in relation to property seized or restrained in connection with federal prosecutions. SPMD's functions include: pre-seizure advice; control and maintenance of seized property; management of restrained property; appraisals; advancement of monies to preserve property; inspections; disposal of property when the courts declare forfeiture and allocation of proceeds; satisfaction of claims; and record keeping.

Special Procurement Initiatives Directorate:

The Special Procurement Initiatives Directorate was created to plan and implement contracts aimed mainly at large, complex and sensitive procurement within SIPSS. Large contracts such as the NATO Flying Training in Canada (NFTC) and the Contracted Flying Training and Support (CFTS) and other sizeable contracts such as the Contracted Airborne Training Services (CATS), the Canadian Firearms Registration System (CFRS), the Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC) and the Information Management Intelligence System (IMIS) for the government's Infrastructure are examples of procurement being handled by the Directorate. In addition, the Directorate has created a division to develop the necessary guidelines, tools and performance metrics to address and resolve related issues and to provide for the effective management of these large and complex requirements.

◆ Industrial and Commercial Products and Standardization Services Sector

The Industrial and Commercial Products and Standardization Services (ICPSS) Sector of Public Works and Government Services Canada (PWGSC) buys custom-manufactured products as well as commercial, off-the-shelf products and services that are essential to the daily operations of client departments. ICPSS buys goods ranging from clothing to food to prefabricated buildings and services such as travel and overseas shipping and contracting out of real property services. Purchasing is done by five product directorates. The Canadian General Standards Board (CGSB) develops standards and offers a wide range of related services to meet government needs. The Business Development and Operations Directorate provides program and administrative support to the Sector's line directorates. Canadian General Standards Board:

The Canadian General Standards Board (CGSB) develops standards and offers programs that list suppliers meeting those standards. CGSB offers a wide range of services to meet government needs, including development of standardization products, conformity assessment, and Quality and Environmental Management Systems registration. These services cover a wide variety of areas such as office furniture, paints, petroleum, textiles, organic agriculture, non-destructive testing, transport of dangerous goods, and includes standardization products which support sustainable development.

Project Records

In carrying out its mandate, the Department generates and receives a large volume of information and correspondence related to work projects. These projects include property acquisition, disposal, expropriation and management; building, highway and marine construction, repair and demolition; dredging services and fleet management; and the provision of associated research, development and consulting services.

Included in this material are often found the personal views and opinions of individuals; evaluations of contractors' and consultants' performance; financial information relating to the management of projects; and any other correspondence associated with specific projects. The retention periods associated with this class of personal information are controlled by the records schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Project records are organized by location. Consequently, access to personal information in project records requires the individual to provide the location of a specific project as well as the nature of the project.

Quebec Port Authority

Chapter 115

Background

In 1805, the Canadian government established Trinity House, whose mission was to administer the port, issue licenses to the St. Lawrence pilots and even be responsible for tending buoys. In 1858, the Canadian government created the Quebec Harbour Commission to restore order on the wharves. Trinity House was disbanded in 1873 and management of the port was then transferred to the Quebec Harbour Commission in 1875. The government established the National Harbours Board in 1936, which included the major Canadian ports and dissolved the Harbour Commissions. The National Harbours Board was an agent of the Crown and controlled the business and service operations. This organization reported on its activities to Parliament through the Department of Transport.

Around 1983, the federal government reviewed the Canadian port management legislation and passed the Canada Ports Corporation Act. The Port of Quebec Corporation was established in 1984, as well as six other Local Port Corporations. This new legislative stage resulted in the incorporation of the major Canadian port entities and brought decision-making power back to a local level.

On May 1, 1999, following the passage of the Canada Marine Act, the Canada Ports Corporation was gradually wound up to make way for a national port system managed by Canadian Port Authorities (CPA). Thus, the Port of Quebec Corporation has now become the Quebec Port Authority, a non-profit federal agency.

Responsibilities

The mission of the Quebec Port Authority is to promote and develop shipping and serve the economic interests of the Quebec region, taking consideration of the community and the environment while ensuring its profitability. To this end, it ensures that the Port is cost-effective, develops and manages its assets efficiently, stimulates industrial activity and business growth, innovates in the port and transportation fields and preserves the port's heritage.

Legislation

- Canada Marine Act

Organization

Board of Directors

The Quebec Port Authority is managed by a seven-member board of directors. The federal, provincial and municipal government each appoint one member. The other five members are named by the Quebec Port Users Committee and are appointed by the Minister. The board then elects a president and a vice-president from among its members.

Executive Committee

The Executive Committee administers the Code of Ethics, reviews the compensation of the board members, the Chief Executive Officer and other officers and makes recommendations to the board in this regard.

General Management

As the administrative head of the Authority, the President and Chief Executive Officer shall discharge the duties conferred on him by the Act, the Regulations, the Letters Patent and the by-laws. He leads a team of managers consisting of the Vice-President, Operations, the Vice-President, Finance and the Vice-President, Marketing.

♦ Marketing

The Marketing Department looks after three main areas of the Authority, i.e. the port's strategic planning, development and implementation of marketing activities, tariffs as well as business and corporate communications management.

♦ Operations

The Operations Department is responsible for property management, legal affairs, technical and environmental services, maintenance, harbour master's office, security services, the marina and the lock and records management.

♦ Finance

The Finance Department looks after general accounting, finance and cash flow, computer service, human resources and purchasing and supplies.

Royal Canadian Mint

Chapter 116

Background

The Ottawa Mint was originally established in 1908 as a branch of the Royal Mint of London, England. On December 1, 1931, an Act of Parliament established the Royal Canadian Mint as a branch of the Department of Finance. On April 1, 1969, the Mint became a Crown Corporation and now reports to Parliament through the Minister of Public Works and Government Services. It is a commercial enterprise whose business ventures extend throughout the world. The Mint is classified as a Schedule III-II Corporation under the Financial Administration Act, the category reserved for organizations which conduct commercial operations and are self-sufficient. The Mint owns two facilities. The Ottawa facility houses the corporate head office, the gold refinery and production facilities for non-circulation coins and medals. The Winnipeg Plant, which includes a new plating facility, produces all of Canada's circulation coins as well as circulation coins for numerous foreign countries.

Responsibilities

The Mint's primary purpose is to produce and arrange for the production and supply of coins of the currency of Canada. It also competes on the world market for contracts to produce circulating and numismatic coins and other devices such as trade dollars for foreign governments and private firms. The Mint also operates a refinery to melt, assay and refine gold and other metals.

Legislation

- Royal Canadian Mint Act

OFFICE OF THE MASTER OF THE MINT

The principal officer of the Mint is the Master (president and chief executive officer), who is also a member of the Board of Directors. The Master is supported by the vice presidents of Administration and Finance; Corporate Planning and Affairs; Human Resources; Manufacturing; and Marketing and Sales, and by the General Counsel and Corporate Secretary and by the Executive Director, Communications.

Administration and Finance

This division is responsible for internal auditing, financial budgeting, analysis and reporting, receivable and payable management, treasury management and financing, risk management, information technology and systems, procurement of materials and services, and records management.

Corporate Planning and Affairs

This division is responsible for corporate planning, corporate policies, managing special projects in support of the Royal Canadian Mint's mission and goals, and establishing and maintaining liaison with central agencies of government.

Human Resources

This division is a strategic function, dealing primarily with both business human resources issues and daily operational activities. Its main responsibilities in terms of strategic partnerships is to provide guidance and advice to its clients in terms of human resources planning, training and professional development, recruitment and staffing, succession planning, rewards and recognition programs, performance appraisal program and the negotiations of collective agreements. With respect to daily operational activities, it is responsible for pay, benefits and other compensation practices, employee counselling, the employee assistance program, the Health and Safety program, and translation services.

Manufacturing

This division has the responsibility for the production of coinage, medals, tokens, trade dollars and refinery services. Two plants operate under this division. The Winnipeg Plant produces Canadian and foreign circulation coinage. The Ottawa Plant produces Canadian and foreign numismatic and bullion coins as well as medals, tokens and trade dollars. In addition, the Ottawa Plant operates the Mint's refinery, which refines precious metals for mines, jewellers, banks and other institutions, both Canadian and foreign.

Marketing and Sales

This division is responsible for product development, pricing, advertising, and the sales and distribution of Royal Canadian Mint products and services in Canada and throughout the world. Products and services include domestic and foreign numismatic and circulation coinage, Maple Leaf bullion coins, gold refining and assay services, fine jewellery, custom minting (e.g. medals, medallions, tokens, coin blanks, privy marks), and consulting services.

The division recommends marketing and sales strategies for existing and new markets in Canada and around the world. It develops advertising and promotional campaigns tailored for specific markets and sales channels, including direct marketing, which accounts for a significant portion of Canadian sales revenues. This division also plans and manages a customer-driven automated order-fulfilment and customer service operation and retail stores at each of its plants in Ottawa, Ontario and Winnipeg, Manitoba.

◆ Legal Services

This division, under the direction of the General Counsel and Corporate Secretary, is responsible for providing legal counsel and advice with respect to all legal matters affecting the Corporation. The division also provides secretariat services to the Board of Directors of the Corporation and is responsible for matters with respect to the Access to Information and Privacy Acts.

◆ Communications

Communications develops and directs the Mint's corporate communications program, addressing both internal and external interest groups. This division provides strategic counsel to Senior Management on issues affecting the Mint. It informs the public on Mint policies and programs using industry trade shows, the corporate Web site, education outreach and other channels to proactively communicate with and respond to the Mint's audiences. This division is responsible for all media relations nationally and internationally, and assists in the promotion of Canadian numismatic and bullion coin programs through media events and speaking engagements. Other responsibilities in this area are the production of corporate communications vehicles and speech writing for the President.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police

Chapter 117

General Information

Background

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police was formed in 1873, under an Act of Parliament.

Responsibilities

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police enforces laws throughout Canada made by or under the authority of Parliament. Administration of justice within the provinces, including enforcement of the Criminal Code, is the responsibility of provincial governments. The RCMP has contract agreements with the two territories and all provinces, except Ontario and Quebec, to enforce criminal, territorial and provincial laws, pursuant to section 20 of the RCMP Act.

Legislation

- Criminal Code
- Most federal statutes
- Municipal bylaws under contract
- Provincial laws under contract
- Territorial laws under contract

Organization

The authority and accountability for executing the requirements of the RCMP Act rest with the Commissioner who reports to the Solicitor General of Canada. The Commissioner is supported by four regional Deputy Commissioners, and one Deputy Commissioner at the National Headquarters. In addition, there are 13 divisional commanding officers and a Commanding Officer Depot Division (the RCMP training facilities in Regina, Saskatchewan) and 15 program directors at National Headquarters in Ottawa, Ontario.

The RCMP is divided into divisions, each division being roughly responsible for a province or territory. These divisions are alphabetically designated and each is further divided into subdivisions and detachments.

Specialized support is offered to the operational divisions by Air, Marine, Forensic Laboratory, and Identification Services. The RCMP Academy located in Regina, Saskatchewan, is responsible for recruit training. The RCMP Musical Ride is located in Ottawa and is administered by headquarters. Additionally, the RCMP is responsible for the administration of the Canadian Police College, located in Ottawa. The Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC), a computer-based police information system, is also based at and administered by RCMP Headquarters in Ottawa. The CPIC system is an advanced computerized information storage and retrieval facility, designed for the use of participating Canadian law enforcement agencies. The CPIC acts as a central repository of operational data that is contributed to and maintained by participating Canadian law enforcement agencies. RCMP records entered into the system are identified in their respective Bank of Personal Information. The participating Canadian law enforcement agencies are entirely responsible for the accuracy and immediacy of the data which they supply and maintain within the CPIC system. Records entered into the CPIC system by participating Canadian law enforcement agencies must be supported by documented reports held by the originator. The originating agency is the only one entitled or enabled to alter their records in the system.

Corporate Management and Comptrollership

The Corporate Management and Comptrollership service line objective is to provide expert functional policies, systems, services and advices to ensure the financial viability and stability of the RCMP, and the sound stewardship of all RCMP resources in the areas of financial management, real property, materiel, contracting, procurement and audit and evaluation; and to ensure the strategic and practical national and regional implementation of the Modern Comptrollership and the Financial Information Strategy, two major, long-term government initiatives focused on improved decision-making, organizational performance and accountability for results.

Strategic Direction

Strategic Direction service line objective is to develop and implement an overall RCMP policy framework for assessment of and participation in public policy debates affecting law enforcement, for capacity building in policy research and trend analysis and model building of various future scenarios affecting RCMP organizations and operations, for the development and recommendation of various types of responses to future challenges involving change management analysis, for information exchanges and joint analysis of emerging trends and conditions, for policy and planning linkages, for critical on-going assessment of current internal policies and conditions and for media relations, promotion of the RCMP and of Canada, and the development of partnership contracts, including alternative funding with public and private partners.

Human Resources Activity

The Human Resources Activity encompasses the organization and management of the Department's human resources. It maintains an internal administrative policy function and service in relation to learning, staffing and personnel, health, materiel, language and organizational issues. These issues pertain to members of the RCMP as well as Public Service Employees employed by the organization. In addition, the Human resources Activity is responsible for the management of property, material, transport and food related services.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police External Review Committee

Background

The RCMP External Review Committee was created on December 18, 1986 as a result of the 1976 Report of the Commission of Inquiry Relating to Public Complaints, Internal Discipline and Grievance Procedure within the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Responsibilities

The RCMP External Review Committee is a neutral third party that provides an independent and impartial review of certain types of grievances, and of formal disciplinary, discharge and demotion appeals referred to it from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The Committee reports annually to Parliament through the Solicitor General of Canada. The Committee may institute hearings, summon witnesses, administer oaths and receive and accept such evidence or other information as the Committee sees fit. The findings and recommendations of the Chairperson or the Committee are sent to the parties and the Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Legislation

- RCMP External Review Committee Rules of Practice and Procedure
- Regulations pursuant to the RCMP Act
- Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act

Organization

The RCMP External Review Committee is designated as a department within the meaning and for the purposes of the Financial Administration Act. Treasury Board is its employer.

The Committee is made up of a chairperson, a vice-chairperson and three other members, all appointed by the Governor in Council. The Chairperson is a full-time member, and is the chief executive officer of the Committee. The Executive Director is responsible to the Chairperson for the administration of the case review function.

♦ Grievances and Appeals

The Committee is responsible for the operational review of certain types of grievances, and of formal disciplinary, discharge and demotion appeals referred to the Committee by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The review program provides an analysis and reporting service and associated procedural and logistical services required to support an orderly and effective review process.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police Public Complaints Commission

Chapter 119

Background

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police Public Complaints Commission was established by Parliament in March 1986, as a result of recommendations arising from the 1976 Marin Commission of Inquiry Relating to Public Complaints, Internal Discipline and Grievance Procedure within the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and the 1981 McDonald Commission of Inquiry Concerning Certain Activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Part VII of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act, which made the Commission operational, came into force on September 30, 1988.

Responsibilities

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police Public Complaints Commission is an independent administrative tribunal empowered to conduct external and independent reviews of public complaints concerning the conduct of members of the RCMP in the course of their duties. The Chairman of the Commission reviews the disposition of the complaint by the RCMP and may conduct investigations and institute public hearings of the Commission. The Chairman may, as well, initiate a complaint personally if there are reasonable grounds for investigation. If the Chairman considers it advisable in the public interest, the Chairman may conduct an investigation of any complaint or institute a hearing regardless of whether the complaint has been investigated or otherwise dealt with by the RCMP. The findings and recommendations of the Chairman are sent to the Commissioner of the RCMP and the Solicitor General of Canada. The Chairman reports annually to Parliament through the Solicitor General of Canada.

Legislation

- Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act, Parts VI and VII

Organization

The Commission consists of a Chairman, a Vice-Chairman, a member for each contracting province and not more than three other members, to be appointed by order of the Governor in Council. The Chairman is the Chief Executive Officer of the Commission and has supervision over and direction of the work of the Commission staff. The senior staff of the Commission consists of an Executive Director, a General Counsel, a Director of Operations, Senior Reviewer/Analysts, Reviewer/Analysts, Investigators, a Senior Advisor Policy, Planning and Research, Regional Directors and an Office Manager.

Seaway International Bridge Corporation Ltd

Chapter 124

Background

The Seaway International Bridge Corporation, Ltd. (the Joint Venture) is an agent of The Federal Bridge Corporation, Ltd. and its U.S. counterpart, the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation. The purpose of the Joint Venture is to operate and manage the international toll bridge system between Cornwall, Ontario and Rooseveltown, New York, based on a September 1957 joint venture agreement.

The crossing consists of two high level bridges and an interconnecting roadway and toll plaza located on Cornwall Island, in the St. Lawrence River. The crossing accommodates single lane traffic in both north and south directions.

The St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation and the Federal Bridge Corporation Ltd. are the owners of the bridges and roadway.

The Corporation obtains the majority of its funds from bridge tolls, and a nominal amount from leases and licenses as well as interest earned on short-term investments.

The Corporation's objectives are to:

- Operate and maintain an international toll bridge system
- Ensure the safe and efficient movement of vehicle traffic and the protection of the environment; and
- Return annual financial surpluses to the Seaway entities

Responsibilities

The head office, located in Cornwall, Ontario, operates and manages an international toll bridge system between Cornwall, Ontario and Rooseveltown, New York, on behalf of the owners – The Federal Bridge Corporation Ltd. of Canada and the United States Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

Legislation

The Seaway International Bridge Corporation Ltd. was incorporated under the Canada Business Corporations Act in 1962 and is a subsidiary of the Federal Bridge Corporation Ltd. The Federal Bridge Corporation Ltd. was created under the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority Act in 1998, and owns all of the shares in the Seaway International Bridge Corporation.

Organization

The Corporation's activities are based on Cornwall Island in the St. Lawrence River near Cornwall, Ontario. Corporate functions include collection of tolls, maintenance of the structures and roadways, and administration.

Security Intelligence Review Committee

Chapter 125

General Information

Background

The Security Intelligence Review Committee was established under the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act in July 1984.

Responsibilities

The Security Intelligence Review Committee is an independent external review body mandated to audit and review the Canadian Security Intelligence Service's performance of its duties and functions. The Committee also has the task of investigating complaints from the public about any CSIS action. The complaints function can be divided into three areas: (1) The Committee is empowered to investigate complaints resulting from the denial of security clearances to government employees and contractors. (2) The Committee conducts investigations in relation to reports made by Government Ministers about persons in relation to citizenship and immigration, certain human rights matters, and organized crime. (3) As stipulated by the CSIS Act, the Committee investigates complaints lodged by persons "with respect to any act or thing" done by the Canadian Security Intelligence Service. The Committee is required to report annually to Parliament on these matters.

Legislation

- Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act

Organization

The Security Intelligence Review Committee consists of up to five members appointed from the Queen's Privy Council for Canada. The Review Committee has a staff that conducts research and investigations in support of the Committee's mandate.

Research Section

Provides the external review of the activities of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service through research studies, the results of which are included in the Committee's Annual Report to Parliament.

Complaints Section

Investigates complaints from individuals concerning the activities of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service and complaints resulting from the denial of federal security clearances. Investigates reports made by Government Ministers about persons in relation to citizenship and immigration, certain human rights matters, and organized crime. Investigates cases referred to the Committee from the Canadian Human Rights Commission.

Sept-Îles Port Authority

Chapter 126

Background

The Sept-Îles Port Authority was created on May 1, 1999 by letters patent issued on that date by the Minister of Transport pursuant to Section 8 of the Canada Marine Act. Therefore, the Sept-Îles Port Authority is a Canadian Port Authority and an agent of Her Majesty in right of Canada within the framework of the Canada Marine Act.

Before May 1, 1999 the Sept-Îles Port Authority was a non-corporate port within the meaning of the Canada Ports Corporation Act and was called the «Port of Sept-Îles».

Responsibilities

The Port of Sept-Îles contributes to the implementation of a National Marine Policy that provides Canada with the marine infrastructure that it needs and that offers effective support for the achievement of local, regional and national social and economic objectives and will promote and safeguard Canada's competitiveness and trade objectives.

Navigable waters under the jurisdiction of the Sept-Îles Port Authority as well as federal real property under its management and other federal real property occupied or held by it are listed in Schedules « A » and « B » to its letters patent.

The Sept-Îles Port Authority has the powers of a natural person and its authority to operate a port is limited to the power to engage in port activities related to shipping, navigation, transportation of passengers and handling and storage of goods, to the extent that these activities are specified in the letters patent and other activities that are deemed in the letters patent to be necessary to support port operations.

Among its rights and obligations the Sept-Îles Port Authority must see to the management of federal real property and personal property and any rights related thereto. It may set the fees to be paid in respect of ships, vehicles, aircraft and persons coming into or using the port and the goods and services it provides or any privilege conferred by it. As for order and safety, the Sept-Îles Port Authority shall take appropriate measures for the maintenance of order and the safety of persons and property in the port.

Legislation

The Council administers programs of support for research and training in the social sciences and humanities, including fellowships, research grants, strategic grants, and funding for research dissemination and other research-related activities.

Responsibilities

The Council's objectives are to enhance the advancement of knowledge by supporting basic research in the social sciences and humanities; to support strategic research in fields of national importance; to help ensure Canada's national capacity for research and expertise in the social sciences and humanities by supporting advanced training in these disciplines; to facilitate communication among scholars in Canada and abroad and to promote awareness and use of Council-funded results within the academic community, the public and private sectors and the general public. In addition, the Council performs a leadership role in research policy in Canada through consultations and liaison with government and the scholarly community.

Legislation

- Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council Act. 1976-77, c. 24, s.2
- Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council By-Law

Organization

President

The President is the chief executive officer of Council and is responsible for the overall management and direction of the work of Council staff in the development and delivery of programs.

Common Administrative Services Directorate

The Common Administrative Services Directorate provides administrative support to the Council in the areas of human resources, information systems, finance, administration and recorded information.

Programs Branch

The Branch is responsible for fostering, promoting and assisting research through the delivery of the Council's grants and fellowships programs and for maintaining the Assessors Database.

Communications

This Division has primary responsibility for Council's internal and external communications, public and media relations, and for implementation of communications policy and strategy. It provides information about Council programs and activities to the scholarly community, government, the media and the general public. It publishes the Council's annual report, applicant guides and forms, adjudication manuals, reports of consultative groups, as well as other informational material on SSHRC programs. It also prepares news releases, newsletters, official correspondence, briefs, statements, speeches, and communication plans, and is responsible for the design and content of the SSHRC web site.

Policy and Liaison Branch

This Branch enables the Council to strengthen its links with the research community, governments and outside organizations. The Branch also undertakes major initiatives to develop and broaden SSHRC's mandate and activities. It is responsible for the functions of the Corporate Secretariat. It also plans and conducts evaluations of Council programs, prepares program budget projections and allocations as well as coordinates policy and program development. In addition, it is responsible for national and international liaison and representation.

♦ Corporate Secretariat

This unit performs secretariat functions for the Council and its standing committees, and any other ad hoc groups created to study particular issues. The Secretariat also administers the Access to Information and Privacy (ATIP) legislation, and is responsible for the Selection Committees Nominations Database, and for legal, ethical and integrity issues.

Applications and Nominations Records

Description: This bank contains records of applications by individuals and organizations for grants through the Presidential Fund for Innovation and Development, and contains records of nominations of individuals for the Molson Prize for the Social Sciences and Humanities, as well as information related to the adjudication and administration of these awards. Applicants and organizations in the Presidential Fund are identified by name and file number assigned to the application. There are no nominee files in the Molson Prize, the nominations being kept in the pertinent Council central registry files. The bank contains some or all of the following information on applicants and nominees: year of birth, address, discipline, academic qualifications, occupation, citizenship (Canadian or permanent resident), language of application (English or French), project descriptions, third-party assessments and committee assessments. The amounts of money requested, the Council's decision, the amounts awarded and travel and administrative details for grant-holders, in addition to final reports are also included for Presidential Fund applications. Class of Individuals: University and independent scholars and members of academic organizations. Purpose: Information in this bank is used to review and select applications, monitor awards and administer the funds. Consistent Uses: For the Molson Prize, the information on nominees along with nominations in the Arts submitted to the Canada Council, is reviewed by a joint selection committee representing the two facets in the Prize's mandate. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information on Presidential Fund applications is retained for seven years (successful applications) and five years (unsuccessful applications). Information on the Molson Prize nominations is retained for seven years. Related to PR#: SHR SEC 005 TBS Registration: 003483 Bank Number: SHR PPU 076

Assessors Database

Description: This system contains all data relevant for the selection of assessors for applications submitted to the Council. The primary users are program officers of the Program Branch. The information includes the assessor's name, address, biographical details, area of specialization, as well as a record of the projects that each individual has evaluated. The data may also be transferred to the Corporate Database for historical purposes. Some 8,000 to 9,000 individual assessors may be consulted each year. Class of Individuals: Scholars in the academic community and individuals of the private sector. Purpose: This data bank is kept to allow staff to choose prospective assessors for applications submitted for support by Council. It also provides senior management and staff with an additional pool of potential committee members. Retention and Disposal Standards: Twenty-five years. Related to PR#: All PR's TBS Registration: 002433 Bank Number: SHR PPU 070

Canada Research Chairs Applications and Committee Records

Description: This bank contains records of applications by institutions as well as information related to the adjudication and administration of awards for the support and development of research and for research infrastructure. SSHRC administers this program on behalf of the three federal research councils (NSERC, CIHR, SSHRC), Industry Canada, and the Canada Foundation for Innovation. The bank contains information about chair candidates' date of birth, address, academic qualifications, occupation, professional experience, citizenship (Canadian, permanent resident or other), language of application (French or English), the amounts requested and the amounts awarded. It includes program of research descriptions, third-party and committee reviews, recommendations, and decisions. The bank contains the financial documentation generated in the administration of these awards. Class of Individuals: University and independent scholars, as well as individuals from the private sector, academic and non-academic organisations who provide reviews.

Purpose: Information in this bank is used to review applications, select candidates, monitor awards, and administer the program. Consistent Uses: Information is used in consultation with the partner agencies as required. It will be disclosed to the named partner agencies for the purposes of reviewing applications, administering awards, monitoring and evaluating the program. The information is also used for developing a bank of reviewers and adjudication committee members. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained for ten years (successful applications) and three years (unsuccessful applications). Related to PR#: SHR CHA 001 TBS Registration: 004446 Bank Number: RSH PPU 016

Central Mailing List

Description: This bank contains names and mailing addresses either provided directly by individuals or obtained through reference material commonly available in libraries, separated into different groupings, e.g. university presidents, university research administrators, learned societies officials, etc., to accommodate the distribution of different kinds of information. Class of Individuals: Officials in government, universities, the media, scholars in the academic community, and individuals in the private sector. Purpose: This data bank is used for the distribution and dissemination of Council's application forms and guidelines and its public relations information. Retention and Disposal Standards: The bank is updated annually. Related to PR#: SHR INF 015 TBS Registration: 002777 Bank Number: SHR PPU 075

Compliance – Integrity in Research and Scholarship

Description: This bank includes correspondence and reports collected and generated in the course of monitoring institutional and individual compliance with the Tri-Council Policy Statement on Integrity in Research and Scholarship. It may include allegations of non-compliance, which, with the permission of the complainants, are transmitted by the SSHRC to research institutions which are responsible for exploring allegations, summaries of institutional findings and sanctions imposed by the SSHRC's Executive Committee. Class of Individuals: Members of the academic community who make allegations of misconduct, who are the subject of allegations or who are officials in the academic community involved in determining whether allegations are well-founded. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to monitor the compliance of research institutions and individual researchers with the Tri-Council Policy Statement on Integrity in Research and Scholarship. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are maintained for five years following the last administrative action. TBS Registration: 003994 Bank Number: SHR PPU 082

Eco-Research Trainee Directory

Description: This bank contains data on students supported under the Eco-Research fellowships, research grants and research chairs programs (ended in 1995) administered by the Tri-Council Secretariat for the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council, the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council and the Medical Research Council. The information contained in each entry includes the individual's name, gender, address, telephone and fax numbers, email address, language skills, main discipline, related disciplines, type of position sought, title of thesis or dissertation, name of thesis supervisor, degrees and the universities which awarded the degrees, work experience, academic awards and distinctions, publications and date of availability. The Tri-Council Secretariat sought this information directly from the students who were made aware of the uses to be made of the information and consented to its release to potential employers by signing the questionnaire. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens and permanent residents. Purpose: The purpose of this bank was to put employers in touch with potential employees by circulating the latter's professional interests and research achievements. Consistent Uses: The information collected serves to respond to requests for statistical information on trainees funded or involved in Eco-Research projects. Retention and Disposal Standards: Five years. Related to PR#: SHR STR 086 TBS Registration: 003742 Bank Number: SHR PPU 080

Fellowships Applications and Committee Records

Description: This bank contains records of individual applications as well as information related to the adjudication and administration of the Council's fellowship programs including the Queen's Fellowships, Doctoral Fellowships, Postdoctoral Fellowships, Bora Laskin National Fellowship in Human Rights Research, the Jules and Gabrielle Léger Fellowship, the Thérèse F.-Casgrain Fellowship, and the William E. Taylor Fellowship. Each applicant is identified by name and the file number assigned to the application. The bank contains the applicant's year of birth, address, academic qualifications, occupation, citizenship (Canadian or permanent resident), language of application (English or French), the Council's decision on the application and the amount of the basic award. It also includes third-party assessments, committee rankings and appraisals, and travel and administrative details for fellowship holders. Class of Individuals: Graduate students, university scholars and independent scholars. Purpose: Information in the bank is used to review applications, select candidates, monitor awards and administer programs. Consistent Uses: Information is also used in consultation with other granting agencies to determine the most appropriate review mechanism or sources of funding. In the jointly-funded programs, such as the Casgrain Fellowship, personal information will be disclosed to the named public- and private-sector joint funding partners for purposes of monitoring and evaluating the program. In the case of applicants who have applied through their universities, the results of competitions are forwarded to the faculty of graduate studies offices which are responsible for processing applications from their institutions before sending them to Council. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained for ten years (successful applications) and five years (unsuccessful applications), with the exception of the following programs: Doctoral and Queen's Fellowships, ten years (successful applications) and seven years (unsuccessful applications). Related to PR#: SHR FEL 220 TBS Registration: 002419 Bank Number: SHR PPU 010

Grant Financial System

Description: This system controls and monitors the Council's disbursements to, and accounts receivable with, individual and institutional grant holders. The award holder is identified by the basic personal information and file number from the SSHRC Corporate database (SHR PPU 035). The information also includes the award holder's social insurance number, bank account number and payment requisition for funds committed. Class of Individuals: Graduate students, university scholars, independent scholars and members of academic organizations. Purpose: The system is used for administrative and financial control and reporting. It is also the basis for the creation of transaction files on payments to award holders. In addition, the system includes the award holder's social insurance number for the issuance of T4A slips (Income Tax Act, paragraph 237 (1)(b)). Retention and Disposal Standards: Six fiscal years from date of last payment. Related to PR#: All PR's TBS Registration: 002430 Bank Number: SHR PPU 055

Research Communication Applications and Committee Records

Description: This bank contains records of applications from individuals and associations as well as information related to the adjudication and administration of awards for funding in the Aid to Research and Transfer Journals, Aid to Occasional Research Conferences and International Congresses in Canada and support to umbrella organizations (currently being phased out) programs. Applications from individuals and associations are identified by name and file number assigned to the application. In the case of individual applicants the bank contains the year of their birth, address, academic qualifications, occupation, citizenship (Canadian or permanent resident), language of application (French or English), the amount of money requested, the Council's decision on the application and the amount granted. It also includes third-party and committee assessments and travel and administrative details for grant holders. Class of Individuals: University scholars and members of academic organizations. Purpose: The information in this bank is used to review applications, select candidates, monitor awards and administer programs. Consistent Uses: Information is also used in consultation with other granting agencies to determine the most appropriate review mechanisms or sources of funding. The results of competitions are forwarded to university research administration officers who are responsible for processing applications from their institutions before sending them to

Council, for administering the grants, and for informing the candidates of the outcome of their applications. The information may also be used for developing a bank of potential external assessors and adjudication committee members. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained for five years (successful applications) and three years (unsuccessful applications) with the exception of the Aid to Small Universities program whose files are retained for five years (all eligible applications are successful) and the Specialized Research Collections program (ended), whose files are retained for ten years (successful applications) and five years (unsuccessful applications). Related to PR#: SHR IDR 125 and 175. TBS Registration: 002422 Bank Number: SHR PPU 025

Research Grant Applications and Committee Records

Description: This bank contains records of applications by individuals for grants under the Research Grants, Major Collaborative Research Initiatives, General Research Grants and the Aid to Small Universities programs, as well as information related to the adjudication and administration of awards. Each applicant is identified by name and file number assigned to the application. The bank contains the applicant's year of birth, address, discipline, academic qualifications, occupation, citizenship (Canadian or permanent resident), language of application (English or French). It also includes research project descriptions, the amounts of money requested, the Council's decision on the application, amount awarded, third-party and committee assessments, and travel and administrative details for grant holders, in addition to productivity reports. Class of Individuals: University scholars. Purpose: Information in this bank is used to review and select applications, monitor awards and administer programs. Consistent Uses: Information is also used in consultation with other granting agencies to determine the most appropriate review mechanism or sources of funding and for joint review and funding of researchers from several disciplines which significantly overlap the jurisdictions of more than one granting Council. The results of competitions are forwarded to university research administration officers who are responsible for processing applications from their institutions before sending them to Council, for administering the grants, and for informing the candidates of the outcome of their applications. The information may also be used for developing a bank of potential external assessors and adjudication committee members. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained for five years from the date of the final report (successful applications), and for three years from the date of the adjudication decision (unsuccessful applications) for Research Grants program. For the Major Collaborative Research Initiatives program, the files are retained for five years from the date of the final report (successful applications) and five years from the date of the adjudication decision (unsuccessful applications). Related to PR#: SHR RES 035, 042, 055, 060, 090, 091 and 241 TBS Registration: 002420 Bank Number: SHR PPU 015

Research Outcomes Pilot Project Database

Description: This bank contains information pertaining to grantees in the Strategic Grants program dating from 1988 to 1995 and in the Research Grants program from 1988 to 1992. The information contained in each entry includes the project title, name of principal applicant, project dates, an indication whether the grantee is deceased, and statements on the status and completeness of the productivity report. Narrative information was captured from the summary of the research project, on the original, revised and achieved objectives, and on the contributions of the research to the advancement of knowledge and on its practical impact. Narrative and/or statistical information was also captured on the research training aspect of the project, on the composition of the research team (the latter including information on the employee name, type, status, and role), and on the number and level of involvement and funding of the partners. As well, there is narrative and/or statistical information on the international aspects of the research, on the preservation of data, on the number and value of acquisitions and rentals made using the grant funds, and on travel expenditures. Lastly, information on communication activities was also captured, such as the publication of books, chapters, etc., public presentations and awards, as well as on any other research activities resulting directly or indirectly from the funded research.

Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens and permanent residents. Purpose: This bank was established to attempt to find a more efficient method of monitoring and assessing the outcomes of research as a means for evaluating the achievements and impact of research funded by the Council. Consistent Uses: The information collected was also used to aid in the assessment and review of any future applications by the grantees.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Ten years. Related to PR#: SHR RES 035, SHR STR 111 and 117 TBS Registration: 003743 Bank Number: SHR PPU 081

Selection Committees Nominations Database

Description: This system contains data on potential selection committee members provided by Canadian universities and the learned societies. The information contained in each entry includes the individual's name, degrees, university, discipline, field of interest, geographic area, year of birth, gender and language. The system also holds records on current and past service for individuals who sit on Council selection committees. The Secretariat Division is responsible for seeking new nominations and updates on existing data, every two years and also holds a set of binders containing personal résumés obtained from nominees, filed in alphabetical order. Class of Individuals: Scholars in the academic community.

Purpose: This data bank provides senior management and staff with a pool of potential committee members. It is also kept to allow staff to choose prospective assessors for applications submitted for support through Council programs. Retention and Disposal Standards: Twenty-five years. Related to PR#: All PR's TBS Registration: 002432 Bank Number: SHR PPU 065

SSHRC Corporate Database

Description: This data bank contains information on all individuals and institutions applying for the Council's grants and fellowships programs, and includes data from application files of discontinued programs. Each applicant is identified by name and year of birth. The file also contains information on the individual applicant's academic background, gender, language of application (English or French), and citizenship (Canadian or permanent resident). The number assigned to each application made by an individual to the Council is included in the record, along with a code indicating the result of that application. Class of Individuals: Graduate students, university scholars, independent scholars, individuals from the private sector and members of academic and non-academic organizations. Purpose: This bank is used to identify applicants and to constitute a history of Council support to individuals and organizations. Consistent Uses: The information in the database is also used in the administration of the programs and in the production of reports and statistics. Retention and Disposal Standards: Ten years. Related to PR#: All PR's TBS Registration: 002435 Bank Number: SHR PPU 035

Administration Files

The general administrative and correspondence files of the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council contain a certain amount of personal information not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. Such personal information includes suggestions and opinions from the general public, which form part of a specific subject file. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject are provided. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Reports and Surveys

For purposes of program planning and evaluation, the Council requires a variety of reports concerning aspects of social sciences and humanities research in Canada. The reports themselves, published or unpublished, do not contain personal information about individuals. In the process of preparing such reports, personal information is necessarily obtained. This information may include current academic position, professional qualifications of individuals, nature of research being undertaken by individuals and present and past funding of an individual's research. This is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the study or report involved. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Background

The Department of the Solicitor General was established in 1966 when Parliament enacted the Department of the Solicitor General Act, which assigned to the Solicitor General responsibility and accountability for the management and direction of reformatories, prisons, penitentiaries, conditional release, remissions, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Evolutionary additions and changes to this mandate resulted in the Department's reorganization into a ministry, incorporating the Department, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the Correctional Service of Canada, the National Parole Board, the Office of the Correctional Investigator, the Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS), the Office of the Inspector General of CSIS, the RCMP External Review Committee and the RCMP Public Complaints Commission.

Responsibilities

The Department provides advice and support to the Solicitor General with respect to his responsibility for the provision of direction to the Agencies; enhancement of policy cohesion and coordination within the Portfolio; his accountability to Parliament for the Agencies; for his national leadership role in the federal activities in policing, national security, corrections and conditional release; and his role as the Minister responsible for Aboriginal policing.

The primary objective of the Department is to contribute to the public safety of Canadians through the promotion and maintenance of a just, peaceful and safe society.

The level, complexity and cross-jurisdictional nature of the issues addressed by the Department require that it work closely with others, including the Ministry agencies, federal departments such as Justice Canada, the provinces and other partners in the criminal justice system.

Legislation

- Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act
- Corrections and Conditional Release Act
- Criminal Code of Canada
- Criminal Records Act
- Department of the Solicitor General Act
- Prisons and Reformatories Act
- Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act
- Security Offenses Act
- Transfer of Offenders Act

Organization

Communications Group

The Communications Group provides information to general and specialised publics about government policies and programs in the areas of corrections, parole, policing and security, as well as First Nations policing. Its role is to provide communications advice and support to the Solicitor General, the Deputy Solicitor General and the Department's managers.

Corporate Services Directorate

The Corporate Services Directorate provides advice and support to the Department in the areas of: finance and administration; security; informatics and telecommunications; human resource management; library services; and management review. It also provides advice and support to the three small review agencies, primarily in the areas of finance and administration, security, and human resource management.

Corrections and Aboriginal Policing Branch

The Corrections and Aboriginal Policing Branch provides strategic advice and support to the Solicitor General with respect to his direction of CSC and his national leadership role in the areas of corrections, conditional release and of Aboriginal policing. The Branch also advises and supports the Solicitor General in: his accountability to Parliament for the activities of CSC, the National Parole Board and the Office of the Correctional Investigator; the administration of the Minister's statutory responsibilities respecting corrections, conditional release and Aboriginal policing; and his general responsibility as a Cabinet Minister to contribute to the public policy decisions of the Government.

♦ Aboriginal Policing Directorate

The Aboriginal Policing Directorate is responsible for the implementation of the First Nations Policing Policy and related program administration and provides strategic advice to the Minister regarding the Solicitor General's responsibilities related to this initiative. The Directorate is mandated to negotiate tripartite policing agreements with First Nations and provincial/territorial governments and to implement the program at the regional level. It is also responsible for policy and program development (on- and off-reserve), and research activities geared towards improving the quality of First Nations policing services.

♦ Corrections Directorate

The Directorate provides advice and support to the Solicitor General in his direction of CSC and in his accountability to Parliament for NPB. The Aboriginal Corrections Policy Unit tests and evaluates innovative models of offender treatment in Aboriginal communities which have developed healing processes to develop and inform policy. The Directorate is therefore responsible for providing advice on the strategic priorities of CSC and NPB, and on a broad range of correctional program issues and activities. To support the Minister in his public policy leadership role in the corrections area, the Directorate works with CSC and NPB to develop research-based policy initiatives aimed at addressing the requirement for a more effective, efficient and accountable federal corrections system.

Executive Services Division

The Executive Services Division ensures that the required collaboration of the Agencies is undertaken to allow the Minister to fulfill his many parliamentary and Cabinet responsibilities. The division also supports the Minister by integrating major briefings and documentation from all parts of the Department and Agencies in order to prepare the Minister for official meetings and visits. In addition, Executive Services manages the timely processing of ministerial correspondence, as well as the Department's Access to Information and Privacy (ATIP) requests. Secretarial and office support services to the Minister's office are also provided by this division.

Integrated Justice Information Secretariat

The Integrated Justice Information Secretariat is responsible for providing ongoing leadership, technical, policy and research support in the pursuit of the integration of federal criminal justice information systems, enabling critical information sharing, and positioning criminal justice agencies to act effectively to achieve program objectives. The Secretariat supports the Interdepartmental Working Group and the Interdepartmental Steering Committee on Integrated Justice Information, which aim to promote the principles and objectives of criminal justice by ensuring an integrated, coordinated federal approach to the management and sharing of criminal justice information in partnership with other criminal justice jurisdictions. The Secretariat is responsible for implementation of the five-year action plan, including the development of a policy framework, standards and partnerships for a Canada Public Safety Information Network (CPSIN).

Policing and Security Branch

The Policing and Security Branch provides strategic advice and support to the Solicitor General with respect to his direction of the RCMP and CSIS and his national leadership role in the areas of policing and national security. The Branch also advises and supports the Solicitor General in: his accountability to Parliament for the activities of the RCMP and CSIS, the RCMP Public Complaints Commission, the RCMP External Review Committee and the Office of the Inspector General of CSIS; the administration of the Minister's statutory responsibilities respecting law enforcement and security; and his general responsibility as a Cabinet Minister to contribute to the public policy decisions of the Government.

♦ National Security Directorate

The Directorate provides advice and support to the Solicitor General in his direction, control and accountability for CSIS and the security functions of the RCMP. To this end, the Directorate supports the Minister with policy advice respecting his responsibilities for the accountability and review instruments and framework set out in the CSIS Act. The Directorate coordinates the development of the national counter-terrorism program, which includes the National Counter-Terrorism Plan and the Operational Readiness Program, and the federal response to threats against national security. It also monitors and assesses the impact of developing technologies on the ability of law enforcement and national security agencies to lawfully intercept communications or search and seize information.

♦ Policing and Law Enforcement Directorate

The Directorate provides advice and support to the Solicitor General in his direction of the RCMP and in respect of the priorities and proposals for initiatives advanced by the RCMP. To this end, the Directorate is responsible for: developing and reviewing policy proposals governing the overall effectiveness and accountability of the RCMP; developing and implementing federal policy on the management of RCMP policing agreements with provinces, territories and municipalities; and reviewing RCMP policy initiatives. The Directorate is also responsible for advising and supporting the Solicitor General in his public policy leadership role in the area of policing and law enforcement. To this end, the Directorate is responsible for developing research-based policy initiatives with federal, national, and international policing and law enforcement implications.

♦ Strategic Policy Directorate

Working with other Directorates within the Department and with the Agencies of the Ministry, the Strategic Policy Directorate is responsible for providing advice to the Solicitor General, the Deputy Solicitor General and other senior officials. Two divisions make up the Directorate: the Portfolio Policy & Coordination Division, and the Partnerships and Citizen Engagement Division.

The Portfolio Policy & Coordination Division is responsible for providing advice on issues relating to policy planning and coordination in the Portfolio. To this end, the Division provides coordination and support to the ongoing development of public policy, performance indicators, and portfolio coordination. The Division consults and maintains liaison with portfolio agencies, central agencies and other federal departments, and ministry strategic performance indicators particularly as linked to the Social Union Framework Agreement (SUFA) Accountability. The Division also supports the Ministry through research coordination, environmental scanning initiatives, and providing strategic policy advice.

The Partnerships and Citizen Engagement Division provides a focal point of support for the consultations, partnerships and citizen engagement initiatives that advance the priorities of the Ministry. To this end, the Division coordinates and advises on citizen engagement activities, and federal/provincial/territorial meetings. It also advises on relations with the non-government and voluntary stakeholders. In so doing, the Division works in close cooperation with other directorates of the Department, the Ministry Agencies, central agencies and other federal departments, Provincial and Territorial officials responsible for criminal justice and organizations and representatives of the private and voluntary sectors.

Standards Council of Canada

Chapter 130

General Information

Background

The Standards Council of Canada was established in 1970 by an Act of Parliament to promote efficient and effective voluntary standardization in Canada.

Responsibilities

The Standards Council carries out its task through the National Standards System (NSS). The NSS consists of individuals involved in the development and application of standards and of independent organizations accredited by the Standards Council to provide services related to standards development, certification, testing, quality systems registration and environmental systems registration. The system was created to provide a medium through which Canadian organizations involved in such activities may operate and co-operate to recognize, establish and improve standardization in Canada. It provides a comprehensive Canadian standardization capability to meet both national and international requirements and responsibilities.

The Standards Council ensures effective Canadian participation in the work of the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) and the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC). Both of these international agencies have as their objective the development of standards, with a view to facilitating international trade of goods and services. ISO work is concerned with standardization in many disciplines, except for the electrotechnology field which is IEC's responsibility.

The Standards Council works to secure the acceptance of Canadian conformity assessment results in foreign markets in order to facilitate international trade. It cooperates with its foreign counterparts in the development of mutual recognition agreements, and with other Canadian bodies such as the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT) in the development and implementation of bilateral, regional and international trade agreements.

Legislation

- Standards Council of Canada Act

Organization

Corporate Services Branch

The Branch ensures the coordination of Council programs within budgetary limitations and verifies that all activities are in keeping with its objectives and procedures as set out in the Standards Council of Canada Act and by-laws.

It provides marketing, communications and administrative services for all Council staff. It also performs the planning, accounting and reporting functions for all of the Council. It is accountable for revenues and appropriations and is responsible for discharging Council's liabilities.

♦ Communications Division

The Communications Division coordinates marketing and communications activities for the Standards Council and the NSS. It oversees design and content for the SCC Web site. It places articles, advertising and public service announcements with various media, to publicize the activities and services of Council. It is also responsible for writing speeches, producing audio-visual materials and coordinating special events and trade show exhibits. It publishes the annual report and various publications about the Council and the NSS Intergovernmental Affairs and Trade Branch

Intergovernmental Affairs and Trade Branch

♦ Information and Research Services Section

The Information and Research Services section includes the Technical Documentation Centre and the WTO/NAFTA Enquiry Point.

This section is responsible for planning, developing and implementing activities, services and products to ensure that the private and public sectors have ready access to information on standards and standards-related activities, including Canadian, foreign and international standards, technical regulations, conformity assessment requirements and Standards Council programs, activities and services. It also functions as the Canadian member of the International Organization for Standardization Information Network (ISONET) and coordinates Canadian participation on the ISO Committee on Information (INFCO).

The WTO/NAFTA Enquiry Point is required by the Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade (TBT) and Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures (SPS) under the World Trade Organization (WTO) Agreement as well as the Canada-United States-Mexico North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). Under contract with the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT), the Council operates the WTO/NAFTA Enquiry Point which provides access to a wealth of strategic information essential to the design, manufacture, marketing, export and import of products and services. It provides an e-mail notification service that gives Canadian companies and regulators advance warning when regulations are changing in Canadian and foreign markets.

The Technical Documentation Centre of this institution, which has been designated as a public reading room under the Access to Information Act, is open to the public on an appointment basis. Its holdings include a collection of over 400,000 standards and standards-related documents, standards catalogues of over 800 standards developing organizations, as well as various handbooks, directories and indices. In addition, the Documentation Centre subscribes to a number of Canadian, International and foreign periodicals. The Documentation Centre is equipped with various electronic search tools, some of which are also available through the Standards Council's Web site. Refer to Reading Room Section for appointment information.

Standards Branch

The Branch coordinates voluntary standardization activities among standards development organizations. It assesses and recommends for accreditation organizations engaged in standards development, it also reviews standards for acceptance as National Standards of Canada. The Branch is responsible for ensuring effective Canadian participation in the work of international standardization organizations and for programs of training and technical assistance to developing countries in the field of standardization.

Conformity Assessment Branch

The Branch coordinates voluntary standardization activities among calibration and testing laboratories, product certification organizations, quality and environmental system registration organizations, quality and environmental auditor trainers and certifiers, and maintains liaison with federal and provincial government authorities, industry and consumers. It assesses and recommends for accreditation organizations engaged in product certification, calibration testing and registration, auditor certification and training of quality and environmental auditors.

Chapter 131

Background

Statistics Canada collects and provides statistical information on the characteristics and behaviour of Canadian households, businesses, institutions and governments for research, policy development, program administration, decision-making and general informational purposes. This is done under the authority of the Statistics Act which prohibits the disclosure of identifiable information to anyone but the individual person, business or organization concerned.

The statistical information banks maintained by Statistics Canada contain some personal information that has been obtained from a variety of sources. Information is collected directly from the individual through the censuses of population and agriculture, from sample surveys such as surveys on income and expenditure, labour force surveys and special surveys. It is also collected through certain formal agreements the agency has entered into with large social institutions and various levels of Canadian governments. These arrangements give Statistics Canada access to administrative records for the purpose of extracting data on the client populations of the institutions of Health, Education and Justice and on the activities of the population as it comes in contact with the state (e.g., the registration of births, deaths and marriages).

One of the most important of these agreements is one Statistics Canada has with Revenue Canada (Taxation) to access taxation returns for statistical purposes, thus allowing the use of an administrative file of the federal government containing a wealth of information on the socio-economic fabric of the Canadian population. The accessing of taxation records has allowed Statistics Canada to exempt many respondents, particularly small businesses, from the filing of regular questionnaires.

Information banks maintained by Statistics Canada are largely automated. Since records in these banks are meant to be used for statistical purposes and not for administrative purposes, they are rarely classified by name. In fact, few data banks contain names. Some banks are organized by a unique identifier, be it a number assigned by Statistics Canada, a number assigned by the administrative source, such as a registration number, or the social insurance number. Records in other banks are classified geographically, or by the name of the company. It should be noted that many of the statistical data banks contain only a sample of the population. To locate a statistical record, Statistics Canada will require, in most cases, not only an identifier, but additional information such as the time period in which an individual has responded to a survey, or his/her street address, or his/her industry sector.

Responsibilities

The mandate and program objectives of Statistics Canada are: to collect and publish in impersonal formats statistical information on the characteristics and behaviour of Canadian households, businesses, institutions and governments for research, policy development, program administration, decision-making and general informational purposes; to collaborate with other participants in the broader national statistical system in extending the system's scope, usefulness and use; and to provide leadership, professional expertise and coordination in such efforts.

Legislation

- Corporations Returns Act (CRA), 1985, c. C43
- Statistics Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. S19

Organization

Office of the Chief Statistician of Canada

This area is the focal point for the administration of all matters pertaining to Statistics Canada.

Chief Statistician of Canada

The Chief Statistician is a deputy of the Minister Responsible for Statistics Canada. The Chief Statistician advises on matters pertaining to statistical programs of the department and agencies of the Government of Canada, and confers with such departments and agencies to that end. The Chief Statistician supervises generally the administration of the Statistics Act and controls the operation and staff of Statistics Canada.

Departmental Secretariat

The Departmental Secretariat serves as the principal focal point for liaison with the Minister Responsible for Statistics Canada, other ministers, and members of Parliament generally. In support of the Minister, the Departmental Secretariat processes correspondence, deals with parliamentary returns, responds to oral and written questions and prepares briefing material on issues relating to Statistics Canada's programs and policies.

Its other functions include providing staff support to the Chief Statistician and the Policy Committee, as well as liaising with various management committees. The Departmental Secretariat is also responsible for review and control of official government documentation.

Analysis and Development Field

This field is headed by an Assistant Chief Statistician with responsibility for Socio-economic and Business Analysis.

◆ Socio-Economic and Business Analysis Branch

This Branch includes the following divisions: Social and Economic Studies, Business and Labour Market Analysis and Family and Labour Studies.

Social and Economic Studies Division

Its role is to conduct analysis as well as to stimulate, support and integrate analytic work throughout Statistics Canada. It is also responsible for facilitating the utilization of social and economic data files.

Business and Labour Market Analysis Division

Business and Labour Market substantive research and data development takes place in this area. These activities build on the unique data holdings available to Statistics Canada researchers. This includes the use of worker and workplace data to create unique data sources for analytical purposes. The analytical topics include unemployment and the UI system; displaced workers and labour adjustment; wages, earnings, hours worked and earnings inequality; intergenerational income mobility; the school to work transition of post-secondary graduates; job creation in small and large firms; other related topics in firm dynamics and labour markets. Analysis of socio-economic developments in neighbourhoods in Canadian cities is also part of the research agenda. The data development projects include the development of an establishment and workers survey to address issues such as human resource practices in firms and their impact on the use of UI, wage inequality, and firm performance, and technology and its association with skill mix and training; and the changing demand for various types of labour.

Family and Labour Studies Division

Provides social-scientific analysis of data pertaining to trends and patterns of important variables pertaining to support programs, informal support networks for key population groups and aspects of vulnerability in Canadian communities as well as assistance to users of such data. The division is a center of analysis pertaining to aspects of unpaid work and charitable giving, and is the custodian of The Total Work Accounts System.

Business and Trade Statistics Field

This field produces a wide range of monthly, quarterly and annual statistics on manufacturing, primary industries, transportation, communications, computing, construction, agriculture, merchandising services, external trade, prices, business finance, science and technology, small business, public finance, Corporations Returns Act (CRA), regional industrial structure and related areas. It is headed by an Assistant Chief Statistician with responsibility for Industry

Statistics, Prices, International Trade and Finance Statistics and the Project to Improve Provincial Economic Statistics.

◆ Industry Statistics Branch

This Branch is responsible for planning, directing, coordinating and controlling the activities of subject-matter divisions to ensure the provision of statistical information and advice to governments, private organizations and institutions. It includes the following divisions: Manufacturing, Construction and Energy, Distributive Trades, Services Industries, Agriculture and Transportation.

Agriculture Division

Produces information on the supply of agricultural commodities (production and inventory levels); the resources employed to produce these commodities (land and capital); the returns to farmers arising out of production; revenues and expenses, off-farm income of operators and farm families by type of farm; socio-economic characteristics of farmers; and apparent per capita food consumption.

Distributive Trades Division

Conducts monthly and quarterly surveys on retail and wholesale trade to produce a range of current indicators such as sales and inventories by trade groups, by province, and by commodity groups. Also, conducts annual surveys covering retail and wholesale trade to produce a more elaborate industry profile including variables such as cost of goods sold, gross margin, operating revenue, operating expenses and operating profit.

Manufacturing, Construction and Energy Division

Conducts monthly surveys on manufacturing, forestry and energy to produce a range of current indicators such as shipments or sales, inventories, and orders. Also, conducts the annual surveys covering manufacturing, forestry, construction, mineral fuels, pipelines and utility industries to produce a range of cost structure, material input, commodity output and employment data.

Services Industries Division

Responsible for the development of an integrated and comprehensive program of statistics on services.

Transportation Division

Collects, publishes and makes available statistics on air, rail, road and water transportation industries and on related traffic and infrastructures.

◆ Prices, International Trade and Finance Statistics Branch

This Branch is responsible for planning, directing, coordinating and controlling the activities of the subject matter divisions to ensure the provision of statistical information and advice to governments, private organizations and institutions. This Branch includes the following divisions: Prices, International Trade, Small Business and Special Surveys, Investment and Capital Stock, Industrial Organization and Finance and Science, Innovation and Electronic Information.

Industrial Organization and Finance Division

Produces financial statistics for enterprises and corporation taxation statistics. It also administers the Corporations Returns Act (CRA).

International Trade Division

Responsible for the compilation, analysis and dissemination of Canada's merchandise export and import statistics and related price and volume indices.

Investment and Capital Stock Division

Provides a focus for the collection, analysis and publication of statistics relating to investment activities.

Prices Division

Provides information on consumer prices and industrial products, raw materials, farm input prices and construction price indexes, as well as a number of indexes relating to capital expenditures and services.

Science, Innovation and Electronic Information Division

Responsible for the development of an integrated and comprehensive program of statistics on science and technology, and communications.

Small Business and Special Surveys Division

Provides statistical information on and for small business in Canada and responds to information needs of clients concerning business statistics in Canada which cannot be met through the Agency's on-going statistical programs. These business data gaps are serviced either through special surveys of businesses, data linkage of micro records or data integration of existing data.

♦ Project to Improve Provincial Economic Statistics

This Branch is responsible for planning, directing, coordinating and controlling the activities of subject-matter divisions to ensure the provision of statistical information and advice to governments, private organizations and institutions. It includes the following division: Enterprise Statistics.

Enterprise Statistics Division

Responsible for managing and coordinating the Unified Enterprise Survey (UES). The UES brings many of Statistics Canada's individual annual business surveys under a common framework, including a single survey frame; a sample design framework; conceptual harmonization of survey content; means of using relevant administrative data; common data collection, processing and analysis tools; and a common data warehouse. The UES is being implemented gradually from reference year 1997. A pilot test of the UES involving a limited number of industries was conducted for the 1997 reference year. The first full UES was for the 1998 reference year, involving an expanded number of industries, including the wholesale industry. By reference year 2000, the UES covers about 2/3 of the economy, including many service industries, wholesale, retail, manufacturing, some transportation industries and aquaculture.

Communications and Operations Field

This Field provides a full range of external communication functions, including respondent, user, and media relations. It also administers the central and regional operational functions essential to the conduct of the agency's statistical programs, including regional data collection and processing activities, marketing, publishing and electronic data dissemination. This Field is headed by an Assistant Chief Statistician with responsibility for the Marketing and Information Services, Regional Operations Branches and Operations and Administrative Support.

♦ Marketing and Information Services Branch

This Branch is responsible for the activities which design and organize the information products of the agency to service the needs of its various clients at the federal, provincial and municipal government levels, and in the public and private sectors. It includes the following Divisions: Communications, Library and Information Centre, Dissemination and Marketing.

Communications Division

Promotes effective communications between Statistics Canada and its public. The Division coordinates the release of the Agency's information to the public, notably through "The Daily/Le Quotidien" (the Agency's official release vehicle) and provides communications planning, environmental monitoring, media relations, client relations and respondent relations support to Agency programs. In addition, the Division provides assistance with public consultations and coordinates federal-provincial consultative system. Publishing of information products, such as the "Canada Year Book", "Canada: A Portrait", and "Infomat", is another major responsibility. Through the "SCAN", the employee electronic magazine "@StatCan", and its Internal Communication Network, the Division contributes to internal communications in the Agency. Finally, Communications Division maintains and improves the overall quality of communications at Statistics Canada by providing editorial services and communications training.

Library and Information Centre

Responsible for providing an information and document delivery service to Statistics Canada, other government departments, libraries, researchers and the general public. The Division collects and provides access to the complete inventory of Statistics Canada documents produced in paper and electronic form. This collection is diverse and contains numbered publications as well as research papers, working papers, user guides, CD-ROMs and associated documentation and internal documents. This collection dates to the founding of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in 1918 but also includes documents such as census, foreign trade etc. dating to 1841 from the various statistical divisions which merged in 1918 to become the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The larger collection consists of monographs, serials and reports in the subject areas related to Statistics Canada's activities and supporting documents published by Canadian federal and provincial governments, American and selected foreign and international organizations such as the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund. The library provides services, such as document delivery for publications available from other libraries, preparation of selective bibliographies and Statistics Canada Product and Service registration.

Dissemination Division

Responsible for the production of the Department's catalogued publications and the development and operation of techniques and mechanisms to foster the public access to Statistics Canada's information through electronic means.

Marketing Division

Provides overall leadership and coordination for the marketing activities of Statistics Canada. These activities include the development of strategic marketing plans, market research to identify client needs, coordination of promotional and sales campaigns, pricing and licensing of the agency's products and the management of a marketing information system.

◆ Operations and Administrative Support Branch

This Branch is responsible for analysing, evaluating and reviewing all statistical operations; and for managing the integrated headquarters operations. It also develops and implements approaches and strategies for integrating operations and services throughout the agency, including the regionalisation of operational activities, and manages and coordinates related production support services. It includes Administrative Support Services Division, the Operations and Integration Division and the Operations Research and Development Division.

Administrative Support Services Division

Involved in the following areas: Document management, distribution of data collection material, publications and general correspondence, facilities management and material and contracts services.

Operations and Integration Division (O&ID)

Provides survey operations support to subject matter divisions for close to 200 surveys. O&ID is involved in preparing mail-outs, frame maintenance, collection, capture, coding, edit, micro analysis, processing tabulating, manuscripting, proof-reading and in some cases, macro analysis as well. The Operations Research and Development Division (ORDD) provides a focus for the development activities associated with O&ID. The scope of the work includes analysis of operations, methods improvement, development of standards and incentive systems, designing tools for production planning and scheduling, operations redesign and automation training, statistical quality control and support of O&ID's EDP functions.

Operations Research and Development Division

Its primary mission is to initiate and manage a program of research and development designed to improve efficiency, effectiveness, and job satisfaction with potential application to the Operations and Integration Division and other operational entities in Statistics Canada.

◆ Regional Operations Branch

This organization is responsible through a headquarters staff and a network of regional offices for survey data collection, primary processing and editing, for the provision of statistical information and advice at the regional level, and for related user respondents and community relations. Regional offices are located in Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Sturgeon Falls, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, Vancouver and Calgary. The Branch includes the Survey Operations Division and the Advisory Services Division.

Advisory Services Division

Provides an information dissemination network across the country through nine regional Reference Centres. A team of information consultants carries out a range of marketing and sales functions, dealing directly with Statistics Canada's clients in order to customize the information to meet their needs.

Survey Operations Division

Responsible for researching, costing, developing, delivering and evaluating data collection and data capture procedures and training in cooperation with client divisions and several external departments. The Division provides services in the areas of project management, operations research and analysis, organization and methods of data collection, financial control, logistical support, data capture and operations audit and evaluation.

Informatics and Methodology Field

This field ensures that the statistical methodology used by all surveys is sound and statistically efficient, and provides leadership for and management of information processing in Statistics Canada. It is headed by an Assistant Chief Statistician with responsibility for Informatics, Classification Systems, Methodology and International and Professional Relations.

◆ International and Professional Relations Division

Coordinates Statistics Canada's contacts with the statistical offices of other countries and international organizations, such as the United Nations, its specialized agencies and regional commissions; the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development; the European Union; the International Statistical Institute; and so on. It provides policy advice on international matters to senior departmental management; co-ordinates the work required for fulfilling international obligations, such as representation at intergovernmental meetings and data reporting; manages the department's International Technical Assistance Program; and maintains contact on behalf of the department with the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade and the Canadian International Development Agency. The division's responsibilities also include co-ordination of the department's relations with professional societies;; and the administration of the department's approval system for foreign and non-operational domestic travel.

◆ Classification Systems Branch

This Branch develops and promulgates classification systems; standardizes economic, social and geographic concepts; develops, enhances and maintains the business register as a major integration instrument of survey-taking; and is responsible for the exploitation of taxation and other administrative data. It includes the Standards Division, Business Register Division, the Geography Division and Tax Data Division.

Business Register Division

Responsible for the development and maintenance of a central register of firms and their constituent establishments for purposes of statistical collections.

Geography Division

Maintains Statistics Canada's geographic classification infrastructure, develops geographic concepts and products and services for clients, including the Census, and is the centre of expertise in the application of computerized geographic and cartographic techniques.

Standards Division

Develops standard classifications, monitors their implementation, and establishes official concordances between international and Canadian classifications. It standardizes economic and social concepts and provides a system of comprehensive documentation for all surveys conducted in Statistics Canada.

Tax Data Division

Responsible for accessing and transcribing statistical data from Revenue Canada records to supplement or replace data collected by survey, and for maintaining a tax database.

◆ Informatics Branch

This Branch provides electronic data processing (EDP) services to Statistics Canada. The headquarters staff, in conjunction with other members of the Branch, is responsible for the formulation of policies relating to EDP and managing overall branch activities. It also coordinates relations with the users of various systems and data processing services. The Branch provides the chairman and secretariat services for the executive sub-committee on EDP. It includes the Informatics Technology Services Division and the System Development Division.

Informatics Technology Services Division

Provides end-users of informatics a comprehensive range of informatics and communications services. Services include the maintenance and support of informatics equipment, and communications hardware, and related software, training and consultation and liaison with clients. Description: Records relating to resources (expenditures and personnel) for science and technology in the public and private sectors in Canada; indicators of the actors, activities, linkages, and outcomes of science and technology activities in Canada. Topics: Science and technology spending and personnel in the federal and provincial governments, universities, and hospitals; research and development spending and personnel in the business enterprise sector (by industry, country of control, revenue size, employment size, province and source of funds) and the private non-profit sector; generation of national and provincial estimates of gross expenditures on R&D; intellectual property management in universities, teaching hospitals and the federal government; human resources in science and technology; the impact of advance technologies in key industrial sectors (construction, natural resources, manufacturing); and tracking the introduction of new products and processes (manufacturing and services sectors); and tracking the use and intended use of biotechnology in industry and the federal government. Program Record Number: STC SST 465

Small Business and Special Surveys

Description: Records related to the Small Business Statistics Program, including Small Business Profiles and the Employment Dynamics, are compiled from taxation records and from the Longitudinal Employment Analysis Program (LEAP) file. Records also relate to the conduct of special surveys, record linkages and data integration projects which respond to information needs of clients concerning business economic and production statistics in Canada. Recent examples include the Construction Industry Wage Rate Survey, Aerospace and Defence Industry Survey, the Survey of Financing of Small and Medium Enterprises and the Food Processing and Information System database. Program Record Number: STC SBS 524

Communications and Operations Field:

Communications and Operations Field Operations

Description: General operations relating to the overall functions of the Field. Program Record Number: STC COM 565

Communications Division:

Communications

Description: Records related to interactions with program areas, clients and suppliers involved in media and public relations projects; release materials and associated documentation; minutes, recordings and associated documentation pertaining to federal- provincial consultations; drafts, proofs and artwork related to the Division's products; texts submitted for editing. Program Record Number: STC CMN 570

Dissemination Division:

CANSIM

Description: Records related to the maintenance, updating, marketing and utilization of the CANSIM databases; to the development of new data content, and new data storage, retrieval and delivery facilities; to the development of meta data systems. Program Record Number: STC DIS 580

Publications

Description: Records related to the production, sales and marketing of Statistics Canada's publications. Program Record Number: STC DIS 575

Operations and Integration Division (O&ID):

Operations

Description: Records related to the development and on-going work of the Operations and Integration Division including: Surveys – mail-out mail-back surveys, computer assisted telephone interviews, surveys based on administrative records, scanning documents such as provincial and local government accounts, analyzing and reformatting computer printouts, tapes, diskettes, etc.; Coding – for some surveys the Division specializes in coding of documents. These codes include Medical Codes, Standard Industrial Classification Codes, Standard Occupational Classification Codes, Harmonized System Commodity Codes, etc. Data Capture – heads down Data Capture is done for some 30 divisions (over 80 applications) over and above those applications we consider surveys. Mapping – Mapping operations include: Operations of the Map Library including reproduction of maps, retrieving and filing of maps and maintenance of the shipping and receiving of maps; linking the Post Office Postal Codes to the Provincial, Federal or Electoral areas by using Standard Geographical Codes; and preparing the Street Network File for the 1996 Census enumeration. Program Record Number: STC OPI 595

Operations Research and Development Division:

Operations Research and Development

Description: Records showing the performance of units in Operations and Integration Division working with measured standards. Program Record Number: STC ORD 600

Advisory Services Division:

Corporate Sales Support System (CSSS)

Description: An invoicing and inventory control system that provides information on accounts receivable for all products and services billed in regional offices. Market information by client and/or product and services is also available. Program Record Number: STC UAS 603

Online Catalogue of Products and Services

Description: A windows-based search and retrieval system which will provide users with current information about products and services available from Statistics Canada. Program Record Number: STC UAS 604

Survey Operations Division:

Survey Operations

Description: Records related to data collection and associated activities for population and agriculture censuses, household surveys and business surveys. Program Record Number: STC SOP 602

Informatics and Methodology Field

Informatics and Methodology Field Operations

Description: Records relating to the overall functions of the Field. Topics: Field policy; automation; security; equipment evaluation; equipment acquisition; software evaluation; software acquisition; methodology. Program Record Number: STC INM 485

Business Register Division:

Business Profiles

Description: Records related to the maintenance of the Business Register and the structure of reporting units. Topics: Business demographics; profiles of establishments; up-to-date names and addresses of businesses. Program Record Number: STC BUS 525

Geography Division:

Geography

Description: Geographic frame database and documentation related to geographic boundaries and street networks; geographic attribute database and documentation related to geographic boundaries; cartographic map base and other products related to boundaries, collection, compilation and dissemination of data; spatial concepts and associated attributes of geographic areas; linkage files, concordance files and documentation related to standard geographies and postal code; custom geocoding, geographic consultation and other services related to area selection, data retrieval and computer mapping. Topics: Street networks – names, address ranges, block-faces, street indexes, representative points, feature types; geographic areas – provinces and territories, census divisions, census consolidated subdivisions, census subdivisions, census metropolitan areas, census agglomerations, primary census metropolitan areas, primary census agglomerations, census tracts, enumeration areas, unincorporated places, designated places; postal codes – representative points, postal code linkage to enumeration areas; maps – enumeration area, census metropolitan area, census agglomeration, census tract, census division, census subdivision; geographic information systems (GIS); geographic concepts; automated cartography; automated delineation; enterprise GIS; population and area statistics. Program Record Number: STC GEO 520

Standards Division:

Standards

Description: Records related to Classification Standards and concepts. Topics: North American Industry Classification System [NAICS], statistical units, concordances between different vintages of the Canadian, the International and the U.S. Standard Industrial Classifications; Standard Classification of Goods (based upon the Harmonized Commodity Description and Coding System), concordances between the Standard Classification of Goods and other Canadian commodity classifications and industry classifications; North American Product Classification System [NAPCS] (under development); Standard Geographical Classification; Standard Occupational Classification and related concordances; Statistical Data Documentation System/Integrated Metadatabase. Program Record Number: STC STD 535

Tax Data Division:

Taxation Data

Description: Records related to the accessing of data from taxation records of incorporated and unincorporated businesses. Topics: Access to T1, T2, T4, T4A, GIF1, GST and PD7 taxation data for statistical purposes. Storage Medium: T2 documents are on photocopies, which are destroyed upon completion of the tax cycle; electronic files are created after transcription. All other documents are on electronic format (tapes and/or electronic databases). All electronic files are kept on the mainframe for at least 5 years. All material is strictly confidential. Program Record Number: STC TAX 530

Informatics Technology Services Division:

Computer Services

Description: Records related to information on computer hardware and software; operation of computer equipment and the administrative procedures used within the Main Computer Centre. Program Record Number: STC MCC 517

Help Desk

Description: Provides a central contact for all Informatics Branch services. Clients can contact the Help Desk for all inquiries and service calls relating to their informatics and data communication needs. Program Record Number: STC CLS 510

Informatics Planning, Policy and Standards Development

Description: Responsible for coordinating the development of the Strategic and Tactical Plans, development of informatics policy and standards activities, prepares the five year capital plan and information management plan. Topics: Strategic and tactical plans, capital plan, EDP policy and standards. Program Record Number: STC CLS 507

Informatics Security

Description: Responsible for all aspects of ensuring the security of all information in electronic form in Statistics Canada as well as access to its computing facilities. Informatics Security also provides computer virus control and disaster recovery planning assistance. Topics: Informatics; security; access control; data control services; computer virus and disaster recovery planning. Program Record Number: STC CLS 511

Informatics Training

Description: Offers training courses on the use of software and hardware in relation to mainframe, midrange computers, microcomputers and data communications. Training is also provided on systems development. The Section also offers a "training need analysis" program, helping Divisions to identify their training requirements and to set-up a training plan. Topics: Informatics training. Program Record Number: STC CLS 505

Information Modelling Services

Description: Provide users with a graphical portrayal of survey information content using industry standard information modelling methods supported by CASE tools. The model can be used by questionnaire designers, data analysts or systems designers to obtain a picture of survey content. Topics: Information Modelling CASE tools. Program Record Number: STC CLS 512

Infrastructure Support Services (ISS)

Description: Responsible for the planning, installation and maintenance of the communication infrastructure in Statistics Canada. In addition, ISS provides detail specifications for communication equipment and operational support for the installed base of Local Area Network (LAN) hardware and software equipment. Manages the Internet Service for Statistics Canada. Provides hardware and software maintenance and support for the E-Mail infrastructure. Topics: Electronic communications; local area networks; wide area networks; terminals. Program Record Number: STC CLS 509

Midrange Systems Support Section (MRSSS)

Description: Provides support to Statistics Canada's users of traditional proprietary minicomputers and users of the "open systems" platforms running variants of the UNIX operating system. The MRSSS has evolved from providing well-defined support for 16 Honeywell minicomputers to providing widely varying degrees of support for over 200 platforms which have been supplied by 8 different computer manufacturers. The variation in support levels reflect differences in user requirements and wishes. Program Record Number: STC CLS 513

Workstation Support Section (WSS)

Description: Assists users in the acquisition of hardware and software and offers expertise and consulting services on the use of software, microcomputers and peripheral equipment. In addition, the WSS establishes a contract for the acquisition of standard microcomputers annually and maintains a software library. Topics: Microcomputers; printers; software support. Program Record Number: STC CLS 508

System Development Division:

Documentation

Description: General descriptions of the external interface and internal operations of software developed by the division. Topics: User guides; manuals; system specifications. Program Record Number: STC ISD 495

Software

Description: Sets of instructions to enable a computer to perform a given task. Topics: Application programs; utility programs; generalized programs; Program Record Number: STC ISD 490

Business Survey Methods Division:

Business Survey Methods

Description: Records relate to survey design, methodology, quality assurance, time series, and data analysis primarily for economic statistics programs that include sample surveys, censuses and the use of administrative records. Topics: Planning of surveys; survey objectives, concepts, definitions; planning of various survey steps; total survey design; sample designs; sampling frames; questionnaire design; data collection and processing; coding; quality control and quality assurance; estimation; edit and imputation; outlier detection and treatment; confidentiality; assessment of sampling and non-sampling errors; evaluation and redesign of surveys; methods for analysis of survey data; record linkage; generalized methods and systems for various survey steps; re-engineering existing surveys; integrated survey design over a number of surveys; data integration; time series; Box-Jenkins forecasting models; linking of time series; calendarization; bench marking and revision procedures; X11ARIMA seasonal adjustment; survey methodology research. Program Record Number: STC BSM 545

Household Survey Methods Division:

Household Survey Methods

Description: Records relate to survey design, methodology, data quality and analysis primarily for the household and institutional statistics programs that include surveys, censuses and the use of administrative records. Topics: Planning of surveys; survey objectives, concepts, definitions; planning of various survey steps; total survey design; sample designs; sampling frames; questionnaire design; data collection and processing; coding; quality control and quality assurance; estimation; edit and imputation; outlier detection and treatment; bench marking and revision procedures; confidentiality; assessment of data quality (sampling and non-sampling errors); evaluation and redesign of surveys; methods for analysis of survey data; record linkage; generalized methods and systems for various survey steps; integrated survey design over a number of surveys; data integration; evaluation and analysis of administrative data; survey methodology research. Program Record Number: STC HSM 560

Small Area and Administrative Data Division:

Administrative Data

Description: 1. Records contain aggregated data from the T1 General income tax form and from the employment insurance beneficiaries file. 2. A sample (20%) longitudinal file. Topics: 1. Income data (individual and family); sub-provincial data (areas as small as postal walks); labour force; migration. 2. Income data (individual and family); labour force. Program Record Number: STC SAD 550

Small Area Data

Description: 1. The Small Area Database contains annual socio-economic and demographic data for sub-provincial areas. These data come from sources within, and external to Statistics Canada. Custom tabulations of aggregated data from all the databases can be obtained on a cost recovery basis. 2. Longitudinal data can be derived from the Longitudinal Administrative Data file on a cost-recovery basis. There are data available for the 1982-1998 period, for approximately 2,000,000 people with both individual and family information. Program Record Number: STC SAD 555

Social Survey Methods Division:

Methodology

Description: Records relate to survey design, methodology, data quality, and analysis of social statistics programs that include surveys, censuses and the use of administrative records. Topics: Planning of censuses and surveys; survey objectives, concepts and definitions; planning of various survey steps; total survey design; sample designs; sampling frames; questionnaire design; data collection and processing; coding; quality control and quality assurance; estimation; edit and imputation; outlier detection and treatment; bench marking and revision procedures; confidentiality; assessment of data quality (sampling and non-sampling errors); evaluation and redesign of surveys; methods for the analysis of survey data; record linkage; generalized methods and systems for various survey steps; integrated survey design over a number of surveys; data integration; evaluation and analysis of administrative data; survey methodology research. Program Record Number: STC SVM 540

Management Services Field

Management Services Field Operations

Description: Records relate to the overall functions of the field. Program Record Number: STC MAN 605

Data Access and Control Services Division:

Data Access

Description: Records relate to requests received under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act; agreements with other federal government departments, provincial governments, municipalities or other corporations for the joint collection or sharing of data, orders prescribing forms, the discretionary disclosure of information pursuant to the Statistics Act, and the administration within Statistics Canada of the Information Collection Policy, the Informing Survey Respondents Policy, the Policy on Record Linkage, the Microdata Release Policy, and the Policy on the Protection of Sensitive Statistical Information.

Program Record Number: STC DAC 615

Departmental Security

Description: Responsible for the administration of the security program for Statistics Canada. This includes responsibility for the physical security of designated and classified information and other assets held within Statistics Canada; inspections and investigations of suspected breaches or violations of security; arranging checks with investigative agencies as part of the personnel screening process; emergency and safety practices and security awareness. Program Record Number: STC DAC 617

Audit and Evaluation Division:

Program Review

Description: Records related to the evaluation of the efficiency and effectiveness of programs and plans.

Program Record Number: STC PRG 645

Corporate Planning Division:

Corporate Planning

Description: Records related to: the development, improvement process and decisions of the Agency's planning system, multi-year operational plan, current-year work plans and associated budgets; the development, improvement, process and decisions with respect to the Agency's cost accounting system and methodologies; expenditure and revenue forecasting methodologies and results thereof; the development and coordination (with other functional areas within the Agency) of management systems to facilitate accountability, improve planning, provide information needed for decision-making and to permit quality assessments and objective reporting on the status of large-scale organizational projects, service improvements and program plans. Program Record Number: STC CPM 620

Financial Operations Division:

Financial Operations

Description: Records relate to expenditure and revenue transactions, recoverable projects accounting and general accounting services. Program Record Number: STC FIN 635

Resource Management Division:

Financial Policies and Systems

Description: Records related to the development, design, implementation and review of departmental policies, systems and procedures. Program Record Number: STC FPS 630

Human Resources Development Division:

Employee Assistance Program

Description: Responsible for providing confidential health assistance and advice to employees, and disseminating information on the various social agencies available to provide service to employees. Program Record Number: STC HRD 611

Human Resources Operations Division:

Corporate Assignments

Description: Records related to the operations of the Corporate Assignments Division, including assignment proposals, employee applications and assignment agreements. Program Record Number: STC HRO 610

National Accounts and Analytical Studies Field

National Accounts and Analytical Services Field Operations

Description: General operations relating to the overall functions of the field. Topics: Field policies; plans and programs; automation; timeliness studies; projects and surveys. Program Record Number: STC NAC 225

Balance of Payments Division:

Balance of Payments

Description: Statistics are presented under two main accounts: the Current and the Capital and Financial Accounts. The Current Account records transactions in goods, services, investment income and current transfers. Services are made up of travel, transportation, commercial services and government services. ### Census Operations Division:

Census Operations

Description: Census records are maintained in three formats: hardcopy format which is kept for five years following each census, microfilm copies of the original questionnaire and machine-readable data stored in the census micro database. The latter are used in tabulations. Names and addresses of individuals are not contained in these files. Information extracted from the database, therefore, cannot directly be related to an individual. Individual data from microfilm copies of original questionnaires are available only to the respondent under the Privacy Act. Topics: Different types of variables can be obtained for various universes on the database. Population and Families – Demographic Characteristics: age, sex, marital status, common law; Ethno-cultural Characteristics: age at immigration, citizenship, ethnic origin (data on population can also be obtained at the family level); Language Variables: home language, mother tongue, official language, knowledge of official language; Schooling Variables: highest level of schooling, major field of study, school attendance; Labour Force: class of worker, industry, occupation, place of work; Family Size: family composition, place of work; Income: census family income, economic family income, income from each source and total income. Households – household maintainer, type of household, household size, length of occupancy, mortgage or rent, condominium, household income. Dwellings – condition of dwelling, structural type. These variables are available at various levels of geography across Canada. The information collected in the census varies somewhat from one census year to the next. Note: Individual information contained in the microfilmed records is available from 1906 to 1986 (1891 and 1901 Census are in the custody of National Archives of Canada). It can be accessed only by the person named in the record or by a legal representative authorized to administer the estate of a dependant adult or minor or a deceased person. To access such information, the person concerned must complete an "Application and Authorization for a Search of Census" obtainable from the Census Pension Searches Unit, Statistics Canada, Ottawa, K1A 0T6. Aggregate data from the census micro database are available to the public. Requests for such information should be directed to the Statistical Reference Centre, Statistics Canada, Ottawa, K1A 0T6. The 1991 Census microfilming operation was not completed due to budget constraints. The original questionnaires are currently being stored by the National Archives of Canada. The 1996 Census questionnaires will be destroyed once Statistics Canada no longer requires them for its operational needs. The 1996 Census questionnaires will also be stored at National Archives pending a decision on their long-term, retention status. Program Record Number: STC COP 015

National Registration File of 1940

It provides a retrospective picture of when different events in the family life cycle occur. Topics: Marital history; common-law unions; natural, adopted and step-children; work history. Program Record Number: STC HFS 026

General Social Survey

Description: The General Social Survey is an annual household survey with two principal objectives: first, to monitor temporal changes in Canadian society and, second, to provide information on current policy issues. The first survey cycle collected data in 1985 on health and social support. Cycle 2 collected data in 1986 on time use, social mobility and languages. Cycle 3 collected data in 1988 on personal risk and victim services. Cycle 4 collected data in 1989 on work and education. Cycle 5 collected data in 1990 on the topics of family and friends. Cycle 6 in 1991, returned to previous core content – health. Cycle 7 collected data throughout 1992 on the time use patterns of Canadians. Cycle 8 collected data throughout 1993 on personal risk (the risk of accidents and criminal victimization) and alcohol and drug use. In 1994, Cycle 9 collected data on education, work and retirement. Cycle 10 collected data in 1995 on family composition, marital and fertility histories. Cycle 11 collected data in 1996 on social support, to determine the nature of help received and provided, and the dynamic between an individual social network and help received and provided. Topics: Cycle 6: core content repeats that of cycle 1 and included such content areas as occupational and emotional health measures, job benefits, and old age and disability income; Cycle 7: core content of time use repeats that of cycle 2 and provides data on the daily activities of Canadians, unpaid work activities, cultural activities and participation in sports; Cycle 8: the first repeat of the GSS core subject of the GSS 1988 – Cycle 3. The following subjects are common to both: perceptions of crime, police and courts; crime prevention precautions; accident and crime screening sections; and, accident and crime incident reports. As well, measures of fear of crime and childhood injuries were added. Focus content for Cycle 8 covers alcohol and drug use. Cycle 9: the first repeat of the GSS core subject on Education, Work and Retirement, originally covered in Cycle 4 (1989). There are differences between the two surveys. For example, Cycle 9 focuses more on quality of life after retirement and post-retirement activities than Cycle 4. In addition, the Cycle 9 questionnaire has two new sections: social origin and work interruptions. Cycle 10: the first repeat of the GSS core subject on the family, originally covered in Cycle 5 (1990). The following subjects are common to both: marital and fertility histories, fertility intentions. In addition, Cycle 10 had questions on family origins, home learning, joint custody arrangements, values and attitudes towards certain areas of family life and work interruptions. Focus content for Cycle 10 covers environmental tobacco smoke. Cycle 11: main content related to social support provided and received for reasons of long term disability or activity limitation. Other topics include contact with family and friends, paid and unpaid work activities, health status, tobacco use. Program Record Number: STC HFS 027

Housing, Family and Social Statistics

Description: Records relate to documentation and files of projects concerned with the production phases of the census. Topics: Housing; language; ethnicity; education; religion. Program Record Number: STC HFS 025

Canadian Centre for Justice Statistics:

Adult Criminal Courts

Description: Information on federal, provincial and territorial statute charges and municipal by-law infractions heard in adult criminal courts in Canada. Topics: Statistical information on types of offences, age and sex of accused, court decisions and dispositions is provided at the jurisdictional level. Program Record Number: STC CCJ 145

Corrections

Description: Information related to the delivery of custodial and non-custodial adult and youth correctional services in each of the provincial, territorial and federal jurisdictions. Topics: Caseload indicators, offender caseload and characteristics, and expenditure data for both provincial and federal correctional systems. Program Record Number: STC CCJ 125

Homicide

Description: Information related to murder, manslaughter and infanticide. Topics: Cases reported to the police showing characteristics of incidents; victims and accused; relationship between the accused and victim(s); methods used to commit the homicide. Program Record Number: STC CCJ 135

Legal Aid

Description: Information related to the delivery of legal aid in each of the provincial and territorial jurisdictions. Revenues, expenditures; personnel resources and caseload counts of each legal aid plan in Canada; information describing the organizational structure, eligibility criteria and coverage of each plan. Program Record Number: STC CCJ 160

Police Administration

Description: Information related to police personnel and expenditures in Canada. Topics: Police personnel (i.e., police officers, special constables, civilians and other police personnel) and policing expenditures (salary and other operating). Program Record Number: STC CCJ 162

Profile of Courts in Canada

Postsecondary Education Finance Database

Description: The financial information in this bank is obtained from the administrative files of Canadian universities and other Postsecondary institutions (e.g. community colleges and CEGEPs). Federal and provincial governments also provide information on expenditures on education and related activities such as student assistance, research and program administration activities. The purpose of this data bank is to provide educational institutions and business the required information to do financial and product planning, and to provide government organizations with the required financial information to initiate policies and programs designed to meet social and economic demands. Topics: Annual revenues and expenditures of Postsecondary educational institutions by fund and source of revenue or item of expenditure. Also, the information includes tuition fees by faculty, expenditure on research by educational institutions and other organizations, and student assistance. Program Record Number: STC ECT 175

Second Information Technology in Education Study

Description: In general terms, the survey provides information about the level of integration of information and communication technologies (ICT) in elementary and secondary schools. More specifically, the survey provides data on three major aspects of ICT-related topics with regards to education: the introduction of so-called "emerging" pedagogical practices associated with the implementation of ICT in schools, the availability and use of technological equipment acquired by the schools in the wake of this implementation, as well as policies and practices that have been adopted by schools in order to help teachers to be better prepared as major changes occur in their tasks. The survey has been conducted for the first time in 1999 and was administered by Statistics Canada in collaboration with officials from Education Departments in provinces and territories. The only exception was Ontario, where the survey has been coordinated by the Education Quality Assessment Office (EQAO). The databank includes information on 4000 schools divided over three population strata: schools with grade 5, grade 9 and grade 12 students. Among other things, the data is used to produce statistical tables that highlight provincial differences in relation with the integration of ICT in schools. Topics: Elementary and secondary schools, information and communication technologies, emerging pedagogical practices, technological equipment, formation of teachers. Program Record Number: STC ECT 176

Survey Development

Description: Undertakes studies in response to requests made of policy departments and other major user groups concerning the feasibility of conducting surveys of education phenomena which are not part of the regular program; undertakes content development for special surveys for areas of education not normally collected by the regular program. Topics: National Apprenticed Trades Survey; School Leavers Survey; School Leavers Follow-up Survey; National Graduates Survey; Postsecondary Participation Survey; National Longitudinal Survey of Children and Youth; Youth in Transition Survey; International Adult Literacy and Life-skills Survey. Program Record Number: STC ECT 180

Personal Information Banks

Agriculture Database

Description: This database contains information obtained from the Census of Agriculture which is a statutory requirement, and from both farm and non-farm surveys. The records carry information on the socio-economic characteristics of farm operators and information relating to crops, livestock, poultry, machinery, farm operating expenses and agriculture receipts by type of farm. Information on assets, liabilities and investments is also available. From the non-farm surveys, information is available on production, inventory and sales in both the fruit and vegetable processing and the dairy processing sectors. The database also contains information from both the grain and oilseed industries. Class of

Individuals: Individuals considered to be farm operators. Purpose: This bank provides a base inventory of Canadian agriculture, provides input to the System of National Accounts and provides information for production, marketing and policy decisions. Consistent Uses: Statistics Canada may release name and address information to other members of the national agricultural statistical system for statistical purposes if both the legal requirements imposed by the Statistics Act under section 17 and departmental list release policy guidelines are met. Retention and Disposal Standards: Currently, records are retained for 100 years. Related to PR#: STC AGR 445, 450 TBS Registration: 001843 Bank Number: STC PPU 030

Dissemination Division:

Sales and Marketing Information System

Description: The sales and marketing information system contains billing and shipping information, as well as a description of the product and/or service purchased by the client. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have purchased catalogued publications or other products and services from Statistics Canada. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to administer the billing system for Statistics Canada products and services. Consistent Uses: Billing and customer information is also used to provide information to improve the marketing of the Agency's products and services. Retention and Disposal Standards: General Retention and Destruction Schedule – 6 years. TBS Registration: 003318 Bank Number: STC PPU 078

Marketing Division:

Client Information Warehouse

Description: The Client Information Warehouse contains tombstone client information — name, address, phone, fax and e-mail addresses and what they have purchased. This information is derived from the Corporate Sales and Support System. This data is enhanced with SIC codes, number of employees for firms, and corporate revenues which comes from outside database sources such as Dun and Bradstreet. Furthermore, Marketing Division adds data, linked to the client records, from client feedback and client surveys which indicates their demographics, statistical information usage and needs. Future data holdings will include potential clients who have identified that they wish to be communicated with. This information will come from a variety of sources including the Internet. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have purchased products and services from Statistics Canada and individuals who have identified a potential interest in purchasing Statistics Canada's products and services. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide marketing intelligence for marketing planning, communications and tracking and measuring our marketplace and success of our marketing programs. Answering client/market information queries from which marketing strategies, plans, and marketing communication will be developed. Retention and

Disposal Standards: General Retention and Destruction Schedule – 6 years. Related to PR#: STC MAR 572 TBS Registration: 004253 Bank Number: STC PPU 152

Administrative Support Services Division:

Personal Service Contract Bank

Description: This bank contains the contracts, in some instances an evaluation of the work performed by the contractor, records of payments and related correspondence. It may also contain the curricula vitae and social insurance numbers of all individual contractors. Class of Individuals: This information relates to all individuals who have submitted a successful bid for a contract. Purpose: The purpose of this database is to maintain a record of personal service contracts awarded. Retention and Disposal Standards: Contract files are kept for six years after completion of service. Related to PR#: STC ADM 635 TBS Registration: 001175 Bank Number: STC PPU 105

Survey Operations Division:

Referrals to Department of Justice re: Refusal to Complete Census of Population or Census of Agriculture Questionnaire

Description: The information held in this bank consists of correspondence between Statistics Canada/ Department of Justice Canada and individuals, where they have refused to complete a Census of Population and/or Census of Agriculture questionnaire and the case has been referred to the Department of Justice Canada for prosecution. The bank also contains information that enables an assessment of each case. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have refused to complete a Census of Population and/or Census of Agriculture questionnaire and whose case has been referred to the Department of Justice Canada for prosecution. Purpose: The information in this bank is obtained in order to determine whether to pursue in a court of law those individuals who have refused to complete a Census of Population and/or Census of Agriculture questionnaire as required by the Statistics Act. Consistent Uses: The original records are provided to the Department of Justice Canada for prosecution purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for 15 years. Related to PR#: STC SOP 602 TBS Registration: 002097 Bank Number: STC PPU 120

T1 Family File (T1FF)

Description: The database contains information on all taxfilers as well as their identifiable filing and non-filing family members (census family definition). The family formation is done through deterministic and probabilistic matching and imputation. The data are compiled from taxation files and supplemented with estimates of components of income and taxes not covered in the federal taxation system (e.g., some provincial refundable tax credits, taxes for the province of Quebec). Class of Individuals: Census. It includes taxfilers and non-filers.

Purpose: The objective of the development of this data source was to address the need for annual data for large and small areas, providing a social and economic profile of the population on an annual basis. This information is essential, particularly to governments and private organizations, to the process of developing and evaluating programs and policies related to financial well-being. No identifiable micro data are released.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC SAD 550 TBS Registration: 005003 Bank Number: STC PPU 111

Longitudinal Administrative Data (LAD)

Description: This database contains information relating to the income and demographics of a sample of individuals and their families. The information is derived from the T1 Family File. Data are for the years 1982 and onwards. Class of Individuals: 20% sample of individuals identifiable on the T1FF. Purpose: The dynamics of income, migration and marital status can be examined. Relationships of change can be examined, providing information about probably cause of some life events, such as entering and exiting of low income. The files are used to produce aggregate data on the economic performance and demographic characteristics of the population over time. The information obtained from this file is essential to the development and evaluation of policies related to economic well-being in particular. No identifiable micro data are released. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC SAD 550 TBS Registration: 005004 Bank Number: STC PPU 112

Data Access and Control Services Division:

Inventory of Requests Made Under the Access to Information and Privacy Acts

Description: The bank contains case files which include the request forms or letters sent by individuals requesting formal access to their files or other files controlled by Statistics Canada, the replies to such requests and information relating to their processing. Class of Individuals: All individuals who have applied, under the Access to Information Act or Privacy Act, for access to information controlled by Statistics Canada. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of all requests received under the Access to Information Act and Privacy Act. The information is used for processing requests only, and to prepare reports for Treasury Board and Parliament on the number of requests received. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files will be kept for two years. Related to PR#: STC DAC 615 TBS Registration: 001176 Bank Number: STC PPU 110

Census Operations Division:

1940 National Registration Records

Description: The records provide social and economic information on individuals as well as information on their skills. Class of Individuals: All persons 16 years of age or older in the period 1940-1946 with the exception of those people who were, at the time of registration, members of the armed forces or a religious order, or confined to an institution. Purpose: The information was originally obtained under the authority of the National Resources Mobilization Act, 1940, and the War Measures Act to permit the mobilization of all of the effective resources of the nation, both human and material, for the purpose of the defence and security of Canada. The National Registration Regulations pursuant to this legislation gave custody of the records to Statistics Canada, then known as the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Consistent Uses: A program has been established called the Census Microfilm and Pension Searches Sub-Unit to provide proof of age, place of residence, family relationships or length of residence in Canada from historic census records and 1940 National Registration Records. The service is normally provided in support of application for pensions, citizenship, passports and similar situations where other more preferred administrative records are required but no longer exist or, as in a number of cases, were never issued. Searches are also conducted to provide third parties with information on individuals who were included in the 1940 National Registration. This information is typically requested for genealogical purposes and is made available only if proof is provided that the person about whom information is requested has been deceased for more than twenty years. A standard fee of $45.00 (+PST and $3.15 GST) is charged for each search undertaken but the fee will be refunded if the search is not successful. Requests should be sent to: Census Microfilm and Pension Search Sub-Unit, Census Operations Division, Statistics Canada, B1E-34, Jean Talon Building, Tunney's Pasture, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0T6. Retention and Disposal Standards: The records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC COP 020 TBS Registration: 001840 Bank Number: STC PPU 010

Census of Population – Evaluation Program

Description: This bank contains information from post-censal studies to measure coverage and data quality, and to evaluate the census enumeration of unoccupied dwellings and non-responder households. Class of Individuals: Individuals selected to participate in evaluation studies. Purpose: The studies are part of the evaluation program for the Census of Population. The objective of the Overcoverage studies is to measure gross overcoverage by estimating duplicate and erroneous census enumerations. The purpose of the Reverse Record Check is to estimate gross undercoverage, i.e. the number and characteristics of persons and households missed by the census. The purpose of the Vacancy Check is to estimate the number of occupied private dwellings which were misclassified as vacant and to adjust the census occupied dwelling counts accordingly. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for 10-16 years, depending on the type of record. Related to PR#: STC COP 015 TBS Registration: 003015 Bank Number: STC PPU 008

Census of Population – National Census Test

Description: This bank contains information collected from surveys used to test Census of Population questions. The records in this bank are organized geographically, by test module and year. To retrieve a record from this bank, the precise address at the time of the test, the name of the test module and the year surveyed are required. Class of Individuals: Individuals within households selected to participate in census-testing surveys. Purpose: The surveys are part of the testing program for the Census of Population. The objectives of the test surveys are to determine whether new or revised questions proposed for the census can be easily understood and correctly answered, and to assess public reaction to these questions by testing them on a small-scale basis.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The records are retained for 5 years. Related to PR#: STC COP 015 TBS Registration: 002096 Bank Number: STC PPU 007

Census of Population – Questionnaires

Description: This bank contains information obtained from the censuses of population taken since 1906. The records are identified by name and contain information on the social and economic characteristics of every person in the country. The records in this bank, which are organized on a geographical basis, are microfilmed copies of the original questionnaire dating back to 1906. To retrieve a record from this data bank, the precise address at the time of the census is required. Please note that only the individual named in the record can have access to information it contains, or the legal representative of a minor, incompetent or deceased person, but only to settle the affairs of the estate of that person. Class of Individuals: All individuals in Canada at the time of the census.

Purpose: The Census of Population is a national inventory of Canada's key socio-economic phenomena, conducted at prescribed intervals by statutory requirement. The data collected, when compiled into statistics, are used for a wide range of purposes including the determination of economic and social policies, planning industrial development, and estimating needs for schools, roads and many other public services. Population figures are used to determine electoral district boundaries, and to calculate per capita grants to provinces and municipalities. Consistent Uses: A program has been established called the Census Microfilm and Pension Search Sub-Unit to provide proof of age, or length of residence in Canada from historic census records and 1940 National Registration Records. The service is normally provided in support of application for pensions, citizenship, passports and similar situations where other more preferred administration records are required but no longer exist or, as in a number of cases, were never issued.

Census questionnaires may be used to draw samples for post-censal and other surveys addressing issues of current social concern, research purposes and studies that are part of the evaluation program for the Census of Population. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC COP 015 TBS Registration: 001839 Bank Number: STC PPU 005

Census Pension Searches Program

Description: This bank contains information relating to applicants to the Census Microfilm and Pension Search Sub-Unit and to members of the applicant's family. Search reference information such as name, date of birth, place of birth, place of residence is provided by the applicant in order to undertake a search of historical census and 1940 National Registration Records. Results of a successful search will be furnished in the form of a certified transcript of the information found in the original records. Class of Individuals: General public. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide the necessary personal information to undertake a search of historical census and 1940 National Registration Records in order to provide proof of age, or length of residence in Canada. The service is normally provided in support of application for pensions, citizenship, passports and similar situations where other more preferred administrative records are required but no longer exist or, as in a number of cases, were never issued. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for 10 years. Related to PR#: STC COP 015 TBS Registration: 003117 Bank Number: STC PPU 012

Housing, Family and Social Statistics Division:

Aboriginal Peoples Survey

Description: The database contains information on Aboriginal peoples resulting from the 1991 Post-Censal Survey of Aboriginal Peoples, covering such topics as schooling, work, culture, language, housing, health, disability, income, mobility, etc. Class of Individuals: Persons who indicated that they identify with an Aboriginal group (North American Indian, Métis or Inuit) and/or reported being registered under the Indian Act of Canada. It includes individuals living on and off Indian reserves and settlements. Purpose: The objective of the Post-Censal Survey of Aboriginal Peoples is to provide a social and economic profile of Aboriginal peoples, including such information as housing conditions, lifestyle and social issues, health, employment history, schooling, mobility, disability, etc. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC HFS 122 TBS Registration: 003014 Bank Number: STC PPU 116

Database on Persons With Disabilities

Description: This database contains information on persons with disabilities in Canada, including the number of persons with disabilities, the nature and severity of the disability and the barriers experienced by persons with disabilities in such areas as employment, transportation, education, community support services and housing. The information also addresses the need for, as well as the use and availability of, technical aids and services. Although the name and address of the selected respondent were collected at the time of the survey, they were not data-captured and, therefore, do not appear on the automated database. Class of Individuals: Persons with disabilities living in households and institutions in Canada, at the time of the 1986 and 1991 Census. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to identify those Canadians who, for health-related reasons, are limited in the kind or amount of activity they can perform on a day-to-day basis, and the nature and severity of the disability and the barriers that they encounter in such areas as housing, employment, transportation, education and community support services. This information is essential, particularly to governments and private organizations, to the process of developing programs and policies to eliminate these barriers. Consistent Uses: With respect to the Canada Health and Disability Survey, five-sixths of the Labour Force Survey (LFS) sample was used to identify a sample of persons with disabilities who were subsequently interviewed. The output of the survey was linked back to the LFS to obtain labour force activity data which were not included in the questionnaire. With respect to the Health and Activity Limitation Survey, the 1986 and 1991 Censuses of Population were used to identify a sample of persons with disabilities who were subsequently interviewed. The output of this survey was linked back to the 1986 and 1991 Census of Population files to obtain demographic data which were not included in the survey questionnaire. This would ease the burden on respondents since they had already provided these data for the Census. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC HFS 110 TBS Registration: 001862 Bank Number: STC PPU 115

General Social Survey

Description: The General Social Survey is an annual household survey. The first survey cycle collected data in 1985 on health and social support. Cycle 2 collected data in 1986 on time use, social mobility and languages. Cycle 3 collected data in 1988 on personal risk and victim services. Cycle 4 collected data in 1989 on work and education. Cycle 5 collected data in 1990 on the topic of family and friends. Cycle 6 collected data throughout 1991 and was the first cycle to return to previous core content – health. Cycle 7 collected data throughout 1992 on the time-use patterns of Canadians, repeating that of Cycle 2. Cycle 8 repeated Cycle 3 core and collected data on the personal risk of accidents and criminal victimizations; the focus content dealt with alcohol and drug use. Cycle 9 repeated Cycle 4 core and collected data on education, work and retirement. Cycle 10 partially repeated Cycle 5 and collected data on the family; the focus content dealt with environmental tobacco smoke. Cycle 11 introduced a new core theme on social support. To locate a record, in addition to the cycle (or year) of the survey in which a respondent has participated, for cycles 1-4, the name of the respondent and the telephone number at the time of the survey are required. For subsequent cycles, the name and address of the respondent is required, as well as the cycle (or year) and telephone number at the time of the survey. Class of Individuals: Individuals selected to participate in the surveys. Purpose: The General Social Survey has two principal objectives: first, to monitor temporal changes in Canadian society and, second, to provide information on current policy issues. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC HFS 027 TBS Registration: 003311 Bank Number: STC PPU 027

Longitudinal Immigration Database (IMDB)

Description: This database contains information relating to the employment and income of immigrants. The information is derived from the Landed Immigration Data Description System file, the visitors Immigration Data Systems file, the Non-Immigrant Data System file, the Immigration Data System Overseas file and the Immigration Data System file from Citizenship and Immigration; the T1 and T4 files from Revenue Canada; and the Central Frame Data Base from Statistics Canada. Data are for the years 1980 and onwards. The database will be reviewed in five years (in the year 2000) to ensure its continuing relevancy to immigration policy development. Class of Individuals: Immigrants. Purpose: The files are used to produce aggregate data on the economic performance and demographic characteristics of the immigration population over time. No identifiable microdata relating to immigrants or businesses are released. Retention and Disposal Standards: The records will be maintained until at least the year 2000. Related to PR#: STC HFS 524 TBS Registration: 003726 Bank Number: STC PPU 135

Canadian Centre for Justice Statistics:

A One-Day Snapshot of All Inmates, On Register, in Federal and Provincial/Territorial Adult Correctional Facilities at Saturday, Midnight, October 5, 1996.

Description: This information bank is the result of a one-time census of Canada's adult correctional facilities and contains the following types of personal information: name; date of birth; inmate ID number; FPS (finger print system) number; SIN number; medicare number; gender; educational level; racial origin; marital status; citizenship; home language and employment status. A total of 37,541 federal and provincial/territorial inmates are represented in the information bank. Class of Individuals: All inmates who were on register in federal and provincial/territorial adult correctional facilities at Saturday, midnight, October 5, 1996. Purpose: The lack of detailed information about the Canadian correctional population was identified as a major information gap by the Justice Information Council and the Deputy Ministers responsible for Justice in Canada. The information contained in this bank will respond to this information gap. Consistent Uses: The data from this study may be used to enable correctional administrators to further examine the dynamics of inmate overcrowding problems and to help the corrections community develop new programming initiatives for offenders. Retention and Disposal Standards: 5 years (to be confirmed). Related to PR#: STC CCJ 125 TBS Registration: 004002 Bank Number: STC PPU 028

Homicide Statistics

Description: This bank contains information obtained from police forces on characteristics of homicide incidents, characteristics of the victims and suspects, the relationship between suspects and victims, etc. Class of Individuals: Individuals who are victims of homicides and individuals who are suspected of committing a homicide. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide information relating to the nature and extent of homicide in Canada; to describe the circumstances of homicide incidents, as well as the essential characteristics of people involved in them. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are to be retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC CCJ 135 TBS Registration: 001861 Bank Number: STC PPU 025

Culture, Tourism and the Centre for Education Statistics:

Creative and Performing Artists

Description: This bank contains information relating to characteristics of individual visual artists, writers, actors, directors, performing musicians, composers, conductors, dancers and choreographers. Information dates from the late 1970's to the early 1980's. Class of Individuals: Creative and performing artists in Canada. Purpose: The surveys were conducted to provide information on the background, career orientation and economic well-being of those attempting to work professionally as creative and performing artists in Canada. Retention and Disposal Standards: The information is retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC ECT 195 TBS Registration: 002098 Bank Number: STC PPU 102

Cultural Labour Force Survey

Description: This bank contains information relating to people residing in Canada working in selected occupations and industries within the cultural sector. The survey targeted individuals working as artists, administrators, professionals and technicians in 14 areas: visual arts, crafts, design, literary arts, performing arts, film and video, broadcasting, cultural education, sound recording, book publishing, periodical publishing, heritage institutions, public libraries and other libraries. The survey was conducted in 1993. Class of Individuals: Artists, administrators, professionals and technicians working in selected areas of the cultural sector in Canada. Purpose: The survey was conducted to provide information on the education, career activities, work patterns, financial status and demographics of artists and cultural workers. Human Resources Development Canada sponsored the survey to help them in the development of training and employment programs that better meet the needs of the cultural sector in Canada. Retention and Disposal Standards: Not yet decided. Related to PR#: STC ECT 195 TBS Registration: 003724 Bank Number: STC PPU 125

Elementary/Secondary Teacher Database

Description: This bank contains information relating to characteristics of individuals who form part of the educational staff employed full- or part-time in public elementary-secondary schools for all provinces. Class of Individuals: This information, collected annually, relates to all individuals who form part of the educational staff employed full- or part-time in public elementary/secondary schools for all provinces. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to produce statistical information relating to full-time instructional and administrative school staff at the elementary/secondary school levels in all provinces according to gender, age, staff position, and employment status. Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are to be retained for 55 years. Related to PR#: STC ECT 165 TBS Registration: 001853 Bank Number: STC PPU 080

National Apprenticed Trades Survey

Description: The bank contains information collected in the 1994 National Apprenticed Trades Survey relating to respondents' experience and background before the apprenticeship; the apprenticeship, the content and the certification; and the activities and work of the respondents since they left the apprenticeship. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have completed or discontinued a registered apprenticeship program. Purpose: The purpose of the National Apprenticed Trades Survey is to examine the labour market experience of completers and discontinuers of a registered apprenticeship program two years after they left the program. Consistent Uses: Statistics Canada has entered into data-sharing agreements under section 12 of the Statistics Act with Human Resources Development Canada, the Canadian Labour Force Development Board and with provincial ministries responsible for apprenticeship training. The information provided to these organizations will not contain personal identifiers and will be kept confidential and used only for statistical purposes. Respondents were advised of these agreements and were given the opportunity to object to the sharing of their data. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC ECT 180 TBS Registration: 003341 Bank Number: STC PPU 103

National Graduates Survey

Description: Surveys among graduates of postsecondary education programs have been carried out in 1978, 1984, 1987, 1988, 1991, 1992, 1995 and 1997. The surveys were carried out using a sample of 1976 graduates (for the 1978 survey), 1982 graduates (for the 1984 and 1987 surveys) 1986 graduates (for the 1988 and 1991 surveys), 1990 graduates (for the 1992 and 1995 surveys) and 1995 graduates (for the 1997 survey). In each case, lists of graduates from universities, colleges and trade-vocational schools were obtained. The lists contain information relating to approximately 112,000 1976 graduates (Quebec graduates excluded), 220,000 1982 graduates, 250,000 1986 graduates, 265,000 1990 graduates and 325,000 1995 graduates. The information includes the name, address, telephone number, graduation qualification and major field of study for each graduate. Approximately 50,000 persons were selected to be interviewed for each survey, with 36,000 responding in 1984. The 1987 survey attempted to re-interview these 36,000, obtaining approximately 31,000 responses. Information collected included the extent of work experience before graduation and in the years after graduation, occupations and industries for jobs being held two years (five years in the 1987 survey) after graduation, details of further studies since graduation, and general classificatory information (e.g., age, marital status, sex, language). The 1991 survey attempted to re-interview approximately 40,500 1986 graduates who responded in 1988. They were asked about labour force status and detailed questions about their job, if any. In the 1992 study, approximately 51,000 persons were selected and response was obtained from approximately 36,000. In 1997, approximately 62,000 1995 graduates were selected for interviews and approximately 43,000 responded. In 1999, Statistics Canada surveyed the graduates from the class of 1995 who moved to the United States. Out of the 325,000 1995 graduates, approximately 4,600 were in the United States in 1997. Out of the 62,000 1995 graduates that were selected for interviews in the National Graduates Survey, around 830 had moved to the United States. All of them were selected for interview in 1999. Approximately 530 of these graduates actually responded. These graduates who had moved to the United States have answered the same kind of questions such as why they had moved to the United States. Class of Individuals: This information relates to graduates from trade-vocational, college and university programs in calendar years 1976, 1982, 1986, 1990 and 1995. Purpose: To produce statistical information for monitoring graduates' transition from school to work and their success in finding work related to their fields of study. The information is provided to students and guidance counsellors to help choose appropriate fields of study; and to education planners to organize courses and programs of study. It is also used by analysts to develop projection models of supply and demand of manpower by occupation, seeking out imbalances in the labour market. Also included are evaluations of the extent to which graduates succeed in finding jobs related to their fields of study, and the extent to which retraining leads to career changes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for 100 years. Related to PR#: STC ECT 170 TBS Registration: 001858 Bank Number: STC PPU 100

National Longitudinal Survey of Children: Educational Questionnaires

Description: This Bank contains longitudinal data on the educational development of a series of age segmented cohorts of children collected in connection with the National Longitudinal Survey of Children. As such, it represents a subset of a much larger bank of longitudinal information on child development. The cohorts covered in the educational database are followed at two year intervals starting in November 1994. Each cohort will be followed until the children within the cohort reach adulthood. Data in the education file have been collected from the children's teachers and principals, and from standardized tests of achievement. Information in the database covers variables at the analytic levels of the child, the child's classroom, and the child's school. At the level of the child, variables representing the child's current grade, educational history, academic achievement, language of instruction, received instruction, attendance in special education classes, social skills, and behaviour are collected, along with information on parents' involvement in the child's education. At the level of the classroom information is available on class size and composition, classroom, material resources, instructional techniques, emphasis on academic achievement (academic press), and the teacher's perceptions of his/her teaching efficacy. At the level of the school, variables representing academic streaming, various characteristics of the student body, disciplinary problems, parental involvement with the school, available human and material resources, and the social climate of the school are available. In addition, information is available on the responding teacher's and principal's demographic and educational background. Cycle 2 of this survey was conducted from November 1996 to June 1997. Class of Individuals: Age segmented cohorts (4-5 yrs, 6-7 yrs, 8-9 yrs, 10-11 yrs) of children enrolled in junior kindergarten to grade 6. Purpose: To determine the factors which place or prevent children from becoming at risk for educational failure. The data will allow a wide variety of academic and policy oriented researchers to determine the impact that education has on a wide variety of developmental outcomes such as children's future health, social development, and educational attainment. Consistent Uses: Statistics Canada has entered into a data-sharing agreement under section 12 of the Statistics Act with Human Resources Development Canada. The information provided to HRDC will not contain personal identifiers and will be kept confidential and used only for statistical purposes. Each person responding to questions will be given the right to refuse to share their data. Retention and Disposal Standards: Not yet decided. Related to PR#: STC ECT 180 TBS Registration: 003725 Bank Number: STC PPU 130

Postsecondary Student Database

Description: The information in this bank is obtained from the administrative files of Canadian universities and other postsecondary institutions (community colleges, CEGEPs). It includes demographic data, and information relating to the individual's activities as a student, such as qualification sought, discipline of specialization, and previous educational activity. There are no names in this data bank. Consequently, the number assigned to the individual by the institution is required for retrieval purposes as well as the name of the institution and the year(s) the individual has studied at that institution.

Class of Individuals: This bank contains annual information on full-time and part-time students in Canadian postsecondary institutions. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to produce statistical information on student by province, institution, program and sex.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are to be retained for 55 years. Related to PR#: STC ECT 170

Postsecondary Student Survey

Description: The survey population for the 1975 and 1984 Postsecondary Student Survey was provided by the registrars of postsecondary institutions. It included the name, address, telephone number and registration characteristics of all students registered in a regular credit course during the fall term of 1974-75 and 1983-1984. A sample of 100,000 and 64,000 individuals was selected for the survey and a total of 60,000 and 45,000 responses were received. The survey sought information relating to the current education, other education and employment of the respondent, as well as background characteristics. It also collected information with respect to how the respondents financed their education. Class of Individuals: This information relates to all students registered for credit courses in Canadian universities and community colleges or equivalent institutions at the time of the survey. Purpose: The purpose of the Postsecondary Student Survey is to provide comprehensive data on those who attend postsecondary institutions in Canada, their fields and levels of study, and how they finance their postsecondary education. The data will provide a basis for the analysis of such issues as accessibility to postsecondary education in Canada. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for 100 years. Related to PR#: STC ECT 170

Postsecondary Teacher Database

Description: This bank contains information relating to the salary, qualifications, age, sex, immigration status, citizenship and discipline taught. There are no names in this data bank. Consequently, the number assigned to the individual by the institution is required for retrieval purposes, as well as the name of the institution and the year(s) the individual has taught at that institution. Class of Individuals: This bank is an annual census of all educational staff employed on a full-time basis in universities and other post secondary institutions for all provinces. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to produce statistical information relating to the population and salaries of full-time teachers, broken down into three distinct sections: salaries, age and qualification characteristics, and social and other characteristics.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are to be retained for 55 years. Related to PR#: STC ECT 170

School Leavers Survey

Description: The bank contains information collected in the 1991 School Leavers Survey, covering such topics as a socio-economic profile, respondent health, school performance, lifestyle, literacy, labour market activity. For dropouts, additional topics include reasons for leaving, intentions on returning, labour market activities before/after leaving and other types of training/ education received since leaving. The same individuals have been re-interviewed four years later in the School Leavers Follow-up Survey collecting information on the school-work transition process. Class of Individuals:

Individuals who at the time of the survey are 18 to 20 years old, who have completed secondary school, dropped out or are still in the educational system.

Purpose: The purpose of the School Leavers Survey is to develop comparative profiles of three groups of secondary school attendees: those who have successfully completed school, those still in the education system and those who have "dropped out". The survey results will allow analysts to better understand the relationship between the leavers and their backgrounds and their subsequent labour market experiences. Consistent

Uses: Statistics Canada has entered into data-sharing agreements under section 12 of the Statistics Act with Employment and Immigration Canada and with provincial ministries of education, manpower and labour. The information provided to these departments will not contain personal identifiers and will be kept confidential and used only for statistical purposes. Respondents were advised of these agreements and were given the opportunity to object to the sharing of their data. Retention and

Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC ECT 165 TBS Registration:

003013 Bank Number: STC PPU 093

Survey of Doctoral Degree Recipients

Description: This survey collected information on selected socio-economic characteristics of doctoral degree recipients in Canada, their educational background and work experience, and their career expectations. The survey began in 1981 and was discontinued in 1986. Class of Individuals: Recipients of a doctoral degree from a Canadian university. Purpose: The purpose of this survey was to produce statistical information used by the granting councils to study trends in post-graduate education with respect to the utilization of their funds, the employment pattern for graduates under the programs, the socio-demographic characteristics of the graduates, and to effect a cost analysis of the programs. Consistent Uses: Statistics Canada entered into data-sharing agreements under section 12 of the Statistics Act (R.S.C. 1985, ch. S19) with organizations identified on the questionnaire. Respondents were advised of these agreements and were given the opportunity to object to the sharing of their data.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC ECT 170 TBS Registration: 002436 Bank Number: STC PPU 097

Health Statistics Division:

Canada Health Survey

Description: This bank contains information obtained from the Canada Health Survey, including demographic data, health status, health consequence and risk factor information as well as anthropometric measurements and blood test analyses. Class of Individuals: This information relates to individuals in Canada who responded to the Canada Health Survey conducted during 1978 and 1979 by Health and Welfare Canada and Statistics Canada. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to produce data relating to the health of Canadians, including alcohol and tobacco use, activity and fitness, seatbelt use, immune status, health problems and disability, emotional health, blood pressure, health services and medication. The data serve as input to the planning of health care, health promotion and disease prevention by governments and others. Retention and Disposal Standards: The records will be retained for 25 years. Related to PR#: STC HLT 115 TBS Registration: 001852 Bank Number: STC PPU 075

Canadian Cancer Registry

Description: The Canadian Cancer Registry continues the National Cancer Incidence Reporting System (1969-1991). The information in this bank is provided by the 10 provincial cancer registries and health authorities responsible for cancer registration in the Yukon and Northwest Territories. The information relates to each newly diagnosed case of primary cancer and includes the name of the person with cancer, socio-demographic characteristics of the person, and diagnostic information. Class of Individuals: This information, collected annually, relates to all individuals diagnosed as having primary cancer as reported to provincial cancer registries and territorial health authorities. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to produce person-oriented data on the incidence of new primary sites of cancer reported to provincial and territorial cancer registries by site of tumour, age, sex and method of diagnosis. These data are to provide a large base of information for the study of variations in cancer incidence by personal characteristics and geographic region and to allow the monitoring of trends in cancer incidence over time. Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC HLT 095 TBS Registration: 001850 Bank Number: STC PPU 065

Canadian Renal Failure Register

Description: The information in this bank is provided by reports from hospital dialysis and transplantation centres, about all new patients starting treatment for chronic renal failure. Basic information includes the name of patient, socio-demographic characteristics of the patient, and diagnostic and treatment information. Class of Individuals: This information, collected annually from 1981 to 1986, relates to patients starting treatment for chronic renal failure. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to access the number of cases under treatment and to produce data to be used in evaluating the efficiency of the treatment modes. Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are retained for 100 years. Related to PR#: STC HLT 095 TBS Registration: 001849 Bank Number: STC PPU 060

Canadian Vital Statistics Database

Description: This bank has information obtained from the universal systems of registration of births, marriages, deaths and stillbirths. These are originally recorded and accumulated by registrars of vital statistics in each province and territory. The information on births relates to place of birth, particulars on parents (name, birthdate, marital status of mother) and particulars of the child (surname and name). The information on stillbirths relates to particulars of the child, (place of birth, sex, weight) and particulars of parents (name, birthdate, ethnic group). The marriage component of the database contains information on the bride and bridegroom (name, marital status, birthdate), particulars of parents (name, birthdate, birthplace) and on the date and place of marriage. Information on deaths relates to name of deceased; date, place and cause of death. The information has been obtained through formal arrangements with the provinces and is to be used for statistical purposes only. Statistics Canada, therefore, is unable to respond to requests for information contained in this bank, pursuant to section 19(1)(c) of the Privacy Act. Any individual wishing to obtain information relating to the registration of births, marriages or deaths should contact the appropriate provincial registrar. Class of Individuals: This information, collected annually, relates to all individuals who were born in Canada or the United States and are Canadian residents; married or died in Canada; or a Canadian resident who died in the United States or in another country. Purpose: The purpose of the bank is to provide input into the production of estimates of births, marriages and deaths for Canada and the provinces. These data are also used in special studies relating to, for example, mortality, fertility and life expectancy. Vital statistics are the prime components used in intercensal population estimates. Consistent Uses: The Mortality Database, which forms part of the Integrated Vital Statistics Database, is used as one of the input files in long-term medical follow-up studies. It provides information on date, place and cause of death for individuals in a particular study group (see Personal Information Bank STC PPU 076). Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are retained for 100 years. Related to PR#: STC HLT 095 TBS Registration: 001844 Bank Number: STC PPU 035

Client Request Archive Management System (CRAMS)

Description: Records in this password-protected database contain information on clients who contact the Health Statistics Division for information. Information collected includes client name, contact information, agency, type of information requested, actions taken by staff to fulfill the request, products purchased and billing information. Class of Individuals: All persons who call the Health Statistics Division for information. Purpose: Information is used to track the response to client requests; to determine information needs; and to improve the efficiency of administrative functions such as billing. Retention and Disposal Standards: 6 years. TBS Registration: 003999 Bank Number: STC PPU 079

Dental Hygienists Database

Description: This bank contains socio-economic and demographic data on licensed/qualified dental hygienists. Variables include highest level of education, school years and place of graduation, type of employer, percentage of time spent in dental hygiene activities and numerically coded place of residence and employment. The files are not identified by a name but by a national registration number. The last survey was completed in 1983. Class of Individuals: This information, collected annually, (1975-1981), relates to licensed or qualified dental hygienists. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to produce statistical data on the socio-economic and demographic characteristics of dental hygienists qualified to practise and reside in Canada, and to provide information to manpower planning groups and other users as a source of data for analysis and special studies. Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are retained for 25 years. Related to PR#: STC HLT 090 TBS Registration: 001846 Bank Number: STC PPU 045

Hospital Morbidity

Description: This data bank contains information obtained from general and allied special hospitals in Canada on patients that have separated (discharges and deaths). The files are identified by a number assigned by the hospital and contain demographic and medical information on the patient such as age, sex, diagnosis, surgical operations, length of stay, condition of discharge, residence of the patient, etc. Class of Individuals: This information, collected annually, relates to patients that have been separated from general and allied special hospitals in Canada. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide national hospital morbidity statistics, including number of patients separated from general and allied special hospitals, average length of stay, and causes of hospitalization. Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are retained for 100 years. Related to PR#: STC HLT 080 TBS Registration: 001848 Bank Number: STC PPU 055

Long-Term Medical Follow-Up Study Files

Description: The Long-Term Medical Study Files are comprised of information from four sources: input study files which are often from groups outside Statistics Canada; the Canadian Cancer Data Base which is created from STC PPU 065; and the Canadian Mortality Data Base which is created from the Integrated Vital Statistics Database STC PPU 035, and the Canadian Birth Data Base which is created from the Integrated Vital Statistics Database STC PPU 035 plus provincial files. The input files contain records of individuals which have been supplied by employers, unions, health surveys or other research groups. These input files are then matched to the Canadian Cancer Data Base to determine the cause of cancer, to the Canadian Mortality Data Base to provide information on date, cause and place of death, or to the Canadian Birth Data Base to provide birth and parental details. In addition, the outcome files may be matched (e.g. infant birth and death records). The input study files may contain from several hundred to many hundreds of thousands of records depending on the size of the study group. Individual identifying information includes names, birthdate, sex birthplace and place of residence. The name of the individual's parents or spouse may also be included where this information is required to confirm the validity of a linkage. The input study file and the file containing, say, the death records to which the study file records were linked are kept separately. An identification number is present on both files which can bring corresponding records together if necessary. The files are passworded and stored in the Statistics Canada tape library. Class of Individuals: This database contains records of individuals who form part of population groups identified by employers, unions, health surveys, or other research organizations, as well as all individuals in the national files. Purpose: Health statistics, in general, are used to describe the state of health of the Canadian people and the occurrence of illnesses. In particular, these files are primarily used to provide researchers with data they need to compare the rates and causes of death and/or cancer in groups exposed to different levels or types of chemicals, diet, medical treatment, x-rays, disease, etc. This in turn gives information needed by policy makers to set appropriate levels of exposure to toxic agents in occupational, environmental and medical settings. Risk factor concerns relating to child and maternal health, including socio-economic birth and mortality differentials are being investigated. Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are generally retained for a minimum of five years. Related to PR#: STC HLT 095 TBS Registration: 001860 Bank Number: STC PPU 076

Medicare Records

Description: This bank contains medical and demographic information from the Medical Care Insurance files of the province of Manitoba commencing with the period 1984/85. This information has been obtained through formal arrangements with the province and is to be used for statistical purposes only. Statistics Canada is unable to respond to requests for information contained in this bank pursuant to section 19(1)(c) of the Privacy Act. Class of Individuals: Persons for whom a claim has been submitted to the Medical Care Insurance plan of the province of Manitoba. Purpose: To create and examine profiles of diseases in Canada from an epidemiologic perspective. Consistent Uses: To achieve the purpose it involved linkage internal to the Hospital Morbidity files (STC PPU 055) and the Mortality files (STC PPU 035). Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC HLT 080 – Health Care TBS Registration: 002673 Bank Number: STC PPU 056

National Population Health Survey

Description: This bank contains longitudinal data from the National Population Health Survey which is conducted every two years, starting from 1994-95. The information includes demographic data and indicators of health status, health utilization and factors that influence health. Class of Individuals: The information relates to individuals in Canada who responded to the National Population Health Survey conducted by Statistics Canada. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide information to monitor the health status of Canadians and to provide information to better understand factors that influence health. The data will be used by those in government and others interested in program planning and analysis in the areas of health care, health promotion and disease prevention. Consistent Uses: Respondents are asked for permission to link information from provincial health files with the data collected in the survey, and when permission is granted, they are asked to provide their health number. Permission was sought to share information collected in the survey with the provinces and Health Canada, in accordance with the provisions of section 12 of the Statistics Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: The records will be retained indefinitely. TBS Registration: 003305 Bank Number: STC PPU 077

Registered Nurses Database

Description: This bank contains socio-economic and demographic data obtained from provincial nurses' associations on registered nurses licensed to practise in Canada. The information includes basic and post-basic nursing education, year and location of graduation, activity status, type of employer, position and numerically coded location of residence and employment. The files are identified by a provincial registration number. Class of Individuals: This information, collected annually, relates to registered nurses licensed to practise in Canada.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to produce data on nursing manpower. These data, along with data relating to other health occupations, provide a source of national health manpower data used by planning groups and other users for analysis and special studies. Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are retained for 25 years. Related to PR#: STC HLT 090 TBS Registration: 001847 Bank Number: STC PPU 050

Tuberculosis Database

Description: This database, provided by provincial and territorial offices of tuberculosis control, contains information on people with tuberculosis. The information includes socio-demographic variables such as age, sex, aboriginal status and birthplace, and medical data such as type of tuberculosis, bacillary status and previous vaccination. In 1990 new variables were added including method of detecting the cases, antibiotic resistance, chest x-ray results and, for deceased persons, cause of death. Class of Individuals: Since 1966 the information relates to people with new active and reactivated tuberculosis. Prior to 1966 (since 1937) the information related to people admitted to tuberculosis sanatoria. The last year of data held by Statistics Canada is 1994. Health Canada became responsible for this database starting with the 1995 data year. Purpose: This database contains information used for purposes of tuberculosis surveillance and control. Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are retained for 100 years. Related to PR#: STC HLT 095 TBS Registration: 001851 Bank Number: STC PPU 070

Income Statistics Division:

Survey of Labour and Income Dynamics (SLID)

Description: The Survey of Labour and Income Dynamics is a longitudinal panel study that will provide data on the demographic, income, family and labour market characteristics of Canadians. The first annual labour component of the survey was conducted in January 1994 and the first income survey was conducted in April 1994. Respondents will subsequently be contacted twice each year, for a period of five years. New panels are to be introduced into the study every three years. Class of Individuals: Individuals aged 15 and over. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide data about the way people's lives are affected by changes in jobs, in income, in place of residence, and other changes that influence the social and economic well-being of individuals and families. SLID will support research aimed at advancing an understanding of labour market behaviour and economic well-being, and ultimately support policy development. Consistent Uses: As a longitudinal survey, SLID will follow respondents over a 6-year period. Records for the same respondent, therefore, will be linked together over that period in order to identify changes experienced. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records will be retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC HLD 038 TBS Registration: 003301 Bank Number: STC PPU 017

Survey of Financial Security

Description: The Survey of Financial Security collects information from a sample of Canadian households on their income, education, employment, assets and debts. Information was collected, using a paper questionnaire, in May and June 1999. At the moment plans to repeat the survey have not been finalized; it is possible the survey will be done on a three to five-year cycle and could potentially include a longitudinal component. Class of Individuals: Individuals aged 15 and over. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide data about the financial well-being of Canadians. Information on income alone provides only one part of this picture; data on a family's net worth is essential to fully understand the ability of Canadians to purchase the goods and services they require. Retention and Disposal Standards: Paper questionnaire will be destroyed when the information is fully processed, about one year after collection. Electronic identifying information is stored separately from the rest of the data that are collected. There are no plans at this time to delete electronically stored identifying information; this decision can be made when it is known whether the survey will be longitudinal. Related to PR#: STC HLD 047 TBS Registration: 004252 Bank Number: STC PPU 151

Labour Statistics Division:

Labour Force Survey

Description: The Labour Force Survey is a monthly survey conducted on a sample basis of approximately 52,000 households. The records are identified by name and carry information on the family composition, activities and characteristics of individuals in the labour force survey sample. Data content includes the demographic profile of the respondent, employment profile, such as name of employer, hours of work, and tenure. For those without work, information is available on work history, job search activities, and type of work sought. Data are also available on the educational pursuits of the respondent. The data are maintained in such a way as to permit the production of statistics at the level of Census Metropolitan Areas (CMA), economic regions and the provinces, and for selected non-CMA urban areas based on 3 month averages. Information relating to an individual cannot be retrieved based on name alone. The requester must provide the month(s) and year surveyed and the precise address at the time of the survey. There are also a number of special surveys that are conducted as supplements to the Labour Force Survey covering a variety of topics including work patterns, leisure time activities, absence from work, travel to work, income, etc. To retrieve a record, the requester must provide the subject of the special survey, the year the survey was conducted, and the precise address at the time of the survey. Class of Individuals: Individuals who are employed, unemployed or not in the labour force.

Purpose: The main purpose of the bank is to produce employment and unemployment figures. The data also enable a wide variety of additional information to be derived on the characteristics of the Canadian labour force and on the population age 15 and over in general.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records containing names have been kept since 1976, but records with name, address and phone numbers are only kept for five years. Related to PR#: STC LAB 035 TBS Registration: 001841 Bank Number: STC PPU 015

Workplace and Employee Survey

Description: The Workplace and Employee Survey is a longitudinal business survey designed to provide current information of events occurring in firms, their evolution over time, and the link between these developments and practices with worker outcomes. This type of information is not available from any other business or household survey. The inaugural annual 1999 production survey, with a March reference month, collected information from about 6,400 employers and about 25,000 employees. The first release of data will entail a notice of availability of the WES micro data files in the STC regional offices in October 2000 for research purposes. A major WES conference is being planned for the fall 2001. For this release, Statistics Canada and Human Resources Development Canada are collaborating on a series of reports addressing topics on Workplace Practices, Information Technology Adopters, Competition and Human Resource Practices, Hiring and Separations and Job Vacancies. These will be released sequentially from November 2000 to March 2001. Also, a report profiling small and medium-sized businesses is being planned in conjunction with the Canadian Federation of Independent Businesses. The employer questionnaire covers workforce characteristics, hiring and separation, compensation practices, human resource practices, training, technology use, business strategy, innovation and use of government programs. The employee questionnaire covers job activities, promotions, hours, earnings, training, use of computers and other technologies, education and family characteristics. The individuals' names and related contact information are stored on the data base for a two year period after completion of the survey. Class of Individuals: Paid workers who receive a T4 from their current employer.

Purpose: The survey supports research and policy development with respect to labour adjustment programs, workplace practices, social programs and education. The workplace, which is the salient unit of observation in the evolution of the knowledge-based economy, can provide the types of insight business planners and policy-makers need to better understand how the evolving demand and supply sides of the labour market, productivity and micro-economic factors influence global competitiveness.

Retention and Disposal Standards: 2 years. TBS Registration: 003899 Bank Number: STC PPU 140

Special Surveys Division:

Longitudinal Survey of Immigrants to Canada

Description: The Longitudinal Survey of Immigrants to Canada is a voluntary survey being developed in response to a request from Citizenship and Immigration Canada for policy-relevant information on the integration of recent immigrants to life in Canada. The survey will involve a longitudinal design with recent immigrants being interviewed three times: at six months, two years, and four years after arrival in Canada. Approximately 18,000 recent immigrants from across Canada will be selected for the first wave. One immigrant per immigrating family will be interviewed to ensure minimal respondent burden. Interviews will be conducted in one of 15 different languages, including English and French. Class of Individuals: Permanent residents aged 15 years and older arriving from outside Canada between September 2000 and August 2001.

Purpose: The Longitudinal Survey of Immigrants to Canada is designed to improve our understanding of how immigrants adjust to life in Canada. Survey results will shed light on the association between the socio-economic background of immigrants and their adjustment to life in Canada. It will also show which services are most effective in helping newcomers settle into Canadian society and will provide information on how new immigrants use the resources available to them. Consistent Uses: Potential respondents will be asked to sign a consent form (distributed through the Canadian Missions Abroad) to allow Statistics Canada to link to administrative files for the purposes of tracing. Retention and Disposal Standards: Not yet decided. Related to PR#: STC SSD 040 TBS Registration: 005005 Bank Number: STC PPU 018

National Longitudinal Survey of Children and Youth

Description: The National Longitudinal Survey of Children and Youth collects data on a sample of children across Canada every two years. The survey was initiated in November/December 1994 and February/March 1995. Information on over 23,000 children was collected during this first collection. Up to two children in each household were chosen from this initial sample to participate in the longitudinal portion of the survey, expected to cover a 20-year period. Subsequent cycles may add to the longitudinal burden of each household. Interviews were conducted with the most knowledgeable person in the household about these children, usually their mother. Children who were 10 and 11 years of age in this first collection were asked to complete a questionnaire themselves. Information was also collected from the child's teacher and principal, with the consent of the parent. Class of Individuals: Children aged 0-11 in 1994/95. Purpose: The primary objectives of the survey are to determine the prevalence of various biological, social and economic characteristics and risk factors in Canadian children and youth; to monitor the impact of such factors, life events and protective factors on these children's development; and to provide this information to policy and program officers for use in developing effective policies and strategies to help children to live healthy, active and rewarding lives. Consistent Uses: Statistics Canada has entered into a data-sharing agreement under section 12 of the Statistics Act with Human Resources Development Canada. The information provided to HRDC does not contain personal identifiers and will be kept confidential and used only for statistical purposes. Each person responding to questions was given the right to refuse to share their information. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC SSD 040 TBS Registration: 003635 Bank Number: STC PPU 014

Second Follow-up to the Ontario Child Health Study

Description: The Ontario Child Health Study (OCHS) is a longitudinal survey designed to evaluate the impact of early childhood on later adult health, quality of life and role functioning. It was in 1983 that Statistics Canada, in conjunction with McMaster University, first collected information on a group of 3,294 Ontario children living in 1,869 families. At this time, information was gathered on any children in the household between the ages of 4 and 16. Interviews were conducted with one of the parents of the child(ren), and the children themselves completed a self-complete questionnaire, if they were 12 years of age or older. In addition, information on these children was collected from the children's teacher. A follow-up of respondents to the 1983 study was conducted in 1987. The most current follow-up of the Ontario Child Health Study (OCHS2000) will go back to these children, who are now between the ages of 21 and 33 years, to collect further information about these individuals, their spouse/partner (if applicable) and any children they may have. During this round of collection, both the original

OCHS respondent and their spouse/partner will complete questionnaires. Class of Individuals: Children aged 4-16 in 1983; 8-20 in 1987; and, 21-33 in 2000/2001.

Purpose: The specific objectives of the Second Follow-Up to the Ontario Child Health Study are two-fold:

(i) to link early childhood/adolescent experiences with early adult life, especially with respect to how well the respondent is performing in the three major roles of being a worker, a parent and a partner, and how satisfied they are in those roles; (ii) to create a public-use database for researchers and analysts. This second follow-up of the OCHS, along with the previous studies, will provide useful information for addressing many public health and developmental questions of interest to health scientists.

Consistent Uses: Statistics Canada has entered into a data-sharing agreement under section 12 of the Statistics Act with McMaster University. The information provided to McMaster University does not contain personal identifiers and will be kept confidential and used only for statistical purposes. Each person responding to questions has been given the right to refuse to share their information.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC SSD 040 TBS Registration: 005006 Bank Number: STC PPU 019

Self-Sufficiency Project

Description: This bank contains information on the selected recipients' marital status, labour market participation, education and training, child care requirements, and family and parenting concerns. Four interviews are planned, one at program intake, and three follow-up interviews at 18 months, 36 months and 54 months after program intake. At the time of the 36 month survey, up to two children between the ages of 4 and 18 were selected in each household. Depending on the age of the child, they were asked to complete a vocabulary test, a math test or a literacy skill assessment. Children between the ages of 10 and 18 were also asked to answer a self-complete questionnaire. Class of Individuals: Income Assistance Recipients in New Brunswick and British Columbia. Purpose: The Self-Sufficiency Project is a research demonstration designed to test the effectiveness of an earnings supplement to Income Assistance recipients who take jobs and agree to leave public assistance. Statistics Canada is responsible for developing and implementing a data collection strategy and building the analysis files for the study. Consistent Uses: Respondents will be asked to sign a consent form to allow Statistics Canada to link a variety of data sources including administrative files held by Revenue Canada, Taxation and Employment Insurance and the provincial income assistance ministries. Respondents will be asked for authorization to share this information with the research firm administering the project and affiliated researchers. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC HLD 040 TBS Registration: 003214 Bank Number: STC PPU 026

Special Surveys

Description: This bank contains social and demographic data obtained from special ad hoc surveys, conducted by the Special Surveys Division, which do not form part of the regular survey-taking activity of the Agency. They cover a variety of socio-economic topics, including health, housing, labour market, education and literacy, as well as demographic data. The information may include name, social insurance number, addresses or telephone number.

Class of Individuals: Individuals selected to participate in the special surveys. Purpose: The data are used by sponsoring agencies or Statistics Canada to either evaluate or benchmark existing socio-economic programs, or in the development of such programs. The data collected may be one-time ad hoc measures, or a series of point-in-time measures, including longitudinal.

Retention and Disposal Standards: The paper records are retained for five years. The machine-readable records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: STC HLD 040 TBS Registration: 002189 Bank Number: STC PPU 016

Administrative Files Obtained from Federal Government Departments for Statistical Purposes

The Statistics Act, under which Statistics Canada operates, gives to the Agency the authority to access records maintained in any federal department or municipal office, corporation, business or organization where the information sought relates to the mandate of this Agency. Accordingly, Statistics Canada has entered into a number of arrangements with other federal government departments to access administrative files of those departments for the purpose of extracting data for statistical purposes. This has allowed Statistics Canada to exempt many respondents, particularly small businesses, from the filing of regular questionnaires.

Since the use made by Statistics Canada of this information is secondary to the original purpose for which it was gathered, requests for access to personal information from these files should be addressed to the department responsible for the original collection of the data. Any requests received by Statistics Canada, either for a copy of an individual record or for corrections to a record, will be referred to the originating department for response.

The following is a list of the files obtained from each department. Statistics Canada may receive the entire file or only part thereof, depending on its requirements.

Department of Human Resources Development:

HRDC PPU 005 Registration for Employment
HRDC PPU 054 Trainee Documentation Form for Job Entry File
HRDC PPU 061 Trainee Documentation for the Skill Shortages Program
HRDC PPU 066 Job Development Program
HRDC PPU 116 Old Age Security, Guaranteed Income Supplement and Spouse's Allowance

HRDC PPU 140 Canada Pension Plan – Retirement, Disability, Survivors and Death Benefits
HRDC PPU 146 Canada Pension Plan – Record of Earnings
HRDC PPU 150 Employment Insurance Claim File
HRDC PPU 180 Benefit and Overpayment Master File
HRDC PPU 210 Report on Hirings
HRDC PPU 385 Record of Employment
HRDC PPU 390 Social Insurance Number Registration

Department of Citizenship and Immigration:

EIC PPU 015 Overseas Immigration Case File
EIC PPU 225 Immigrant Case File
EIC PPU 230 Permanent Resident Data System
EIC PPU 285 Visitor Case File

Department of Justice:

JUS PPU 005 Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings

Department of Revenue Canada:

RCT PPU 005 Individual Income Tax Return
RCT PPU 040 Taxation Taxpayer Master File
RCT PPU 043 Traveller Declaration Cards

Business Statistics

The business database contains information which relates to the major industrial and services sectors of the economy. The information is obtained from establishments within companies through surveys, and from administrative records. It is used to describe the whole range of business activity in Canada, the goods and services produced, the cost structure of each industry and the location of industrial activity. It measures the kind and quality of goods produced, the costs of materials, labour and capital employed and the prices of both material and final products. The information is also a vital input to the System of National Accounts. As some of the businesses surveyed are unincorporated, there is personal information in this database relating to owners of unincorporated businesses who can be identified by a social insurance number. The business data bank may contain personal information in respect of unincorporated businesses in the forestry, mining, energy and resource and manufacturing sectors; in retail and wholesale trade; in rail, road and water transportation industries; in services, communications and tourism industries; relating to general and trade contractors; and to importers and exporters.

Consumer Finances Survey

This is an annual survey of households, conducted on a sample basis, designed to measure the distribution of income and to provide other yardsticks of the economic well-being of Canadian families and individuals. The records carry information on wages and salaries and other income, selected family and personal characteristics. To retrieve a record from this class of personal information, the requester must provide the year he/she was surveyed and the precise address at the time of the survey. For those years when the survey is carried out in conjunction with the Labour Force Survey, it may be possible to locate records relating to an individual. However, for those years when it is conducted independent of the Labour Force Survey, after the processing cycle is complete and the questionnaires are destroyed (usually after one year), it would be necessary to provide certain personal characteristics such as age and sex to permit the identification of an individual in a household group.

Household Surveys

The Household Surveys Division is responsible for a number of household surveys including surveys on family expenditures, household facilities and equipment, and incomes of Canadian families and individuals. In some cases, the name of an individual respondent is collected. In other cases, the respondent may be a household unit. In all cases, however, the information is maintained geographically and is not intended to be retrieved by name or other personal identifier.

Routine Correspondence and Other Subject Files

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of Statistics Canada, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in specific information banks described in this entry. Such information includes inquiries, complaints and general correspondence which are stored as part of the general subject files and are not retrievable by any personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable by means of specific information such as subject and/or date of communication. The retention periods associated with this information are consistent with those associated with the general subject files wherein they are stored.

Survey of Household Spending

Collects information, obtained by a sample survey of households, on expenditures by families and single persons living in private households, covering their complete budgets. A primary use of the information is for reviewing and updating the weights for the Consumer Price Index. As with the other classes of personal information maintained by the agency, this information is not intended to be retrieved by name or other personal identifier.

Manuals

The manuals used by Statistics Canada in carrying out its policies, programs and activities are instruction manuals developed to cover all phases of data acquisition, production and publication. These manuals can be accessed by identifying the subject.

In addition, working manuals produced by Statistics Canada are listed in the Current Publications Index and are available for purchase through Publications Sales, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0T6, or through any of the Statistics Canada regional reference centres listed under "Reading Room". These manuals are also available for public reference. They are:

- Canadian Export Classification: based on the Harmonized System (12-578)
- Canadian Standard Industrial Classification for Companies and Enterprises (12-570)
- CANSIM: Mini Base Series Directory (12-569)
- Changes to Municipal Boundaries, Status and Names (12-201)
- Development and Design of Survey Questionnaires (12-519)
- Guide to Sub-provincial Data – Excluding Census Data (12-566)
- Inventory of Statistics Canada Questionnaires on Microfiche (12-205)
- Standard Geographical Classification, Vol. I, The Classification (12-571), Vol. II, Reference Maps (12-572), Vol. III, Changes, 1981-1986 (12-573)
- Standard Industrial Classification Manual (12-501)
- Standard Occupational Classification 1980 (12-565)
- Survey Methodology (12-001)
- Survey Sampling: A Non-Mathematical Guide (12-602)
- Word Division in French (12-601)

Status of Women Canada

Chapter 132

Background

In 1971, the federal government created the Office of the Coordinator, Status of Women within the Privy Council Office. In 1976, the Office of the Coordinator, Status of Women was removed from the Privy Council Office. It was named a department under Order-in-Council P.C. 1976-779 and became known as Status of Women Canada.

Responsibilities

Status of Women Canada ensures that the federal government carries out its commitment to women's equality in all spheres of Canadian life.

Legislation

- Order in Council, P.C. 1976-779

Organization

◆ Communications and Consultations Directorate

Within its communications function Status of Women Canada informs women's organizations and the general public of federal priorities and programs relating to the status of women. The Communications and Consultations Directorate is the focal point for external communications and for consultations advice and planning. It undertakes the preparation of speeches and conducts media relations. It also carries out media analysis, responds to queries from the public, produces publications and provides advice and promotional materials for special events. It is developing a consultations function to provide internal planning and advice to Status of Women Canada

◆ Executive and Information Services Directorate

This Directorate is responsible for planning and reporting, coordination services and support to the Co-ordinator and the Secretary of State including liaison and correspondence services. It also provides library services, records management, translation and distribution services.

◆ Gender-based Analysis Directorate

The Directorate encourages and assists other federal departments and agencies to set up their own processes to ensure that gender-based analysis is incorporated into all of their policy and program development activities.

◆ Policy Analysis and External Relations Directorate

The Policy Analysis and External Relations Directorate reviews and conducts gender analysis of existing and proposed federal government policies, legislation, programs and initiatives. It develops recommendations and strategies and works in cooperation with other federal departments to promote gender equality. It undertakes developmental activities to address policy gaps on issues of concern to women. It also collaborates with provincial and territorial governments, international organizations and other governments on policy-related activities.

◆ Research Directorate

This Directorate is responsible for implementing and administering the Policy Research Fund that supports independent, nationally relevant, forward-thinking policy research on gender equality issues. Research must address new or emerging issues or policy gaps and focus on priorities that are set in consultation with constituents. The fund also allows for policy research on urgent issues related to gender equality that are on the current policy agenda and for which there is a definite timeframe for input into the policy process. Research projects are selected through a competitive call for proposals. The Directorate feeds into the department's policy analysis and development from a research perspective and provides information to women's groups, researchers and other about current research. The Directorate co-operates with other government departments and domestic and international research organizations on policy research initiatives related to gender equality.

◆ Resource Management Directorate

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting its activities, Status of Women Canada accumulates categories of personal information which are stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. Such personal information may have been accumulated in the process of handling such complaints and enquiries as are made to the Secretary of State and the Department. Due to the special nature of the Department's activities, these personal complaints and enquiries are usually forwarded to the appropriate department for individual assistance. The Department handles policy and program issues, but not personal program delivery matters. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the issue of complaint, and the date and name of complainant. All issues dealing with federal government legislation, policies and programs as they impact on women are included. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Toronto Port Authority

Chapter 134

Background

The Toronto Port Authority (TPA) was established on the 8th of June 1999, under the authority of the Canada Marine Act, which received Royal Assent on the 11th of June 1998. The TPA continues The Toronto Harbour Commissioners, which was constituted as a corporation under the Toronto Harbour Commissioners Act, 1911, as amended.

Responsibilities

The Toronto Port Authority's main purpose and function is to operate the Port of Toronto. The TPA also operates the Toronto City Centre Airport and the Outer Harbour Marina. Activities and powers of the TPA include:

- development, application, enforcement and amendment of rules, orders, bylaws, practices or procedures relating to the use, occupancy or operation of the port
- administration of fees or charges as authorized by the Canada Marine Act
- management, leasing or licensing of the federal real property as described in the TPA's letters patent
- construction, establishment, repair, maintenance, operation, removal, or demolition of port-related infrastructure
- provision of services to port users, such as: environmental assessment, dredging and dredgeate disposal, navigational aids, stevedoring services, emergency planning and response, multi-modal facilities and services, salvage and seizure, warehousing and security services

Legislation

- Canada Marine Act, R.S.C. 1998, c.10
- Canada Port Authorities Environmental Assessment Regulations, P.C.1999-1324, 28 July 1999
- Canada Port Authorities Management Regulations, P.C. 1999-246, 18 February 1999
- Canada Shipping Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. S-9
- Canadian Aviation Regulations, P.C. 1996-1399, 10 September 1996
- Navigable Waters Protection Act

Organization

The Toronto Port Authority is managed by a seven member board of directors, appointed as follows: the Governor in Council appoints one director as nominated by the Minister of Transport; the City of Toronto appoints one director, the Province of Ontario appoints one director; the remaining directors are appointed by the Governor in Council as nominated by the Minister in consultation with port users. The board of directors appoints a chief executive officer, who is not a member of the board.

Corporate

The head office of the Toronto Port Authority is located in its historic waterfront Administration Building. The President & CEO is responsible for managing the TPA, developing strategic directions for business development and for providing leadership to staff. The General Manager's office is also responsible for the development and implementation of organization-wide policies and procedures. Corporate and administration support functions include: finance and accounting, risk management, information technology, office services, human resources, legal services and records and archives.

Port Operations

Three business units report to the Director of Port Operations:

◆ Port of Toronto

The harbourmaster is responsible for the management of the movement, navigation, and berthing of vessels using the port and harbour, to ensure safety and compliance with by-laws and regulations. He monitors navigable channels and navigational aids to comply with standards of the St. Lawrence Seaway. He also administers the power vessel operators license examination program, reviews and provides approvals for various aquatic activities and engages in public relations activities with shipping companies and the boating community.

The TPA also operates marine terminal, warehouse and intermodal services. Terminal operations staff supervise longshoremen, work together with stevedoring groups, and supply and maintain cargo-handling equipment. They provide customer service and market the port of Toronto by communicating with customers, attending trade shows and preparing competitive quotations.

♦ Works Department

This unit is responsible for providing a wide variety of engineering, maintenance and customer services. These include: maintenance of navigational aids, construction equipment, vessels, cranes and vehicles; special cargo handling using the heavy lift crane and the mobile container crane; marine services such as electric power and fresh water for ships, ship safety inspections, and dry dock and ice-breaking services; dredging and harbour cleaning; lakefilling and shoreline protection including the management of the Leslie Street Endikement Project; port security and emergency response; maintenance of all TPA facilities including HVAC, plumbing and electrical services, grounds and pavement maintenance and dockwall repairs and surveys; and special maintenance duties including bridges, docks, ferry ramps, dockwalls, airport runways and topographic and hydrographic surveys.

♦ Outer Harbour Marina

Marina staff are responsible for operating the marina including leasing slips in the summer and outdoor storage space for boats in the winter, coordination of boat launches and haul-outs, and customer billing. Other duties of staff include maintaining site services, conducting safety and security inspections, maintenance of equipment, machinery and electrical/mechanical services, customer service and marina marketing.

Toronto City Centre Airport

Airport staff are responsible for the overall daily operation of the airport and ferries, including management of supplies, services and facilities. A large number of duties are focussed on safety and security: staff develop and maintain the airport security program; coordinate the Airport Emergency Plan with input from the police, ambulance and fire departments, and the air traffic control unit; maintain equipment in a state of readiness for any emergency; and produce such reports as incident, noise, runway conditions and notices to airmen. Airport staff also handle customer service, including complaints and billing, and market the airport to the public.

Organization

Communications Group

The Communications Group is responsible for supporting management in providing effective two-way communications between Transport Canada and all its stakeholders to ensure the public is well informed of the department's activities and to ensure the department takes into consideration the concerns and views of the public in all its activities. The Director General, Communications, reports directly to the Deputy Minister in Ottawa. Five regional directors of communications report to regional departmental directors general.

Corporate Services Group

The Assistant Deputy Minister (ADM), Corporate Services is responsible for ensuring the provision of effective direct and functional support to the Department. These support services, which are continuously evolving to adapt to the changing needs of Transport Canada, play an essential role in helping TC achieve its mandate. The Corporate Services Group comprises four directorates: Executive Services (including Audit and Advisory), Finance and Administration; Human Resources; and Technology and Information Management Services.

♦ Executive Services Directorate

Executive Services supports the Minister's and Deputy Minister's offices, and senior departmental managers in meeting Transport Canada's responsibilities with respect to Parliament, the transportation industry and the general public by managing/administering internal audit and advisory services, access to information and privacy legislation, ministerial correspondence, and parliamentary and regulatory affairs. The directorate is also responsible for leadership and advocacy with respect to the departmental Comptrollership initiative.

♦ Finance and Administration Directorate

Finance and Administration is responsible for ensuring the provision of advice, services and support in the areas of financial analysis and management, financial policy and systems; accounting operations; economic evaluation and cost recovery; asset management; contracting; vehicle fleet management; building management; accommodation and planning and design.

♦ Human Resources Directorate

The Human Resources Directorate, led by the Director General, is responsible for ensuring the effective recruitment, training, utilization, compensation and retention of human resources in the Department. Policies and programs related to human resource management are planned and implemented by this directorate.

♦ Technology & Information Management Services Directorate

This Directorate is headed by a Director General who reports to the Assistant Deputy Minister of the Corporate Services Group. It is responsible for providing advice, services, support and functional direction in the areas of information management and technology in the National Capital Region and five regional offices.

Policy Group

The Assistant Deputy Minister (ADM), Policy is responsible for the formulation, development and maintenance of the Department of Transport's long-range transportation objectives, strategies and policies. The ADM provides advice to the Deputy Minister on policies, programs and objectives which have implications for one or more modes of transport; program evaluation; on the management of transportation subsidy policy programs and on shared initiatives between private industry and various levels of government. The ADM advises the Minister on policy issues regarding Transport Crown Corporations, accessible transportation and on the maintenance of the Department's external relations (federal, provincial, international and industry). The ADM is supported by six directorates.

♦ Air Policy Directorate

This Directorate is responsible for the development and implementation of the government's policy initiatives for domestic, transborder and international air transportation services, and for Canadian representation at the Council of the International Civil Aviation Organization. In particular, it is responsible for the preparation of mandate papers for the negotiation of bilateral air agreements. It must also provide ongoing policy advice to the Minister of Transport on measures to ensure an appropriate framework that will permit air carriers to provide adequate and efficient air transportation services which will respond to the needs of the general public for air travel within Canada and internationally.

♦ Corporate Relations Directorate

This Directorate co-ordinates the Department's federal-provincial relations and acts as the focal point for the liaison with the Regional Directors General. It also co-ordinates the department's international activities related to international co-operation, international trade agreement negotiations and international economic integration (APEC, Action Plan of the Americas), as well as to the Minister's participation in multilateral and bilateral meetings. It is also responsible for the development of broad-based departmental policy strategies to address emerging Canadian transportation challenges, for the provision of strategic advice to address complex multi-modal policy issues, to provide support to the ADM-Policy through special high priority assignments, to take charge of complex and policy-sensitive analysis and evaluations, to represent the department on interdepartmental committees, to be the departmental focal point for accessible transportation and to provide a broad range of services in support of ADM-Policy, the Deputy Minister and the Minister.

♦ Economic Analysis Directorate

The Directorate provides the Department with statistics, forecasts, economic analysis and economic research needed for informed policy and planning decisions. It undertakes the acquisition of data and maintenance of data bases for all modes of transport. Forecasts of traffic demand and growth are provided for use in policy development, planning and resource allocation decisions. The Directorate carries out economic analysis to assess and quantify the economic impact of major transportation policy initiatives. In addition, it conducts economic research into current and anticipated future transportation issues.

♦ Marine Policy and Programs Directorate

This Directorate is responsible for the development and formulation of domestic and international shipping policies, including international bulk and liner policy and marine insurance and liability regimes. This activity includes the development of Canadian positions for multilateral negotiations conducted within intergovernmental organizations (e.g. OECD, UNCTAD, IMO, WTO and APEC). On the domestic side, its area of responsibility extends to the coastal trade, economic regulation, and shipping in support of offshore exploration. Ports policies are also developed with respect to the new Canada Port Authorities, as established by the Canada Marine Act. As well, it is responsible for the development and oversight of policies and programs for all aspects of federally subsidized ferry services. Further, it is responsible for overseeing the management contract with the St. Lawrence Seaway Management Corporation, as well as for the bilateral Seaway relationship with the U.S.

♦ Program Evaluation Directorate

This Directorate is responsible for carrying out evaluation studies of the relevance, success, and cost effectiveness of Transport Canada programs and policies, and particularly the extent to which they affect the public interest. It also prepares frameworks of programs and policies to help ensure that they have clear and comprehensive objectives for which performance data is defined and available. The Directorate's work includes frameworks and studies for policies that have led to the devolution of government services.

♦ Surface Transportation Policy Directorate

This Directorate is responsible for the development, formulation and implementation of the surface transportation policies, and for the management of all developmental and economic regulatory activities of the Department in support of surface transportation. This includes all railway freight policies and programs (including grain); all surface passenger transportation policies, including the development and administration of rail passenger legislation and regulations. It also includes federal government policy applicable to trucking and motor coach transportation undertakings, the application of intelligent transportation systems and all highway policies associated with the federal government, including negotiation of new federal highway initiatives with the provinces.

Programs & Divestiture Group

The Programs and Divestiture Group is headed by an Assistant Deputy Minister who is responsible for designing and delivering programs for airports, ports, federal highways and bridges, and for most of Transport Canada's environment-related activities. The Assistant Deputy Minister is assisted by five Directors-General (Airport Lease Review, Airport Programs and Divestiture; Environmental Affairs; Port Programs and Divestiture and Surface Programs and Divestiture), a Director of Planning and Coordination and a Manager of Executive Services.

♦ Airports

This Directorate is responsible for the National Airports Policy (NAP) through negotiating the transfer of National Airport System (NAS) airports (identified in the NAP as Canada's 26 most vital airports); monitoring the transfer of regional/local airports to local operators; providing national lease administration services; delivering an Airport Capital Assistance Program (ACAP) to assist non-NAS airports; ensuring the ongoing effectiveness of the NAP by monitoring the performance of Canada's airport system; providing a management framework for the operations of residual TC airports; and managing post-transfer issues pertaining to NAV CANADA and airport authorities.

♦ Environment

This Directorate is responsible for developing and implementing Transport Canada's Sustainable Development Strategy; implementing an environmental management system to ensure that impacts on the environment are included in all departmental activities and decision-making; promoting a shift to sustainable transportation in Canada, including developing policies and strategies on key issues, such as climate change; providing support for all departmental activities that have an impact on the physical environment, including the remediation of any sites and facilities being transferred from government; and for the management of policy and records related to Transport Canada's real property assets.

♦ Ports

This Directorate administers public ports and port facilities serving commercial water transportation interests, and performs a liaison function with the new Canada Port Authorities that were created pursuant to the Canada Marine Act. The Directorate is also responsible for overseeing the transfer of regional/local ports to local operators, monitoring the National Ports System, verifying that Canada Port Authorities comply with the provisions of the Canada Marine Act, and its related regulations and the Letters Patent, and managing post-transfer issues and adjustments.

♦ Surface

This Directorate is responsible for: the implementation of programs providing financial assistance in the form of contributions, loans and loan guarantees to provinces for the construction of certain provincial highways; for participating in the management of a number of federal highway facilities, including the Jacques Cartier, Champlain, Seaway International and Thousand Islands International Bridges; and, for ensuring operation of the Confederation Bridge in compliance with the terms and conditions of the Bridge Operation Agreement.

Safety and Security Group

The Safety and Security Group is responsible for the development of regulations and national standards, as well as for the implementation of monitoring, testing, inspection, research and development and subsidy programs, to contribute to safety and security in the aviation, marine, rail and road modes of transport. The Group administers the delivery of aircraft services to government and other transportation bodies. The Group develops and enforces regulations and standards under federal jurisdiction to protect public safety in the transportation of dangerous goods and to prevent unlawful interference in the aviation, marine and railway modes of transport. The Group also ensures that the Department is prepared to respond to transportation and transportation-related emergencies.

◆ Aircraft Services Directorate

This Directorate is responsible for providing and maintaining aircraft and for providing services in support of Transport Canada operations, selected programs of other federal government departments, agencies, and non-government clients. The services include providing appropriate professional training for Transport Canada and Transportation Safety Board civil aviation inspectors, NAV CANADA inspectors, and for Aircraft Services aircraft maintenance engineers and electronics technicians. The Directorate is responsible for the Department's 45 fixed and rotary wing aircraft, which are located at the Headquarters hangar in Ottawa and at six regional bases. The Directorate also operates and maintains 28 helicopters and two fixed wing aircraft's in support of the Department of Fisheries and Oceans Canadian Coast Guard program.

Aircraft Services maintains four Challenger aircraft for the Department of National Defence's Administrative Flight Service. In addition, the Directorate is responsible for the four government owned Canadair CL-215 Water Bomber aircraft, which are leased to a commercial operator for forest fire fighting duties in the Northwest Territories. The Directorate also owns one de Havilland Dash 7R aircraft, which is operated under lease to a commercial air operator in support of the Department of Environment's Ice Reconnaissance Program. The Directorate is divided into six branches: Aviation Safety, Client and Internal Services, Engineering, Flight Operations, Technical Services, and Training.

Aviation Safety

Responsible for the Directorate aviation safety programs. The Chief provides advice to senior management on all matters related to aviation safety.

Client and Internal Services

Responsible for the centralized resource-related functions in Aircraft Services which include financial planning and programming, account processing, human resources and administration, dangerous goods, facility management, information technology and special projects. The special projects division manages large, complex Capital procurements and conducts special studies.

Engineering

Responsible for the design, analysis, procurement, installation and approval of avionic and special role airframe systems equipment, and repairs for the Transport Canada aircraft fleet and aircraft fleet of other Federal Government departments such as the Department of National Defence (412, 434 and 402 Squadrons), the Department of Fisheries and Oceans (Canadian Coast Guard and National Aerial Surveillance Program), and private sector clients, such as, but not limited to, NAV CANADA and Lockheed Martin. Special engineering studies such as fatigue load monitoring and analysis for special operating roles, are conducted in conjunction with partner organizations.

Flight Operations

Responsible for all Transport Canada and Canadian Coast Guard flight operations and the development of policies and operating directives governing this activity to ensure the safe and efficient operation of all fixed and rotary wing aircraft.

Technical Services

Responsible for maintaining Transport Canada's and the Canadian Coast Guard's fixed wing and helicopter fleets to the airworthiness standards necessary for compliance with the Operating Certificate, and for providing those aircraft on time for use by Aircraft Services clients, as well as providing maintenance and logistic service to Department of National Defence's 412 Squadron in support of Challenger Administrative Services. The Branch operates an approved maintenance organization with components involved in maintenance planning, aircraft maintenance analysis, logistic support, overhaul and component repair, and quality assurance, and monitors the provision and maintenance of survival equipment.

Training

Responsible for the development and implementation of a national training program for all Transport Canada, Transportation Safety Board and NAV CANADA pilots. Also, maintenance training is provided for all Aircraft Services aircraft maintenance engineers and electronics technicians.

◆ Civil Aviation Directorate

The Civil Aviation Directorate is responsible for establishing and administering the regulations and standards necessary for the safe conduct of civil aviation within Canada. The directorate comprises twelve branches.

Aerodrome Safety

Responsible for inspecting and certifying all airports and aerodromes in Canada. This includes developing the rules, standards and procedures for all aspects of airside safety including determining land use and zoning and evaluating noise and its impact on wildlife and residential communities. The branch also evaluates the requirements for maintenance, winter operations, runway friction measurement, pavement design performance, visual aids, runway markings, emergency response and firefighting services.

Air Navigation Services and Airspace

Responsible for conducting safety and regulatory oversight of all civil air navigation service providers in Canada. This includes developing the rules governing Canada's airspace and for coordinating and approving airspace classification and structure.

Aircraft Certification

Responsible for establishing standards, inspecting, testing and approving the design, and performance of all new and modified aeronautical products built or operated in Canada. The branch is also responsible for monitoring the continuing airworthiness of aeronautical products.

Aircraft Maintenance and Manufacturing

Responsible for ensuring that all registered aircraft built or operated in Canada meet the required national or international airworthiness standards. Branch specialists issue flight authorization documents and Aircraft Maintenance Engineer (AME) licenses, ensure that air carrier maintenance control procedures are effective, conduct company audits, inspections and on-the-spot aircraft checks, as well as approve maintenance, manufacturing and training organizations, programs and personnel. In conjunction with the industry, through the Canadian Aviation Regulation Advisory Council (CARAC) process, the Branch is responsible for the continuous development of the regulations and standards governing aircraft maintenance and manufacturing.

Aviation Learning Services

Aviation Learning Services is responsible for identification, design and delivery of learning products and services that satisfy the continuous learning needs of all Civil Aviation personnel.

Civil Aviation Medicine

Oversees the periodic medical examinations required by aviation personnel in accordance with the Canadian Aviation Regulations and the international standards and recommended practices laid down by the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO). The aeromedical certification program is conducted by using Civil Aviation Medical Examiners across Canada and around the world to conduct medical examinations.

Commercial and Business Aviation

Commercial & Business Aviation is responsible for the safety regulation, inspection and monitoring of all Canadian business and commercial air operators, as well as foreign air operators who operate in Canadian airspace. Branch inspectors conduct inspections, audits and evaluations in the areas of flight operations, cabin safety, the transportation of dangerous goods, and occupational safety and health on board commercial and business aircraft. This monitoring includes training programs and facilities, as well as technical performance evaluations on simulators and other training devices. In Headquarters, the Branch also develops policies, standards, guidance and regulations pertinent to its area of responsibility.

General Aviation

Responsible for the licensing and testing standards and the licensing of all pilots, navigators, and flight engineers and the safety regulations, inspection and monitoring of all Canadian flight training units. The branch is also responsible for regulating aircraft leasing, maintaining a Canadian Aircraft Register, maintaining a safety oversight of recreational aviation and special flight operations such as airshows. Furthermore, it regulates civil and commercial rocket launch operations in Canada.

International Aviation

Responsible for coordinating the directorate's activities on international aviation matters. In cooperation with foreign agencies, such as the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) and civil aviation authorities, coordinates and develops standards and procedures for international aviation and the harmonization of regulations.

Program Services

Responsible for supporting all areas of Civil Aviation by providing specialized services in performance analysis, information systems, cost recovery, publishing and communications, planning and policy studies. The branch also oversees a national quality assurance program.

Regulatory Services

Responsible for developing and maintaining aeronautical legislation through the Canadian Aviation Regulatory Advisory Council (CARAC) and implementing enforcement action as well as presenting cases before the Civil Aviation Tribunal. The branch is also responsible for translation services as well as developing and standardizing aeronautical terminology. The branch's contingency Operations section is responsible for preparing and coordinating emergency response for any national or international civil air transportation crisis.

Safety Services Branch in HQ and System Safety Division in each Region

Responsible for reviewing accident and incident data, as well as other safety-related information, assessing risk, determining safety priorities, and developing safety promotion and accident prevention programs and activities to enhance the level of safety awareness and to reduce the probability of injuries to persons or loss of resources.

♦ Marine Safety Directorate

The Marine Safety Directorate is responsible for the full spectrum of responsibilities related to ship safety and the protection of the environment, including marine pilotage, and provides marine expertise for general and policy matters. It includes the administration of national and international laws designed to ensure the safe operation, navigation, maintenance and design of ships, protection of life and property and prevention of ship source pollution.

Certification and Pilotage

Serves as the liaison amongst the Pilotage Authorities, the Minister, industry, other government agencies and pilot associations. The Branch guides and participates in the development and approval of policies, standards and regulations for the provision of marine pilotage services to the domestic and international shipping industries. In addition, the Branch develops and administers examinations and training programs for the certification of mariners and is responsible for control and issue of Certificates of Competency to Canadian seafarers. Develops and implements Standards of Training, Certification and Watchkeeping (STCW) Convention requirements. Also manages the Marine Emergency Duties (MED) Training Program.

Legislation and Regulations

Designs, formulates and maintains the national legislative and regulatory framework governing marine safety. The Branch provides advice, consultation and services to national and international organizations on legislative and regulatory matters and negotiates bilateral, national and international agreements which establish and harmonize marine safety legislation, regulations and standards.

Marine Safety and Environmental Programs

The Branch develops national policies, guidelines and standards governing the inspection and certification of domestic and foreign ships, manages Canada's Port State Control (PSC) program and directs the conduct of investigations of marine accidents and incidents. In addition, the Branch manages the Canadian ship inspection program, the pollution prevention program, approves prototype products and load lines assignments, as well as the co-ordination of the Occupational Health and Safety (OSH), the Port Warden and cargo associated programs. Also directs the development and refinement of national policies, guidelines, standards and procedures governing the recording and registering of ships and the licensing of small commercial vessels. The Branch provides support services for the Directorate's International Maritime Organization (IMO) commitments and other international matters including APE, NAFTA and ILO. Coordination of international cooperation, training and marketing is also covered by the Branch.

Program Services

Responsible for all of the administrative needs of the Directorate. This includes finance including R&D funding and special projects, human resources, training, records management, communications and information technology and information management.

Quality Assurance

Responsible for a national quality assurance verification program to assess compliance and the effectiveness of a marine safety operations. The Branch provides authoritative evaluations, reports, advice and recommendations on the quality and integrity of all aspects of marine safety programs and directs the analysis, development and refinement of audit policies, standards, criteria, procedures and practices.

♦ Rail Safety Directorate

The Rail Safety Directorate is responsible for the development and enforcement of regulations, rules, standards and procedures governing safe railway operations in Canada under the Railway Safety Act. As well, it administers federal funding programs designed to improve the safety of highway/railway grade crossings. The Directorate comprises five branches: Crossing Contribution and Resource Management; Equipment; Engineering; Operations and Safety Programs.

Crossing Contributions and Resource Management

The Crossing Contributions and Resource Management Branch is responsible for the administration of the Grade Crossing Improvement Program and for the administration of directorates resources.

Engineering Branch

The Engineering Branch is responsible for monitoring the safety of railway infrastructure such as tracks, bridges, trespassing (access control), crossings and railway signal systems.

Equipment

The Equipment Branch is responsible for conducting safety audits of railway freight and passenger equipment: motive power, rail cars, including cars carrying dangerous goods, train brakes and bulk storage installations on railway rights-of-way.

Operations

The Operations Branch is responsible for monitoring the safety of railway operations, administering the Occupational Safety and Health Program for rail under Part II of the Canada Labour Code, and administering the contingency planning process for rail emergencies.

Safety Programs

The Safety Programs Branch ensures that regulations, rules, standards, exemptions and revocations are prepared to meet legal requirements. This Branch is the focal point for departmental participation in the work of Operation Lifesaver (Direction 2006), railway/government safety partnership programs.

◆ Road Safety and Motor Vehicle Regulation Directorate

The Road Safety and Motor Vehicle Regulation Directorate coordinates federal government activities in road safety, motor vehicle regulation and commercial vehicle safety in order to reduce deaths, the severity of injuries, health impairment, property damage and fuel consumption. Principal responsibilities include development and enforcement of safety standards for motor vehicles, tires, child restraints; regulation of the safe operation of extra-provincial bus and truck undertakings; development of road safety countermeasures, liaison with the Motor Vehicle Test Centre; and, participation in co-operative federal-provincial road safety programs.

Motor Vehicle Safety Enforcement

Responsible for the enforcement of the Motor Vehicle Safety Act and Regulations as they apply to the manufacture and importation of vehicles, tires and child restraints. The Branch is also responsible for the investigation of public complaints on alleged safety related defects and the monitoring of recalls in Canada.

Motor Vehicle Standards and Research

Responsible for the development and implementation of applied research programs dealing with motor vehicle safety and human performance. The Branch is also responsible for the development of regulations, standards, and associated test methods to improve road safety and protect the health and environment of Canadians from the harmful effects of motor vehicle use and the development and implementation of Road Safety's Directed Studies Program; which includes collision investigations.

Road Safety Programs

Responsible for data analysis and other research to identify national road safety improvement opportunities in the areas of vehicle, user, infrastructure and commercial operator, and provides national road safety information to stakeholders.

◆ Safety Programs, Strategies and Coordination Directorate

The Safety Programs, Strategies and Coordination Directorate is responsible for the following main functions: Transportation Safety Board Liaison; Risk Assessment and Safety Studies; Strategies and Issues; Ministerial Liaison and Public Rights; Data Occurrence, Analysis and Reports; and Program Support.

Occurrence Data Analysis and Reports

The Branch is responsible for the acquisition, accessibility and the integrity of Safety Information for use within Transport Canada and to provide, where feasible, subject information to external stakeholders. This includes the provision of trends analysis and reports plus adding value to core business data by ensuring the quality and accuracy of information. The Branch is also responsible to establish the development of an Information Management infrastructure to address Safety and Security requirements.

Program Support Division

Provides to the branches of the Safety Programs, Strategies and Coordination Directorate administrative support and advice, when requested, on the areas of Finance and Human Resources. Program Support also has multi-modal responsibilities such as maintenance of the language training fund, Office of Primary Interest on Security issues and administrative functions relating to Official Languages.

Ministerial Liaison and Public Rights Division

This Branch is the focal point for the administration, coordination and effective service delivery of information and corporate programs in order to meet the Department's objectives on behalf of Transport Canada, Safety and Security.

Research and Development Service Line

The R&D service line, which includes the Transportation Development Centre (TDC) in Montreal, coordinates and manages the Department's central R&D activities in support of transportation safety and security, and policy and program functions. TDC serves as the Department's centre of expertise on research and development and transportation technology and innovation. R&D is contracted-out to a variety of public and private sector organizations and covers all modes of transportation as well as systems considerations.

Risk Assessment and Safety Studies Branch

This branch contributes to the development of a safe transportation system by providing oversight of safety programs in Transport Canada on behalf of the Assistant Deputy Minister, Safety and Security and by providing advice on safety issues and safety management practices to senior managers with safety and security program responsibilities. This is accomplished by monitoring, analyzing and evaluating events and emerging trends relating to the safety performance of the transportation system, by identifying safety hazards, risks and issues, by assessing the adequacy of safety programs in light of the information produced by the aforementioned activities and by developing policies and guidelines for measures that can improve or enhance the effectiveness of Transport Canada's safety and security programs. This requires that the branch maintain a pool of expertise in operational safety analysis, that it conduct independent safety studies, analyses and risk assessments and that it provide leadership in the development of state of the art safety management practices such as integrated and continuous systematic risk management.

Strategies and Issues Branch

The role of the Strategies and Issues Branch is to identify, develop, plan and manage projects, strategies and issues which bridge the Department's Safety & Security business line. In so doing, it is the role of the Branch to facilitate the bridging of knowledge, skills, information and experience across the Department's extended Safety & Security family. The Branch provides authoritative advice, and is the Department's focal point and external liaison for matters broadly affecting the safety and security of Canada's transportation system.

Transportation Safety Board Liaison Branch

The role of the Transportation Safety Board (TSB) Liaison Branch is to support the Safety and Security Group by managing the department's interface with the TSB, including Transport Canada's response process to TSB Recommendations, Advisories and Information Letters, and ensuring the quality of responses from the Aviation, Marine, Rail and Dangerous Goods Directorates.

◆ Security and Emergency Preparedness Directorate

The Security and Emergency Preparedness Directorate is the principal focus in the Department of Transport for coordinating the development and implementation of policies and programs to ensure the security and emergency readiness of the National Transportation System and of departmental assets.

Emergency Preparedness Branch

This Branch is responsible for ensuring that, in all incidents and emergencies, through planning, exercising and response, Transport Canada is ready, with the support of other Departments, Agencies and the transportation industry, to help maintain the best possible transportation system for Canada and Canadians. The Branch also manages the Transport Canada Situation Centre.

(Explosive Detection Systems) EDS Project Team

The EDS project team is developing a proposed regulatory program to enhance current screening through implementation of explosives detection for passengers and their baggage for all flights departing Canada. It is responsible for conducting data gathering and analysis to determine the policy framework, the approach to industry implementation and an assessment of the effect of implementation on air carrier services and financial viability. The future implementation of EDS will be the responsibility of the industry.

Preventive Security Branch

This Branch directs the analysis and dissemination of intelligence information from national and international agencies and provides the principal departmental liaison with the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, Intelligence Committees and other agencies concerning intelligence matters. The Branch directs the Security Screening program, including the security clearances for access to restricted areas of the international and domestic airports. The Branch develops departmental Security and Emergency Preparedness training policies and plans and directs the design and delivery of training for the professional security development of Transport Canada security inspectors. The Branch designs and develops training in transportation security for the use of the transportation industry. The Branch manages the Transport Canada Security Awareness Program which is directed at Transport Canada employees nationally and the National Transportation Security Awareness Program which is directed at employees of the transportation industries, staff at transportation facilities, and the travelling and general public. It also manages elements of the Transport Canada Emergency Preparedness Awareness Program.

Regional Directors, Security

The five Regional Directors are responsible for inspecting and testing departmental security plans, policies and standards, and for identifying vulnerabilities in them. They monitor the effectiveness of site security exercises, carry out certification of security screening personnel, ensure compliance of industry with transportation security legislation and provide advice and assistance in the protection of assets throughout the region for the department and multi-modal transportation industry. They also co-ordinate all emergency preparedness and response activities for the region.

Security Operations Branch

The Branch provides advice and assistance in the protection of assets throughout the Department and multi-modal transportation systems. It is the departmental liaison with the RCMP and other police agencies on security and criminal matters. It is responsible for Headquarters protective and security services, monitors the effectiveness of Departmental programs, develops standards for the use of security technology, and advises on acquisitions and monitors its effectiveness. Manages Information Technology (IT) security, manages and provides communications security (COMSEC) service, technical intrusion and telecommunications security programs, policies, services, and provides advice and recommendations to departmental management. Manages the Department's security research and development program and the development and implementation of security equipment for the Department and the traveling public. Performs foreign air carrier inspections to ensure the integrity of the National Transportation Program. Assists in the development of multi-modal policies, standards, legislation and training courses to ensure a high level of security for the National Transportation System. Acts as the functional authority for Regional Directors, Security, to help industry achieve compliance with security legislation, and monitors the consistency of inspection and enforcement of the National Transportation System across the country, and conducts functional reviews and assessments of Regional security offices. The Branch is also responsible for the development of national security screening equipment technical standards, systems and specifications and performance criteria.

Security Policy and Legislation Branch

This Branch plans and develops policies, standards and legislation to ensure adequate levels of security for the National Transportation System, formulates the departmental position on international security activities, provides assistance in the implementation of transportation security policies, and establishes policies and standards with respect to departmental security.

♦ Transportation of Dangerous Goods Directorate

The Transportation of Dangerous Goods Directorate serves as the major source of regulatory development, information and guidance on dangerous goods transport for the public, industry and government. The Directorate administers the federal Transportation of Dangerous Goods (TDG) program to promote public safety in the transportation of dangerous goods by all modes of transport throughout Canada. Activities include the development of standards and regulations, inspection and enforcement policies related to the handling, offering for transport, in transit storage of dangerous goods and the manufacture, use and testing of standardized means of containment. It coordinates federal-provincial/territorial activities to ensure consistent Canada-wide delivery of the dangerous goods program and to facilitate interface between modes; and administers the availability of emergency response information through the operation of CANUTEC. The Directorate publishes a Dangerous Goods Newsletter and a number of awareness and explanatory brochures.

CANUTEC

CANUTEC is the Canadian Transport Emergency Centre operated by Transport Canada. It is a 24-hour bilingual emergency response and information centre for transportation accidents involving dangerous goods.

Compliance and Response Branch

The Compliance Branch ensures that consignors, carriers and consignees are complying with the regulations and standards through national awareness, inspection, investigation and enforcement programs and through liaison with the provinces, territories and US agencies. This Branch manages the TC attendance at accidents involving dangerous goods. This Branch is responsible for the direct training of all federally designated TDG inspectors and indirectly for the training of provincial and foreign TDG inspectors. This Branch includes three divisions: Response Operations, Training and Enforcement.

Legislation and Regulations Drafting Unit

The legislation and Regulations Drafting Unit is tasked with transforming policy decisions into appropriate clear language regulatory text.

Regulatory Affairs Branch

The Regulatory Affairs Branch is responsible for the administration, development and amendment of the federal Transportation of Dangerous Goods Act and Regulations. This role includes representing Canada in U.N. and NAFTA meetings regarding dangerous goods. TDG takes the lead in development of national and international standards for manufacturing, selection and use of means of containment. The Branch also issues permits when deviations from the regulations are warranted and manages a containment assessment and registration program.

Research, Evaluation and Systems Branch

The Research, Evaluation and Systems Branch evaluates the impact of regulatory requirements, coordinates the conduct of research and manages the design and implementation of systems used for information gathering and dissemination.

Risk Management Branch

The Risk Management Branch makes recommendations and implements decisions and directives to minimize the adverse effects of accidental losses to people, property and the environment associated with the transportation of dangerous goods.

Certificates of Competency as a Marine Engineer

Description: This bank records information on the issue of marine engineer certificates as required by section 126 of the Canada Shipping Act. It contains dates and places of birth, grades, types, numbers and dates of issuance of the certificate granted for any Canadian or landed immigrant who has passed the appropriate examination and has been granted a marine engineer certificate of competency. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens, permanent residents of Canada and citizens of Commonwealth countries who wish to take Canadian Coast Guard marine engineering examinations. Purpose: The bank is used to ascertain that an individual has been granted a specific marine engineer certificate. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are destroyed when the individual dies or reaches the age of 70. Related to PR#: DOT MSS 200 PAC Number: 77-018 TBS Registration: 001049 Bank Number: DOT PPU 035

Electrocardiographic (ECG) Records

Description: This bank functions as a central repository for electrocardiographic records for licensed aviation personnel. Data includes ECG records with or without interpretation records. Class of Individuals: Aviation personnel who require ECG's for licensing purposes. Purpose: Licensing and research. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for 75 years. PAC Number: 80-029 TBS Registration: 001047 Bank Number: DOT PPU 025

Enforcement

Description: These files contain case histories of all individuals in enforcement actions. Class of Individuals: Persons identified in enforcement actions, whether or not they are holders of Canadian aviation documents, and foreign nationals, whether they are licence holders or not. Purpose: This information is used in the development of enforcement policies and procedures, functional supervision and auditing of enforcement activities by regional offices, communication with other federal departments, including the Department of Justice and the RCMP concerning enforcement of Part I of the Aeronautics Act and its regulations and various related administrative functions and for statistical Purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for five years or less where required by law or policy. PAC Number: 80-029 TBS Registration: 001045 Bank Number: DOT PPU 015

Level II Motor Vehicle Accident Data

Description: This bank contains information obtained through the process of motor vehicle collision investigations. Annually, approximately 1,000 collisions were randomly selected and investigated across Canada during the period 1982-1992 resulting in over 11,000 level II collision investigations. The data consists of 26 files of information for each collision investigated including vehicle type and damage, Driver, passenger and non-occupant condition (through interviews and police reports); personal injuries sustained (through interviews, police reports, hospital records and coroner information); vehicle defect information; safety devices in use and, accident configuration data. Class of Individuals: Persons involved in motor vehicle collisions (occupants and non-occupants). Purpose: The intended use of the information is research into the causes of highway deaths and injuries to develop countermeasures for their prevention. This will not involve matching specific people with accident information. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for continuous use and will be held indefinitely. Related to PR#: DOT DTS 275 TBS Registration: 002693 Bank Number: DOT PPU 090

Records of Sea Service for Canadian Merchant Navy

Description: This bank contains individuals' names, dates and places of birth, record of vessels and periods of service for Merchant Seafarers. The records maintained by Transport Canada cover the period commencing 1948 to present date. Records in Transport Canada are in constant use. Class of Individuals: Canadian Merchant Seafarers. Purpose: This bank is to record information on Canadian Seafarers in order to provide statements of sea service when required by seafarers and other departments. Consistent Uses: Information verifying individual's sea service is released to the Seafarers International Union of the Department of Veterans Affairs upon request. Retention and Disposal Standards: Log books are retained for 15 years in Transport Canada Archives, then forwarded to the National Archives of Canada for retention. Articles of Agreement are microfilmed in the Department at the end of every second year and the paper records are destroyed. Original rolls of microfilm are forwarded to the National Archives of Canada after 30 years. Related to PR#: DOT MSS 200 PAC Number: 77-018 TBS Registration: 001050 Bank Number: DOT PPU 040

Register of Ships

Description: This bank contains the names, addresses and citizenship of ship owners; and the names and addresses of mortgagors of ships. The bank also contains details on the ship, and on transfers of ownership, registrations and discharges of mortgages, etc. The Register may be inspected by any person for any reason. Copies of the Register may also be obtained. An annual List of Ships is published and may be purchased from Canada Communications Group. Class of Individuals: Ship owners and ship mortgagees. Purpose: The information is compiled to comply with section 7 of the Canada Shipping Act. The Register of Ships confers the right to fly the Canadian flag. Registered ships are entitled to the protection of the Crown and limitation of liability. The Register is a title system for ship ownership and registrations of mortgages. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for 20 years after closure of ship. Related to PR#: DOT MSS 215 PAC Number: 77-018 Bank TBS Registration: 002304 Bank Number: DOT PPU 041

Registry of Imported Vehicle

Description: This bank contains information about the importation of vehicles from the United States into Canada. Class of Individuals: All persons importing vehicles from the United States into Canada. Purpose: To ensure that imported vehicles comply with the Canada

Motor Vehicle Safety Standards. Retention and Disposal Standards: To be determined. TBS Registration: 003938 Bank Number: DOT PPU 275

Special Motor Vehicle Collision Investigations

Description: These reports contain findings of studies done to evaluate new safety equipment, i.e., air bags/pre-tensioners seatbelts, and the potential hazard when vehicles collide with vehicles propelled by propane or natural gas (as well as public concern over collisions involving special circumstances/user groups, e.g. school bus collisions, heavy truck collisions, etc). Class of Individuals: All persons involved in such collisions (occupants and non-occupants). Purpose: The intended use of all data is to evaluate the effectiveness of safety standards and to keep abreast of safety problems that may arise due to new technologies and the ever-changing road travel environment. Retention and Disposal Standards: These reports will be held for at least five years. TBS Registration: 002691 Bank Number: DOT PPU 092

Transportation of Dangerous Goods Inspector

Description: This form collects information regarding applicants to allow TDG to issue an inspector's certificate. Class of Individuals: Individuals that are either employees of other federal departments, the provinces, or territories and who meet the requirements for certification under Part XIII of the TDG Regulations. Purpose: Information is required as per the TDG Act, 1992 and Part XIII of the TDG Regulations for the issuance of an inspector's certificate. Consistent Uses: Information on application is required as per the TDG Act, 1992 and Part XIII of the TDG Regulations and is used for purpose of issuance of inspectors' certificates. Information on certificate portion used by inspectors as identification at facilities inspected. Retention and Disposal Standards: The documents are retained for five years and can be renewed for a subsequent five years. TBS Registration: 002689 Bank Number: DOT PPU 276

Vessel Licences

Description: This bank contains the name and address of the licence holder; and the length, breadth, depth and estimated tonnage of the vessel. Class of Individuals: Actual and previous owners of small commercial vessels. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to issue licences to, and provide identification of, owners of small commercial vessels operating in Canadian waters, rivers and lakes, and to meet the requirements of the Small Vessel Regulations. Licenses are issued by Transport Canada. The information is also used for enforcement of safety regulations, search and rescue purposes, to provide safe boating information, etc. Consistent Uses: This bank is also used by: officers of federal/provincial departments for enforcing various statutes and regulations and the issue of special licences or permits; police authorities for enforcing safety regulations and identifying stolen and missing property; operators of canals and locks for collecting fees and regulating traffic; operators of marinas for assessing dues and fees for docking facilities; yacht brokers to establish ownership when purchasing or taking vessels as trade-ins; banks and other financial institutions to identify owners of vessels pledged as security for loans; insurance companies to establish ownership before settling claims resulting from theft, loss or damage. Information held on the bank may be divulged to provincial tax authorities in accordance with federal-provincial agreements. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained indefinitely. Related to PR#: DOT MSS 215 PAC Number: 77-018 TBS Registration: 002305 Bank Number: DOT PPU 042

Transportation Safety Board of Canada

Chapter 136

Background

The Canadian Transportation Accident Investigation and Safety Board Act was proclaimed in 1990, establishing an independent multi-modal agency which is known by its applied title, "Transportation Safety Board of Canada (TSB)".

The TSB's sole object is the advancement of transportation safety. It has a mandate to do so in a number of ways, chiefly by conducting independent investigations and studies in order to identify transportation safety deficiencies and make recommendations designed to eliminate or reduce these deficiencies.

With the Board, transportation accident investigation and related functions are carried out by an agency which is independent of the government agencies responsible for the regulation and operation of transportation facilities and services.

Responsibilities

The Board's responsibilities are set out in the Canadian Transportation Accident Investigation and Safety Board Act.

The object of the Transportation Safety Board of Canada is to advance transportation safety. This is achieved by:

- conducting independent investigations and if necessary, public inquiries into air, marine, rail and pipeline occurrences in order to make findings as to their causes and contributing factors;
- reporting publicly on its investigations and public inquiries and on the related findings;
- identifying safety deficiencies as evidenced by transportation occurrences;
- making recommendations designed to eliminate or reduce any such safety deficiencies; and
- initiating and conducting special investigations and studies on matters pertaining to safety in transportation.

When it investigates an occurrence, the Transportation Safety Board of Canada has the exclusive jurisdiction to investigate for the purpose of making findings as to the causes and contributing factors; other federal agencies cannot investigate for this purpose when the TSB is investigating. The Board reports publicly on its investigations and public inquiries and on the related findings. Board reports must, wherever possible, include safety recommendations.

In making its findings as to causes and contributing factors of a transportation occurrence, it is not the function of the Board to assign fault or determine civil or criminal liability. But, the Board must not refrain from fully reporting on the causes and contributing factors merely because fault or liability might be inferred from its findings. The Act provides that no finding of the Board shall be construed as assigning fault or determining civil or criminal liability, and the findings of the Board are not binding on the parties to any legal, disciplinary or other proceedings.

The Board reports annually to Parliament through the President of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada.

Legislation

- Canadian Transportation Accident Investigation and Safety Board Act
- Canadian Transportation Accident Investigation and Safety Board Regulations

Organization

The Board

The Statute provides for a Board Consisting of up to five full-time members, including the Chairperson. The Act requires that members be collectively knowledgeable about marine, commodity pipeline, rail and air transportation. They are appointed by the Governor in Council. Members' duties include establishing policies respecting the classes of occurrences to be investigated and policies to be followed in the conduct of investigations, reviewing investigation reports, determining findings as to causes and contributing factors, identifying safety deficiencies and making safety recommendations. Reporting to the Chairperson is the Executive Director.

Executive Director

The Chairperson has delegated to the Executive Director the role and functions of a Chief Operating Officer. As such he is responsible for seeing to the day-to-day management and coordination of all TSB's activities and operations to ensure they are conducted effectively and efficiently; included are responsibilities for the acquisition and allocation of human and financial resources, and the provision of ongoing support and advice to the Chairperson.

♦ Legal Services

This area provides services with respect to all legal matters which arise in connection with TSB activities, including services and advice in connection with proceedings by or against the Board in legal or other proceedings.

Corporate Services Branch

This Branch assists operating directorates in achieving efficient, effective and economical delivery of departmental programs through provision of administrative, financial and human resource services and controls.

◆ Finance, Planning and Administration

This division provides service to the agency in financial and administrative functions. It is responsible for services and advice to management and for financial reporting and control and for security and accommodation. It ensures that there are enough controls to assure the public that these responsibilities of the agency are effectively and efficiently administered.

◆ Human Resources

Provides a full range of human resources services and controls to management and employees of the Board. This includes: advice and support to senior management on staff relations, human resources and career planning, staffing, classification, pay and benefits, official languages, management and professional development, program development and policy interpretation. Human Resources coordinates an employee assistance program.

Information Strategies & Analysis Direction

This Directorate is responsible for communicating the results of the Board's work to the public and for establishing and maintaining the informatics infrastructure to support the TSB's investigative, analytical and administrative functions. Specifically, this directorate is responsible for the following activities:

◆ Information Management

This division is responsible for providing the framework for administrative activities such as materiel management, corporate information holdings, for administering the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act including informal request for information.

◆ Communications

This division is responsible for providing advice with respect to the formulation of TSB communications policies, for establishing and implementing TSB communications strategies and plans through such activities as making public the results of the Board's work, and preparing the TSB's printed products (e.g. occurrence reports and the TSB's monthly safety digest REFLEXIONS) for publication and distribution. It is also responsible for managing administrative activities related to the preparation and coordination of Board meetings, for the coordination of report production and the administration support required by the Board for the conduct of public inquiries. It maintains the TSB's Web site. It keeps the TSB informed on the public response to current transportation safety issues and it provides communications support to the agency in meeting public and media information requests during major investigations.

◆ Human Performance

This division provides specialist support to Investigations and Macro Analysis projects. Human Performance issues include the impact of the wide domain of human factors/ergonomics on behavior, including organizational and management factors. The division is also active in the development of, and training for, tools and frameworks that aid the systematic investigation for human factors.

◆ Informatics

This division operates and maintains Canada's transportation occurrence databases and all other computer systems required in support of the Board's investigative, analytical, engineering and administrative activities.

The division develops policies and procedures for all aspects of TSB's informatics needs. It operates and maintains TSB's central computing facility and also its local and wide area networks. It supports the desktop environment at the Head Office and in the Regional Offices. With the assistance of the private sector, the Informatics Division maintains its in-house (non-commercial) software and develops new software to meet changing requirements.

◆ Macro Analysis

This division conducts macro analysis projects including cross modal studies in which trends, hazards and systemic safety deficiencies in the national transportation system are identified, analyzed and validated. Provides consultation and expert advice on current theory, methods and results related to such research. Responds to the day-to-day queries of investigators and public for occurrence data.

Investigation Operations

The Directorate is responsible for all aspects of the agency's marine, rail, pipeline and air transportation safety investigations. It is also responsible for the management of a multi modal voluntary confidential occurrence reports program (known as SECURITAS) and for developing the confidence of the transportation community in the use of this program.

◆ Air Investigation Branch

The Director of this Branch has exclusive responsibility to direct the conduct of air investigations on behalf of the Board. The investigators are experienced pilots, aircraft maintenance engineers, or air traffic controllers.

◆ Engineering Branch

This Branch specializes in laboratory testing and analysis of parts, structural components, systems, instruments, and wreckage of materials and components from transportation occurrences. Additional responsibilities include underwater search and recovery of wreckage, documentation of occurrence sites, and the extraction and interpretation of data from on-board voice and data records. The Engineering Branch has also developed expertise in document restoration, image analysis, and new investigation techniques based on photogrammetric and remote sensing technology.

♦ Marine Investigation Branch

The Director of this Branch has exclusive responsibility to direct the conduct of marine investigations on behalf of the Board. Marine investigators are experienced master mariners, chief engineers, or naval architects.

♦ Rail and Commodity Pipeline Investigation Branch

The Director of this Branch has exclusive responsibility to direct the conduct of rail and commodity pipeline investigations on behalf of the Board. Rail investigators are experienced in the many disciplines of rail operations (locomotive operations, equipment design and maintenance, roadbed, tracks and signals, operating rules, and dangerous goods). A Commodity Pipelines investigator must be familiar with pipeline design and operations as well as dangerous goods matters.

Access to Information and Privacy Requests Data Bank

Description: This bank contains request forms and letters sent by individuals to the Board under the Access to Information Act and Privacy Act. The bank also contains replies made to such requests, and all records related to the processing of these requests, including, if applicable, exemptions claimed, intervention of third parties, complaints received and reports and recommendations of the Information and Privacy Commissioners. Class of Individuals: All applicants, under the Access to Information or Privacy Act, for information controlled by the Board. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to store information about requests made under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. Consistent Uses: Compiling statistics relating to the administration of the Acts. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last administrative action. TBS Registration: 002979 Bank Number: TSB PPU 015

Applications for Employment

Description: This bank contains applications for employment with the Board. These requests usually consist of a letter and curriculum vitae. Applications are examined and considered for available or future positions.

Class of Individuals: General public. Purpose: This information was not solicited but was provided voluntarily by individuals seeking employment with the Board.

Retention and Disposal Standards: These records are retained in the Board for one year, then destroyed. TBS Registration: 002980 Bank Number: TSB PPU 010

Confidential Reporting

Description: This bank was established to encourage members of the transportation community to report hazards and possible safety deficiencies with a view to preventing accidents and incidents. Class of Individuals: Crew members, maintenance employees, traffic controllers, etc and the general public. Purpose: To identify safety deficiencies in the national transportation system. Consistent Uses: Compiling statistics analyzing information and drafting Recommendations designed to prevent accidents and incidents. Retention and Disposal Standards: 20 years; but, pursuant to the Regulations, information provided to the Board on the identity of the reporter is returned within ten clear days from receipt of the report and no record of the identity of the person making the report, or any information that could reveal his or her identity is retained. TBS Registration: 002977 Bank Number: TSB PPU 020

Investigation Files – Marine, Rail, Pipeline, Air

Description: Accident/incident files contain information gathered during the course of an investigation, and may contain personal information on individuals eg. Medical, autopsy and other information on victims, passengers and crew members; traffic control and on-board recordings; witness statements and the presumptive language of analysis, including references to unsafe acts. During the field phase, all basic information is documented. SOME OF THIS INFORMATION IS CAPTURED AND STORED IN ONE OF THE FOUR MODAL DATABASES (ASIS- Air, MARSIS-Marine, RODS-Rail and PODS-Pipeline) Safety deficiency notifications are prepared, laboratory examinations are requested to test and analyze material and metallurgical component failures, and when required, specimens from surviving or deceased crew are analyzed at a medical laboratory. Class of Individuals: Individuals involved in transportation occurrences. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to enhance existing transportation safety programs by identifying safety deficiencies, by identifying anomalies and trends, and by making recommendations designed to eliminate or reduce safety deficiencies. Consistent Uses: Compiling statistics relating to the administration of the Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are kept for 20 years. THE INFORMATION IN THE FOUR MODAL DATABASES IS KEPT INDEFINITELY. TBS Registration: 002981 Bank Number: TSB PPU 005

Mailing Lists

Description: This bank contains mailing lists with the names and addresses of individuals, pilots, academics, media organizations, firms, companies, etc. Class of Individuals: Pilots, marine masters, railway personnel, pipeline companies, transportation unions, engineers, academics, government officials, transportation training schools and the general public. Purpose: To maintain standard lists of individuals, organizations, groups, businesses etc for the purpose of mailing publications, reports, news letters, press release and other documentation of Board activities and programs.

Consistent Uses: The information is used to mail and distribute documentation to individuals on the mailing lists. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are updated continuously to keep abreast of any changes. TBS Registration: 002978 Bank Number: TSB PPU 025

Treasury Board of Canada Secretariat

Chapter 137

Background

The Treasury Board, a committee of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada, was established in 1867. The Board consists of the President of Treasury Board, the Minister of Finance and four other ministers nominated by the Governor in Council. The Treasury Board of Canada Secretariat (TBS or the Secretariat), the administrative arm of the Treasury Board, is headed by a Secretary and Comptroller General, who reports to the President of the Treasury Board. The Secretariat was part of the Department of Finance Canada until 1966, when it became a separate department.

Responsibilities

The Secretariat has a dual mandate: to support the Treasury Board as a committee of ministers and to fulfil the statutory responsibilities of a central government agency. This entails providing operational programs to carry out the legislated responsibilities of the Treasury Board. These responsibilities derive from the broad authority of sections 5 – 13 of the Financial Administration Act, as well as the authorities in other Acts, including: the Public Service Staff Relations Act, the Employment Equity Act, the Official Languages Act, the Access to Information Act, the Privacy Act, the Federal Real Property Act, and the Public Service Employment Act. The Secretariat's responsibilities for the general management of the government cross all policy sectors managed by 22 operating departments and many other organizational entities as reported in the Main Estimates.

The role of the Secretariat is to define and develop modern governance at the federal level. Although the accountability for Public Service management increasingly rests with departments, the Treasury Board of Canada and its Secretariat provide strategic leadership in Public Service management and reform through a management board role. That role emphasises results-based management and facilitation, essential central controls, and intervention when necessary.

The mission of the Secretariat is to support the Treasury Board and to help the Government of Canada operate effectively within available resources. The Secretariat implements the policies developed by the Treasury Board as the manager of the Public Service and manages the human, financial, information technology, and material resources that support it. This is carried out by several sectors of the Secretariat, described below under "Organization".

Organization

Chief Human Resources Officer, Human Resources Branch (HRB)

The Chief Human Resources Officer provides a framework that enables managers to better manage the people who deliver government programs and promotes effective employer-employee relations in the Public Service of Canada.

Specific areas of responsibility include general personnel management; human resources planning; Official Languages Program; Negotiation of collective agreements; Employment Equity, pensions and insurance benefits; policy administration and development; training and development; developmental programs; deployment; performance management; equal pay for work of equal value; pay administration and employer representation; job classification and compensation; workforce adjustment; planning and analysis; and values and ethics.

The following eight sectors: 1) Human Resources Management; 2) Labour Relations; 3) Official Languages; 4) Employment Equity; 5) Pensions; 6) Strategic Planning and Analysis; 7) Universal Classification Standard, and 8) Values and Ethics work together to develop, communicate and provide for the implementation and evaluation of the personnel policies, systems and methods necessary to ensure that the human resources needed to carry out government programs effectively are obtained at competitive cost, and are managed and developed efficiently.

Chief Information Officer Branch (CIOB)

The Chief Information Officer (CIO) is responsible for determining and implementing a strategy that will accomplish government's information management (IM) and information technology (IT) goals. The role of the CIO includes: providing leadership, co-ordination and broad direction in the use of IT/IM; facilitating enterprise-wide solutions to horizontal IT/IM issues; serving as technology strategist and expert advisor to Treasury Board Ministers and senior officials across government.

The following thirteen divisions of the Chief Information Officer Branch work together to support the CIO in her/his role: Deputy Chief Information Officer; Strategic IM/IT Infrastructure; Architecture; Shared Systems; IT Procurement Reform; Strategic Directions and Communications; Information Policy; Public Key Infrastructure; Community Renewal; Portfolio Management; Government On-Line; Enhanced Management Framework for IT; and Post-Year 2000.

Communications and Executive Services (CES)

The CES Division is the focal point, in the Secretariat, for ensuring that the President, Secretary and exempt staff are provided with the briefing, correspondence and logistical support related to Treasury Board meetings, parliamentary affairs, and dealings with other government departments and non-governmental organizations. The Division manages and coordinates the Treasury Board's meetings; coordinates the Secretariat's access to information and privacy activities; tracks and assists in the preparation of replies to correspondence addressed to the President; and provides support to the President's office on financial, human resources and administrative matters.

The CES Division also provides strategic communications advice to the President and the Secretary of the Treasury Board as well as other branches within the Secretariat. As part of this effort, it provides policies and guidelines on communications, advertising, publishing, and public opinion research. Its communicators provide strategic direction through communications plans, write and produce news releases, media lines, speeches and presentations in support of Secretariat communications activities. The Division provides an electronic media monitoring service to Treasury Board Secretariat. Research and analysis of issues as well as media relations activities are also performed to facilitate the department's communications efforts. The Division liaises with the Privy Council Office and other departments on government-wide activities and issues. It also provides a sharp internal communications focus producing an employee newsletter and other corporate communications products and services. It also manages the TBS corporate Website.

Comptrollership Branch (CB)

The CB's primary goal is to support "getting government right" through modern comptrollership. Modern comptrollership implies vigorous stewardship of public resources, a high standard of ethics, and provision for appropriate parliamentary oversight. To deliver affordable and high quality services to Canadians, managers need flexibility, incentives, and information. The focus of modern comptrollership, therefore, is on results, accountability, and managing risk.

The CB consists of the Deputy Comptroller General's Office, Internal Audit, Community Development and Special Projects, and three sectors, namely: 1) Risk, Procurement and Asset Management Policy Sector – leader in contract policy, project, materiel and risk management, real property management; 2) Planning, Performance and Reporting Sector – focal point for performance measurement and results reporting, and comptrollership modernization; 3) Financial Management Policy and Analysis Sector – leader in financial management standards, government accounting, cost recovery, financial and economic analysis, a special project on partnering with the voluntary sector, and management of accounts receivable

Corporate Renewal and Knowledge Management Office (CRKMO)

The Corporate Renewal and Knowledge Management Office was created in February 1998. Its primary goal is to assist in managing change within TBS as the Secretariat clarifies its responsibilities and realigns its organization and operations in order to discharge its responsibilities as the federal government's Management Board.

Responsibilities of the CRKMO include developing a framework for continuous corporate learning and change management, working with sponsored employees to develop career strategies, developing a plan for recruitment of diverse professionals, the creation of learning or peer networks in key areas of practice, and succession planning.

Corporate Services Branch (CSB)

The branch jointly assists the Deputy Minister of Finance and the Secretary and Comptroller General of the Treasury Board Secretariat in the internal administration of their departments, and provides financial, human resources, informatics and administrative support to the branches of the two departments. The Corporate Services Branch is also responsible for a number of other activities, task force organization and co-ordination of the Canada Savings Bonds and United Way campaigns. The Branch is composed of six divisions: Administrative Services Division; Financial Services Division; Human Resources Division; Informatics Services Division; Security Services Division and Business and Technology Integration Division.

Expenditure and Management Strategies (EAMS) Sector

The role of the Expenditure and Management Strategies Sector is focused on providing pro-active support within TBS to make the management board concept operational. In fostering a management board approach, the Sector will support TBS's operations in two broad areas: ensuring an integrated approach to major TBS policies and significant TBS initiatives with cross-sectoral implications; and developing strategies for TBS's expenditure management responsibilities and the resolution of major individual expenditure issues.

EAMS also serves as secretariat to the TBS Operations Committee. This committee was established specifically to support the Secretary and Deputy Secretary, as well as the Senior Management Committee and the Treasury Board Secretariat Advisory Committee, on management board related issues.

Infrastructure – National Office

The October 1999 Speech from the Throne announced a new vision of 21st century infrastructure for Canada, including knowledge, information, cultural, and physical infrastructure. The 2000 Federal Budget confirmed an allocation of 2.65 billion in funding over six years for the physical infrastructure program. This includes $100 million in 2000-2001, $350 million in 2001-2002 and $550 million per year for the remaining four years. In the final four years, $400 million will be allocated to municipal infrastructure and up to $150 million for highway infrastructure.

This new infrastructure program has two components: municipal infrastructure, called Infrastructure Canada and a highways component (administered by Transport Canada). The President of the Treasury Board is the Minister who has overall responsibility for Infrastructure Canada, which is intended to make physical infrastructure investments that enhances the quality of Canada's environment, support long-term economic growth or improve community infrastructure and introduce best technologies, new approaches and best practices where feasible. Its primary focus is on green municipal infrastructure. This could include such core projects as municipal water and waste-water treatment, as well as other projects which will protect and/or enhance the quality of our environment. Other priorities include affordable housing, culture, tourism and recreation, rural and remote telecommunications, high-speed access for local public institutions and local transportation. On average, the federal government will contribute one third of the cost for municipal infrastructure projects. The remaining funds will come from a combination of other sources such as provincial, territorial and municipal governments. The private sector and others, such as non-governmental organizations, may also be considered as partners for projects through public/private arrangements.

In support of the President and Ministers, the National Office co-ordinates the activities of the program, negotiates formal agreements with the Provinces and Territories and provides functional direction to implementing agencies. It will also build and maintain a national web-based shared information management system that will become the central source of information on the status of Infrastructure projects for Ministers, Members of Parliament and others.

Program delivery is the responsibility of implementing departments and agencies such as the Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency, Western Economic Diversification Canada, Economic Development Agency of Canada for the Regions of Quebec, Indian and Northern Affairs Canada, and Industry Canada. These organizations work with provincial and territory counterparts to make infrastructure investments in accordance with the Programs goals and priorities

Legal Services

Treasury Board Legal Services provides legal advice to the Treasury Board and the President with respect to their powers and duties. The Unit, staffed by Department of Justice lawyers, supports the Treasury Board Secretariat in its role as board of management of the Public Service of Canada by ensuring that the conduct of government affairs is in accordance with the law.

Legal Services lawyers give specialized legal advice to the Treasury Board Secretariat and the Government of Canada in connection with the Secretariat's central agency functions pertaining to the legislation for which the Treasury Board and the President of the Treasury Board is responsible. The Legal Services Unit provides advice with respect to the enactment of and the amendment to legislation and regulations, as well as strategic advice concerning policy development and other initiatives. The Unit conducts litigation before the Public Service Staff Relations Board and other administrative tribunals, the Federal Court – Trial Division, the Federal Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court of Canada in support of the Treasury Board's role as employer of the Public Service of Canada.

Office of the Secretary and Comptroller General

The Secretary and Comptroller General is the deputy minister who directs the work of the Secretariat and advises the President and the Board on the organization and management of that part of the Public Service under the Treasury Board's jurisdiction. The Office of the Secretary and Comptroller General is responsible for the daily administrative functions of the organization.

Program Sectors (Government Operations, Economic and Social and Cultural Sectors)

The Program Sectors support the Treasury Board in its role as a management board by providing analysis and advice on strategic resource allocation for the departments and agencies of government. In fulfilling this role, the Program Sectors provide advice on the effective use of resources; program design, viability and responsiveness; funding pressures and mitigation strategies; and broad government operations issues and management strategies. The Program Sectors also play a lead role in relation to the oversight of the operations of Crown Corporations. These three sectors, along with the Expenditure Analysis & Operations Sector of the Comptrollership Branch, work together in making recommendations to the Treasury Board on allocating financial resources in light of government priorities, fiscal targets, pressures relating to existing programs and results achieved; developing and maintaining accountability frameworks within which Parliament approves resources and in light of which departments and agencies report on their use, thereby coordinating the process whereby the government obtains funds from Parliament; monitoring the implementation of approved policies and programs, and advising the Treasury Board on success in achieving intended results; advising the Treasury Board President, in her role as a member of Cabinet, on the resource implications of new government policy and project initiatives while promoting innovative management and increased efficiency and effectiveness in delivering programs; and providing analysis and recommendations to the Treasury Board on Crown corporation corporate plans and budgets.

The Government Operations Sector is also responsible for information policy responsibilities related to the Access to Information Act, the Privacy Act and the Security Policy of the Government of Canada. In this capacity, it supports the President of the Treasury Board, as "designated Minister", who is responsible for government-wide administration of the Acts pursuant to sections 5 and 70 of the Access to Information Act and sections 11 and 71 of the Privacy Act. The Security Policy addresses, in an integrated fashion, the various aspects of security including personnel, physical, administrative and information technology, the management of information technology assets, the integrity of information and related processes, the availability of information, systems and services, in addition to confidentiality.

Service & Innovation (S&I) Sector

The Service and Innovation Sector was created in February 1998, when the government made it a priority to adopt a 'citizen-centred' approach to service delivery.

The mandate of the Service and Innovation Sector is to lead government-wide initiatives to improve the delivery of government services and to develop expertise on service and innovation. It will build on the many new initiatives currently underway throughout government and will develop policy frameworks to promote continuous performance improvements in program and service delivery. This new citizen focus builds on and broadens previous service initiatives to include integrated approaches to service delivery such as single windows and partnerships, including partnerships with other levels of government. The sector is working with other federal departments and agencies to facilitate the rethinking and redesign of program and service delivery from a citizen-centred perspective to better respond to the needs of Canadians and to meet other key government objectives: more responsive and results-oriented governance; improved cost-effectiveness; collaboration and citizen engagement.

The Sector incorporates the key elements needed to develop a government-wide strategy centred on citizens' needs. These divisions are:

- Innovation and Quality Services (IQS) Division
- Alternative Service Delivery (ASD) Division
- Crown Corporation Policy & Information (CCPI) Division
- Service Canada Implementation Team
- Corporate Identity and Government Communications Division
- International Programs Unit
- Federal Councils' Secretariat
- Planning and Integration Division

The Sector's challenge is to develop integrated approaches to service delivery, improve access to government services, improve service performance and citizen satisfaction with the quality of government service delivery, reduce red tape, strengthen innovation and organizational effectiveness, and strengthen accountability for performance. Two main government-wide initiatives approved by TB Ministers are underway:

Service Canada: an initiative to establish one-stop access to a broad range of Government of Canada (GoC) services and information through three integrated delivery channels: in-person, telephone and Internet;

Service Improvement Initiative: an initiative to achieve a minimum 10% improvement in Canadians' satisfaction with the delivery of GoC services by 2005.

Staff Ombudsman

In March 1998, the office of the Staff Ombudsman was created to provide an informal process for dealing with employee concerns and problems. These include, but are not limited to, unfair practices or systems, the conduct of other employees and issues of ethical behaviour, such as conflict of interest or activities that seem to be contrary to public service values and the public interest. The Staff Ombudsman is appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury Board pursuant to subsection 6(1) of the Public Service Employment Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. P-32, and reports directly to the Secretary. The Staff Ombudsman's role is flexible and will consist of at least the following six responsibilities: Advisor; Information Source; Intervenor/Mediator; Consultant; On-site Visits; and Reports. It is important to note that the office of the Ombudsman is a two-year pilot initiative during which the services of the Staff Ombudsman will be available to all employees of the Treasury Board Secretariat, at all levels, including managers.

Delivery of Government Services (Old files from the obsolete Administrative Policy Branch (APB))

Description: "Stretching the Tax Dollar: Making the Organization More Efficient" and "Stretching the Tax dollar: Make or Buy?" are tools to help Public Service employees save taxpayers dollars in their every day activities. Managers and staff in many federal departments and agencies contributed to developing these guides and tested them on operational programs.

Departments identified ways to increase efficiency and reduce costs. "Stretching the Tax Dollar – Make the Organization More Efficient" sets out an approach managers can use to determine how to deliver quality government services at least costs. The methodology involves conducting a preliminary assessment, specifying the results expected, assessing service delivery options, and designing the most efficient in-house approach. "Stretching the Tax Dollar – Make or Buy?" helps managers compare the cost of providing services in-house with the cost of contracting out. The process involves getting the costs right, ensuring an objective assessment and comparing similar services. Topics: Employee take-over; foreign; liaison with departments and agencies; make or buy; most efficient organization (MEO); Nielsen Task Force (ministerial task force on program review); Public Service 2000; restructuring. Program Record Number: TBS S&I 229

This network is made-up of a toll-free number (1 800 O-Canada), the Government of Canada primary web site (www.Canada.gc.ca) and over 120 in-person access centres. These access centres have been established across the country in selected Human Resources Development Canada, Canada Post, Canadian Heritage, Industry Canada, and Canada Customs and Revenue Agency offices. Citizens are afforded the personal service of a qualified representative who can provide information about programs, answers to questions and referral to specific services. Representatives also facilitate access to the Canada Site (Internet) and the Government Enquiry Centre (1 800 O-Canada). Thirty-five of the most used Government of Canada forms and publications are also available at access centres. In addition, Service Canada is sponsoring a number of developmental electronic services and telephony projects. The objective of these is to test innovative service delivery approaches such as integrating information on the Internet for specific target groups (e.g. consumers) and developing new electronic tools to improve access on the web sites. Topics: Community Networks; Federal-Provincial Initiatives partnerships; Canadian Consumer Information Gateway; Lost Wallet. Program Record Number: TBS S&I 595

Trois-Rivières Port Authority

Chapter 138

Background

The Trois-Rivières Port Authority was created on May 1, 1999 by letters patent issued on that date by the Minister of Transport pursuant to Section 8 of the Canada Marine Act. Therefore, the Trois-Rivières Port Authority is a Canadian Port Authority and an agent of Her Majesty in right of Canada within the framework of the Canada Marine Act.

Before May 1, 1999 the Trois-Rivières Port Authority was a non corporate port within the meaning of the Canada Ports Corporation Act and was called the « Port of Trois-Rivières ».

Responsibilities

The Port of Trois-Rivières contributes to the implementation of a National Marine Policy that provides Canada with the marine infrastructure that it needs and that offers effective support for the achievement of local, regional and national social and economic objectives and will promote and safeguard Canada's competitiveness and trade objectives.

Navigable waters under the jurisdiction of the Trois-Rivières Port Authority as well as federal real property under its management and other federal real property occupied or held by it are listed in Schedules « A » and « B » to its letters patent.

The Trois-Rivières Port Authority has the powers of a natural person and its authority to operate a port is limited to the power to engage in port activities related to shipping, navigation, transportation of passengers and goods and handling of storage of and goods, to the extent that those activities are specified in the letters patent and other activities that are deemed in the letters patent to be necessary to support port operations.

Among its rights and obligations the Trois-Rivières Port Authority must see to the management of federal real property and personal property and any rights related thereto. It may set the fees to be paid in respect of ships, vehicles, aircraft and persons coming into or using the port and the goods and services it provides or any privilege conferred by it. As for order and safety, the Trois-Rivières Port Authority shall take appropriate measures for the maintenance of order and the safety of persons and property in the port.

Legislation

- Canada Marine Act, S.C. 1998, chapter 10
- Port Authorities Management Regulations
- Letters Patent of the Trois-Rivières Port Authority

Background

Nearly 1,750,000 men and women served in wartime for Canada. Approximately 116,000 died and 229,000 were wounded as a result of war. The Veterans Affairs Portfolio is responsible for commemorating their sacrifice and for assisting eligible persons who belong to any of the following groups:

- Armed Forces personnel and Merchant Navy veterans who served in the First and Second World Wars and in the United Nations operations – Korea – 1950-53;
- Certain civilians who are entitled to benefits because of their wartime service;
- Allied veterans who had Canadian pre-war domicile;
- Former and, in certain cases, current members of the Canadian Forces including those who have served in Special Duty Areas;
- Survivors and dependants of the above; and
- Former and, in certain cases, current members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.
- At March 31, 1998, Canada's veteran population was estimated at 434,000, of whom approximately 42,000 were women. One in every five men in Canada aged 65 and over was a war veteran. The average age of Canada's veteran population was 76.

Responsibilities

The mission of the Veterans Affairs Portfolio is to provide veterans, qualified civilians and their families with the benefits and services to which they are entitled; to promote their well-being and self-sufficiency as participating members of their communities; and to keep the memory of their achievements and sacrifices alive for all Canadians.

Veterans Affairs Portfolio is responsible for the administration of 16 acts and 30 sets of regulations and orders. These instruments authorize the Minister of Veterans Affairs to provide support for the economic, social, mental and physical well-being of veterans, their dependants, and other eligible persons. The range of benefits and services provided includes disability pensions, economic support, legal advocacy, health care, commemorative activities and grants, and management of property contracts.

The Veterans Review and Appeal Board Act provides the Veterans Review and Appeal Board with authority to determine, and deal with, all applications for review and all appeals that may be made to the Board under the Pension Act, the War Veterans Allowance Act or other acts of Parliament.

Organization

The Veterans Affairs Portfolio consists of Veterans Affairs Canada and the Veterans Review and Appeal Board. The Minister of Veterans Affairs is responsible to Parliament for Veterans Affairs Canada. The Chair of the Veterans Review and Appeal Board reports to Parliament through the Minister of Veterans Affairs.

Veterans Affairs Canada is made up of two branches (Veterans Services Branch and Corporate Services Branch), the Bureau of Pensions Advocates, three divisions (Communications Division, Portfolio Executive Services and Corporate Planning Division) and five other offices (Benefits Redesign Project, Health Care Co-ordination Initiative, Legal Services Unit, Office of Conflict Resolution and Ste. Anne's Hospital Transfer Project), which report to the Deputy Minister of Veterans Affairs.

Personal information contained in Veterans Affairs Canada's personal information banks is used by all components of the Portfolio.

Veterans Affairs Canada

♦ Benefits and Services Business Line

Benefits Redesign Project Team

This office is responsible for the development and implementation of a new, integrated Client Service Delivery Network to support the delivery of benefits and services associated with the Disability Pensions, Economic Support and Health Care program areas of the Department.

Bureau of Pensions Advocates

The Chief Pensions Advocate is responsible for the Pensions Advocacy service line within the Benefits and Services business line. The Bureau provides free legal aid to persons who seek, through the review and appeal processes with the Veterans Review and Appeal Board, to establish claims under the Pension Act and related statutes.

Veterans Services Branch

This branch is responsible for and maintains functional and line authority over program operations of the Pensions and Allowances, Health Care and Commemoration service lines within the Benefits and Services business line. The branch provides adjudication and delivery of pension, economic support and health care benefits to veterans and other eligible persons in all regions of Canada. It is responsible for counselling clients on disability pension applications, adjudicating on disability pension claims and setting adjudicative policy. Health care is provided to eligible veterans in the departmental hospital at Ste-Anne-de-Bellevue, Quebec, in contract hospital beds, in community beds, and in veterans' homes. Emergency and ongoing income support, social counselling and referral services are also provided. The branch is also responsible for program development, policy and the continuing review of the programs it delivers. It maintains functional and line authority over program operations within the health care, pensions, and economic support activities.

It is also responsible for negotiating with the provinces and for delivering certain other centrally managed programs including commemoration.

♦ Corporate Administration Business Line

Communications Division

This Division manages Portfolio communications policies and programs, and is responsible for providing communications advice, planning and services, notably in the areas of public and media relations, public environment monitoring, media training, information services, and publishing. Portfolio library services are also included in this division.

Corporate Planning Division

The division supports the Portfolio by: carrying out long-term, strategic and operational planning; providing advice on resource management, planning methods and practices, and departmental issues; investigating options for alternative service delivery; and co-ordinating the development and implementation of Central Agency initiatives such as Quality Service, Sustainable Development and Strategy and producing reports supporting the Expenditure Management System. It is also responsible for providing departmental statistics and other management information, ongoing development and maintenance of the Corporate Information System as well as ongoing development of Service Standards. The division also provides corporate secretariat services for the Knowledge Economy Partnership.

Corporate Services Branch

This branch is responsible for ensuring the effective and efficient use and protection of the Portfolio's financial, human, information, materiel and information technology resources; conducting internal audits, program evaluations and reviews for all Veterans Affairs operations; administering property agreements with participating veterans and assisting veterans settled under the Veterans' Land Act; providing Portfolio support services, e.g. records and facilities management and videoconferencing; planning and execution of business resumption, security and emergency preparedness measures; processing of requests and activities related to the Access to Information and Privacy Acts; employment equity and official languages programs; and co-ordinating locally shared services initiatives.

Health Care Co-ordination Initiative Secretariat

This office is responsible for providing secretariat services to the seven other federal government departments participating in the promotion of collective efforts in areas of common interest. The aim is to obtain a satisfactory level of specific health care supplies and services for federal clients at the lowest possible cost, through co-ordination of efforts.

Legal Service Unit

Three Department of Justice lawyers, including the Senior Legal Advisor, provide legal advice to the Department.

Office of Conflict Resolution

This office is responsible for helping Portfolio managers and employees create and maintain a workplace free from all forms of conflict and harassment.

Portfolio Executive Services

This division is responsible for providing executive services to the Associate Deputy Minister, to the Deputy Minister, and the Minister. It is also responsible for ensuring policy consistency in internal and external policies, and liaising with veterans' organizations, Parliamentary committees, and central agencies. The division is also responsible for ensuring that government policy is reflected in legislation and regulations.

Ste. Anne's Hospital Transfer Project Team

This office is responsible for the negotiation of the transfer of Ste. Anne's Hospital to the Province of Quebec while ensuring that eligible veterans continue to have access to quality long-term care services, consistent with those provided to veterans across Canada.

Veterans Review and Appeal Board – Associated Agency

♦ Veterans Review and Appeal Board Business Line

Veterans Review and Appeal Board

The Veterans Review and Appeal Board is an independent, quasi-judicial agency established by Parliament in 1995.

The Board considers reviews and appeals arising under the Pension Act, the War Veterans Allowance Act, the Veterans Review and Appeal Board Act, the Merchant Navy Veterans and Civilian War-related Benefits Act, and other related statutes.

Within the Veterans Affairs Portfolio, the Board is the final level for pension appeals from decisions made at the review level by the Board itself, and War Veterans Allowance appeals from decisions taken by regional Review Committees of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

♦ Common Records

Veterans Affairs shares the program records listed under this section with the Veterans Review Appeal Board.

Western Economic Diversification Canada

Chapter 141

Background

The Department of Western Economic Diversification (WD) was established by the Western Economic Diversification Act (S.C. 1988, c. 17) on June 28, 1988. Some of the programs now under the Department's mandate were transferred from the Department of Regional Industrial Expansion.

Responsibilities

The Department is responsible for federal economic development activities in Western Canada and works in partnership with provinces, business, industry associations and communities to stimulate and diversify the economy in the West. In pursuit of this mandate, WD administers eight core programs:

- Advocacy
- National Programs
- Targeted Business Services
- Service Partnerships
- Capital Services
- Legacy Programs
- Strategic Initiatives
- Information Services

These programs are then grouped into three main focus areas:

Representation

To represent western interest in national decision-making, WD administers a two-tiered advocacy program – the first one focus on federal procurements and the other on policies and programs affecting economic development in western Canada. Advocacy is central to the mandate of WD and integral to the delivery of all its program. WD also takes a leadership role in federal-provincial relations in the field of economic development and provides advice to the Ministers on western business issues and relevant provincial government concerns and priorities;

Coordination

WD coordinates federal economic activities in the West through the following:

Service Partnerships: alternative service delivery arrangements to meet the needs of small business; including the development of the Western Canada Business Service Network; an alliance of Community Futures

Development Corporations, Women's Enterprise Centres, Canada Business Service Centres and WD offices;

Strategic Initiatives: public-private partnerships, federal-provincial and tripartite economic development initiatives to address key competitiveness challenges;

National Programs: delivery of national economic development programs, including the Infrastructure Works Program and special community economic adjustment initiatives such as military base closures; and

Legacy Programs: administration and recovery of the portfolio of outstanding loans.

Development and Diversification

To develop and diversify the western economy, WD delivers three groups of direct services to clients:

Capital Services: targeted innovative loan/investment programs, offered in cooperation with private and public sector financial institutions and other assistance in accessing conventional loan financing and equity investment for SMEs. Currently, the loans funds offered are for nine different sectors: advanced materials and advanced manufacturing technology, advanced technology, agriculture, biotechnology, environmental technology, health, information technology, knowledge-based and tourism.

Targeted Business Services: assistance to SMEs to develop business plans, access exports and public sector markets and initiatives to streamline small business regulations. WD and its partners also offer four programs to provide assistance to entrepreneurs with their business goals. They are:

- Entrepreneurs with Disabilities Program – focused on providing entrepreneurs with disabilities the services they require to pursue their business goals;
- Western Youth Entrepreneur Program – assist youth between the ages of 18 and 35 who have a creative business idea or plan with access to loans up to $10,000;
- First Jobs in Science and Technology – provides SMEs with funding to hire recent science and technology graduates to help companies adopt new technologies;
- International Trade Personnel Program (ITPP) – provides SMEs with qualified post-secondary graduates to work on international trade development projects.

Information Services: information products and services tailored to the needs of small business in western Canada.

Legislation

- Industrial and Regional Development Act
- Small Businesses Loans Act
- Special Areas Act
- Western Economic Diversification Act, S.C. 1988, c. 17

Organization

The Department's Head Office is located in Edmonton, Alberta and is under the leadership of a Deputy Minister. The Head Office is co-located with the Regional Office for Alberta. There are also Regional Offices located in each of the other western provinces, in Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Vancouver, and a Corporate Office is located in Ottawa.

Under the direction of an Assistant Deputy Minister, supported by a dedicated secretariat, each Office has functional leadership of one or more of the business lines/program delivery areas, as follows:

Assistant Deputy Minister, Alberta

- Service Partnership
- Strategic Initiatives

Assistant Deputy Minister, Manitoba

- Capital Services

Assistant Deputy Minister, Saskatchewan

- Information Services

Assistant Deputy Minister, British Columbia

- Targeted Business Services

Assistant Deputy Minister, Ottawa

- National Programs
- Legacy Programs

In addition, Regional Assistant Deputy Ministers are responsible for the regional delivery of all WD programs and services, and for line management of all regional administrative and support services. The Assistant Deputy Minister (Ottawa) has responsibility for Policy, Planning and Industrial Regional Benefits, Consultations, Marketing and Communications, Executive Services, and Finance-Information Management-Access to Information. The Human Resources Management, Legal Services and Audit and Evaluation branches report directly to the Deputy Minister.

The Department reports to the Minister of Industry, who is assisted by the Secretary of State (Western Economic Diversification).

Yukon Surface Rights Board

Chapter 143

Background

The Yukon Surface Rights Board (the 'Board') was established in 1995 under Chapter 8 of the Umbrella Final Agreement for the Council of Yukon First Nations via federal legislation, the Yukon Surface Rights Board Act c.43.

Responsibilities

The Board is a quasi-judicial tribunal that hears disputes between surface and sub-surface rights holders as well as other related matters in the Yukon.

Legislation

- Yukon Surface Rights Board Act
- Yukon Quartz Mining Act
- Yukon Placer Mining Act

Organization

Chapter 8 of the Umbrella Final Agreement allows for up to 10 members on the Board, half of which are nominated by the Council of Yukon First Nations and the other half by the federal government. The Chair of the Board is appointed by the Minister of the Department of Indian and Northern Development on the recommendation of the Board members. The Board is presently comprised of 4 members and a chair.

Yukon Territory Water Board

Chapter 144

General Information

Background

The Yukon Territory Water Board was established by the Northern Inland Waters Act in 1970, which was replaced by the Yukon Waters Act in 1993.

Responsibilities

The responsibility of the Yukon Territory Water Board is to manage and protect the Yukon's surface and sub-surface water resources. Water Use Licences are issued for Type A and Type B projects. Type A projects have a greater potential for adverse environmental impacts. Project undertakings include quartz and placer mining hydropower generation, municipal use, agriculture, conservation, recreation and several miscellaneous projects such as culvert installation. Public hearings are mandatory for Type A applications and optional for Type B.

A licence issued by the Board generally contains terms and conditions which reflect a balance between protection of the water resources and their exploitation as proposed by the applicant. Type A licences require the approval of the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development.

The Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development enforces the terms and conditions of Water Use Licences.

Legislation

- Regulations approved by Governor in Council in 1993
- Yukon Waters Act

Organization

The Yukon Territory Water Board has a maximum of nine members, who are appointed by the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. The Government of Yukon and Yukon First Nations nominate up to three members each. The Board includes a Secretariat, consisting of six employees of the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development.
